

J. KENDRICK BANGS AT EMPIRE CLUB

American Humorists Feels Himself at Home in Canada, and Shows It.

"I'm not so far away from home when I'm in Canada," said John Kendrick Bangs, in an address given to the Empire Club, who turned out in their numbers last evening at the King Edward, to listen to the noted American humorist, author and journalist.

As a speaker Mr. Bangs is like a stream that knows no obstruction, and last night he told one anecdote after another from a quarter of a century back to the present with an ease that required no oiling of memory's wheels.

One of the greatest books of Canada was published under my supervision, declared the speaker, referring to the "Habitant" by Dr. Drummond. Coming to Toronto last evening, he was surprised to find such outstanding Canadian men and women. And why should they not be so, asked Mr. Bangs, when he was brought to Canada by his grandfather, Nathaniel Bangs, Canada had given him a Canadian grandmother, was the statement that brought the speaker close to his audience.

A new term was introduced into the vocabulary when Mr. Bangs told his audience of some of the "suburbities" he had met in the fifteen or twenty years of his editorial life. Among the "suburbities" quoted was Winston Churchill, for whom a reception that was to have lasted an hour had been prepared, but who got thru so expeditiously that only seven and a half minutes were required for the performance.

Richard Harding Davis. Richard Harding Davis was spoken of with enthusiastic admiration, for in his thirty-five years of active professional life, the speaker declared he had never met anyone who might not have lifted his hat to Davis for his beautiful, kindly qualities. For five seasons at Chicago he had known Davis to spend $500 of his hard earnings among 3000 of the poor, who did not even know who was their benefactor. Rudyard Kipling, Conan Doyle, Richard Henry Stoddard, Mrs. Stoddard were among others quoted. Mr. Bangs' humor rippled thru his entire address, but it is not easy to transfer to the cold medium of type. Arthur Hewitt presided and introduced the speaker.

CARS KILL TWO AND INJURE ONE

Two Children Fatally Injured —Skull of Third Fractured
by Automobiles.

Two children were injured fatally and a third severely, injuries to the head, the result of motor car accidents on the streets yesterday. In all three instances the accidents occurred over children running out onto the road without first seeing if the crossing was clear.

Ethel Ryan, aged five years, of 166 Christie street, dashed out from behind a milk wagon at Garnet avenue and was struck down by an automobile. The child was carried into the office of Dr. Wickson, 263 Christie street, who pronounced death from a fractured skull. The body was then taken to the morgue. Arthur Bingham, 376 Spadina road, was in charge of the car.

Three and one-half-year-old Ida Easthouse, 611 Church street, was crossing the street when a motor car eastbound on Charles street, ran down and instantly killed her. The motor car was driven by Lorna Gordon, 376 Spadina road, was in charge of the car.

Robert Henderson, aged five years, 153 Waverley road, sustained head injuries when he was struck by a motor car yesterday afternoon on Waverley road. Dr. Edmunds, 1981 East Church street, attended the little boy and then sent him to the removal to the Hospital for Sick Children. William Moore of Birchcliffe was the driver of the car. He reported the accident to Main street police station and was not held.

TALK ON YEATS.

