SUFFERING AND SORROW SHALL SURELY COME.

Those of us who have been a long time in the service of God have already experienced that we are called upon to bear suffering and sorrow or one kind or another, and it is important that beginners, in the Christian life, should be warned in advance, that they may expect these things. "This world is no friend to grace to help us on to God." So long as a man drifts down the stream he has few difficulties to encounter, but the moment he begins to pull his boat against the current, then hard work commences. It must be admitted that the current in life is downward, the majority of people are worldly, lovers of pleasure more than of God, and when we begin to resist this evil force we run up against an sort of difficulties.

Dear Miss Grey.—I thought I would call at your Mail-Box to see if you or some of your-page readers could give me a receipt for making dandellon wine, we have such a lot of dandelions, and I would like to try the wine-making. Has anyone got the piece of music. "Darby and Joan"? I have tried all over, and can't get it. It's an English piece of music.

And, like a skilful hunter, Jimmy waited until one little Black Duck swam near the old log. And just as Jimmy Coon was crouching to spring into the water to catch that fat little, poked his head out of the water and scared that little Black Duck, so that it fluttered swiftly out of Jimmy's reach and got away safely.

And Jimmy Coon was furlous in his rage, and all his little neighbors jumped out from behind the trees and yelled after the wet and scampering Jimmy Coon: "Jimmy, dear, did you ever get left?"

CYNTHIA GREY'S MAIL BOX

lanthe Too Harsh?

for by some of your readers, I thought I would send my son's name, who is doing his bit in France. I am unable to do anything for him myself, being a cripple ever since he has been overseas. Would some kind mother who has no one fighting for country and freedom befriend my son, and send him some goodies now and then, as he does not get many from home, I being crippled. A CRIPPLED MOTHER.

Ans.—Who will be the first applicant for this young man's name? Dear Miss Grey,—It is a long time since I visited the Mail-Box, but after reading lanthe's letter I got started.

Now, lanthe, I think you were a little too harsh on "Sunflower." What "Sunflower" sent in was just the echoes of what thousands of others in the rural portion of this Dominion are saying. I have lived on a farm all my life, and I thank God that it was so, but I am not blind to our shortcomings. Our lives have become narrow, as it were. We have been bounded on one side by our husbands and children, and the rest of the way round by our crops, our herds and our fowls, and it has taken some a cruel long time to realize that we are at war, and that the gallant lads over there must both be reinforced and fed.

You see, lanthe, some, yes, too many, did not green the feat as quickly as a children and the day and as were.
