largely exhausted. Cables should come higher to-morrow, in which event I would look for a moderate recovery in our market.

Corn—Cash markets here and in outside markets were up ½c to 1c per bushel and a further advance of 15c to 25g in hogs contributed to the strength of the futures. Selling of the latter was scattered, while the buying was again by the stronger interests in the trade. The country is not selling as freely as was expected since cold weather, and complaints of the quality and quantity of the new crop are increasing. The upward indemnities alone checked the upward movement to-day and prices should be still higher to-morrow.

Oats—Cash oats were up about ½c and receipts small. Futures advanced a fraction with corn. The market closed strong with suggestion of still higher prices before the end of the week.
