

*Now I can make up my own songs
And go ābout alone,
And hear strange tales in foreign tongues
Of people not my own ;*

*Yet all the new alluring strains,
Wherever I may go,
Are blended with the old refrains
That sound of long ago.*