

Volume V.—Over six hundred double-column pages, quarto, richly embellished with fine art steel, stone and wood engravings, including scenery, cities, portraits, etc., and embracing a general civil and political history of the Dominion for the five years commencing with the return to power of the Rt. Hon. Sir John A. Macdonald, in 1878. To be published in 1883, uniform in style and price with the other volumes.

Future Volumes will be published one for each succeeding five years, as long as the author lives, and no doubt thereafter by others who shall succeed him.

Thus, indeed, it may be seen that Mr. TUTTLE has entered upon a great national work, one in which he has a right to expect the most hearty co-operation of the people. Certainly no one will fail to discriminate in favor of his work, as against the cheap histories of Canada with which the market is just now being flooded, most of which have been hurriedly compiled with second-hand engravings, and none of which have been produced at one-tenth the cost of a single volume of this work.

It is a matter of satisfaction that Mr. TUTTLE's work, so far as published, has met with the most hearty commendation of the press, and received the highest praise of the most distinguished scholars in all professions, both in Canada, England, and the United States.

NON-PARTISAN.—Mr. TUTTLE has never entered politics, and has no political ends to serve in his literary pursuits. He will, therefore, throughout the whole work maintain strict impartiality in the treatment of all questions of politics.