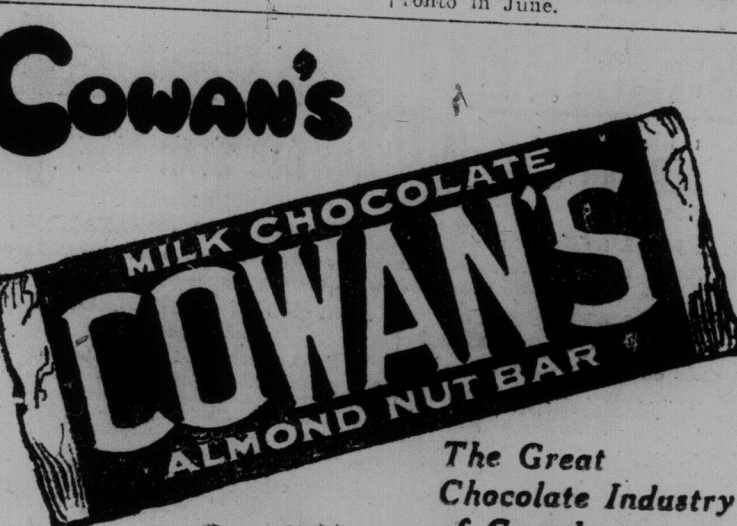

The April meeting of the Catholic Literary Association was held at the home of Mrs. J. M. Landy last evening. Miss Rose Ferguson gave a talk on Yeats and read some of his poems, and selections from "A Fair Exchange" by Dorothy Canfield, were read by Mrs. Wm. O'Connor.

LECTURE ON "MACBETH."

A recital lecture with "Macbeth" as the subject was given last evening to an appreciative audience at the faculty of education hall by Thomas Carter, Ph.D., London, England, author of "Shakespeare, Puritan and Recusant," and other works. The subject received artistic treatment in the realistic presentation of the lecture.

FROCK OF LAVENDER LINEN

Great variety indeed appears in the new garments for spring and summer. The above frock of lavender linen will appeal to the most fastidious for daytime wear. Fullness in the skirt is obtained by side plaiting. The neck and pockets are braided with white embroidery. The belt is of soft white kid.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR GIRL

A woman's mind, like a chicken salad, contains a lot of things that no man ever suspects.

The queen of profiteers is the woman who eases for a hundred thousand dollars the alienation of her husband's affections, when she knows that they aren't really worth two cents.

Why is it that whenever you take your husband to visit people who have a wine-cellar, nowadays, he insists on acting just like a camel?

Masculine vanity is perfectly comprehensible, when you reflect that there never was a man so unattractive that he couldn't find some woman to flirt with him, dine with him, or marry him.

Had America—the only country in the world, where, when a man mar-

CIVIL SERVICE GIRLS PARADE IN RED TAPE

London, April 19.—A girl clerk whose arms and body were wound with red tape has just led an unusual procession thru Whitehall street, the home of government departments, to draw public attention to the demands of women in government employ for equal pay and equal opportunities with men. She was followed by a large number of women employed in the civil service, each of whom carried a poster, while all were linked together with red tape. Inscriptions on the posters were "Fair Play for Women" and "No Favoritism in the Civil Service."

PUPILS' FOLK DANCE.

At an open meeting of the American Women's Club held at the Sherbourne House Club yesterday afternoon some delightful folk dancing was done by pupils of Miss Hodgkins, of the Marjorie Eaton School. Vocal solos were contributed by Miss Gertrude Black and Miss Eva Harris, the program being arranged by Miss Hodgkins. Kendrick Bangs came in for a short visit, and Miss Marshall Saunders was among the special guests.

TAG DAY FOR AUXILIARIES.

There are eighteen women's auxiliaries of the G.W.V.A. in Toronto, their principal work being to relieve distress amongst the families of soldiers where such is needed. Tag day for their funds will be held in Toronto in June.

ries a girl, he says: "What's mine is yours—and what's yours is your own."

Man's life is full of struggles! First, he struggles against soap, then against discipline, then against education, then against matrimony, then against the alienation of his wife, and finally against death—but they all get him, sooner or later.

Things no woman can forgive a man for forgetting: A kiss, the point of a story, her birthday, the color of her eyes, and the frock she had on the first time they met.

A woman who clings to a man, after love is dead, has that same clinging to wet fingers, and can't be shaken off.

The true "artistic spirit" is that of the man who won't turn from his contemplation of a beautiful sunset in order to stare after a red-headed girl—but have you ever met him?

MUSIC AND PAINTING SUBJECT OF ADDRESS

"Mood in Music and Painting" was the subject of a most interesting address given at the Grange last night by Ross Crane, the actor, and George N. Eggers, head of the extension department of the Art Institute, Chicago. How the moods and distinctions of art in cadences were finely brought out on the phonograph, thru the medium of different illustrative selections, while mood in painting was graphically shown by a series of pictures on the screen and by diagrams in charcoal. The lecture, which was novel, informing and entertaining, was much enjoyed by the gathering.

