

xxviii. 20. The sermon, which showed great originality and depth of thought, was listened to with the most profound attention. Mr. Murray dwelt particularly on the first head of his discourse, showing that the apostolic ministry is not what it is held up to be by Romanists and Puseyites: 2nd what is the test of an apostolic minister. Mr. Allan then gave a most warm-hearted and affectionate address to the minister, and a most solemn and faithful address to the congregation on their relative duties to each other. After which the congregation gave the newly inducted pastor a most cordial welcome by coming forward individually, and affectionately shaking hands with him. We have thus again obtained the man of our choice—the man around whom our affections seem especially to cluster; and while we feel exceedingly thankful that in the Providence of God Mr. Crawford is once more our pastor, I earnestly hope that we may do all we can to encourage him in his work and pray for success to attend his labours, and if the present indication of prosperity continue we can have no doubt but this section of the congregation will soon become much stronger than it has ever been.— And God even our own God will bless us, and make our pastor and congregation a blessing to the whole of this section of the Island.

Yours truly,

WM. CRAIG McKIE.

Bay Fortune, Sept. 28th, 1859.
