Popular Longshoreman was Struck by a Street Car Near His Home.

The death of George Gallant, who was struck two weeks ago when he was injured by a street car at the corner of British and Charlotte streets, occurred this morning about 7 o'clock in the General Public Hospital, where he has been under treatment since the accident.

Mr. Gallant lived at 78 British street, and met with the fatal injury within a few doors of his home. He is survived by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Peter B. Gallant of Summerside, P. E. I.; his wife and one daughter, Hazel. One grandchild also survives. The sympathy of the entire community will go out to the family in their loss. Mr. Gallant was a longshoreman and was very popular along the water front.

The accident happened at 12:20 a. m., Thursday, two weeks ago. The story, as told by the motorist of the street car, was that when passing along British street he saw a man standing in the street, and just before the car reached him he lurched forward in front of the car. The brakes were applied, but it was impossible to avoid hitting the man.

Mr. Emery was notified and viewed the body. At the present time he had not definitely decided whether an inquest would be held or not, but thought it likely there would be an enquiry.