ZENANA MISSION

Government House Hears Address on Sufferings of Indian Women.

Yesterday afternoon the ballroom at Government House was crowded when Mrs. Lionel Clarke and Miss Clarke were the hostesses, and Rev. Dr. T. H. Carter, of London, England, gave an address in the interests of the women and children of India before the members of the Zenana Medical Mission. The speaker said that as India was part of the British Empire he would speak from the imperial side. He related how 70 years ago a number of women in England met and as an outcome of the enthusiasm of the Napoleonic war, the women and children of India, who were found to be despised and ill-used, and it was easy to realize that the early marriages entailed much physical suffering. Hospitals were opened in India, by the Hindu and Mohammedan, the society to relieve the conditions. Dr. Carter spoke admiringly of a hospital for women which he had visited in Toronto, and stated that the Zenana Society had served 80,000 indoor and outdoor patients. Rev. Charles Pilcher of Wycliffe College presided. The guests were afterwards entertained at tea by Mrs. Clarke.

WESTMINSTER CHAPTER, I.O.D.E.

"What's in a Name?"

Facts about your name; its history; its meaning; whence it was derived; its significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel.
By MILDRED MARSHALL.

ALINE.

Of curious Teutonic origin is Aline. It signifies "noble" and belongs to the great cycle of names evolved from the prefix, Aeth, Adel, or Adoll which mean high-born or noble. Aline, the conqueror of Rome, was a fore-runner of the feminine Aline. Since he was known as Aline, the discernible.

Early in the ninth century, the feminine name of Adolphe was coined in Germany and brought to England. The name was soon contracted to Doline—a name still common in Germany—the original name remained long enough to become the predecessor of Aline, through slurring the consonants. One Earl of Northumbria, was so called, and it is believed that her christening set the fashion for the barbarous name which made their appearance in England about that time.

Aline bears no connection with Ellen, which is the Irish version of Eleanor, nor with Aileen, which is another form of the same name, the striking similarity in pronunciation is purely coincidental.

Aline's talisman gem is the ruby. It will protect its wearer from danger, and disease, bring her courage and success. Tuesday is her lucky day and 3 her lucky number. The Lily of purity is her flower.

INQUEST RESUMED ON LATE TRUSTEE

Nothing Definite Established as to Identity of Car or Its Owner.

The inquest into the death of the late C. A. B. Brown was continued at the morgue last evening. A number of witnesses of the accident were called, most of whom agreed that the motor car which struck Brown was a small, black roadster, probably a McLaughlin. The speed at which it was traveling was variously estimated at from ten to forty miles per hour.

R. E. Kirkpatrick, 700 Euclid avenue, who was driving a motor car east along the south side of Bloor, at the time of the accident, saw Mr. Brown struck down, and tried to get the number of the car. He stated that the first two figures in the license looked like 11, and there appeared to be four figures. Of this, however, he was uncertain.

His father, H. J. Kirkpatrick, who was with him, estimated the speed of the car at 10 to 12 miles per hour. Together the two gave chase to Brown's slayer, going west along Bloor, but at Bathurst they were held back in a two jam, and were thrown off the track.

Little Boy's Evidence.

Twelve-year-old George Gooderham, Jr., was standing at the southwest corner of Bloor and St. George at the time of the accident, and saw the car running down St. George to get his mother, who was a short distance away. He again saw what he thought was the same car when he returned, but this time it was going east along Bloor at St. George. This evidence, however, is not upheld by any of the other witnesses.

Several other witnesses were called, including the driver and the motorist of the street car from which Mr. Brown had just alighted, drivers of several motor cars and trucks which were passing at the time of the accident, Mrs. Gooderham, two physicians, and some of the occupants of the street car.
