

CARPENTIER IS WINNING BACK POPULARITY

Campaign was Engineered by His Opponent

Siki, in Flashy Garb, Makes Scene in a Paris Bar—Believed Carpenter Will Challenge Winner of Senegalese-Beckett Bout.

London, Oct. 27.—(By mail).—A curious change has taken place in the minds of the sporting classes of France and England during the last week. The campaign of criticism directed against Georges Carpentier after his defeat at the hands of Siki has suddenly turned, with an equally quick reversal, to the popularity of Carpentier.

The outburst against the French boxer turned out to have been engineered by his opponents, according to widely accepted theories, Carpentier had many "sporting enemies," who were jealous of his immense popularity. Many of these, too, scoffed at the finesse and elegance of the former French champion, and resented his being made so much over by society people and celebrities.

The agitation against Carpentier, as many predicted, could not stand, because it was all artificial. Moreover, Siki's victory was a freak one, entirely accidental. In many places in London and Paris now one hears Carpentier praised where a fortnight ago he was criticised.

The following despatch to the Sunday Times from Paris gives an idea of the present state of mind there: "Battling Siki mounted so easily to the niche from which the Carpentier idol had been displaced that it was obvious such sudden popularity was rickety. Events have proved this to be the case. Opinion has shaken down considerably since the surprise match which saw Carpentier fling away his championships. Much of the sympathy which went temporarily to Siki has now returned to Carpentier. It may be recalled that much of the hostility shown to Carpentier in the hour of his downfall was due to the feeling that he had been too much puffed up by success, and that for his posing as a marquis on the films was a little too pretentious for a boxer, even a world's champion. But the Paris public has since realized that all boxing champions are puffed up with pride, and that if they do not do the puffing themselves, agents do for them. Siki has given an impression which has not been liked in some quarters, with his air of turning down one after another in order to receive the day's news. If Carpentier figured rather too much in the papers to please some folks, it is admitted that he was overdone there. It is now believed that Georges is now working seriously to recover his position, which is also reflected in his favor."

The Sunday Times also prints a Paris despatch relating that Siki, freshly dressed, went to a restaurant in Paris with white friends and created a scene, protesting against the American policy of refusing to entertain negroes and white people together. The despatch states that this was an organized anti-American move. No Americans were present, so the stage-managed color protest fell flat.

If this incident provoked by Siki had led to a free fight, the color problem would have been definitely introduced in Paris, says the despatch, which adds: "Siki strode in with a handsome French woman, said to be well known as a dancer, and a Frenchman. When the barman refused to serve him, Siki's companions began shouting. 'This isn't America. This is France, where anyone can be served, white or black.' Siki clutched a big glass sandwich cover as if he were about to throw it at a portrait of Jack Dempsey, at which he glared, muttering something like, 'Because I beat Carpentier, and I'll show Dempsey.'"

It is now certain that Carpentier will challenge the winner of the Beckett-Siki fight for a match in January.

Paris apparently is as much interested as London in Carpentier's film, "A Gipsy Cavalier," produced by J. Stuart Blackton, in which the famous boxer plays a dual role—that of a diletante young nobleman and a picturesque boxing gipsy. This film has been privately shown to the press and to cinema exhibitors in London, and was received with great enthusiasm.

Boxers have before this engaged in film work, but usually in more relief parts with no effort to develop into serious cinema artists. Carpentier, being a man of culture, intelligence and dramatic ability, played his role seriously as an actor, and this caused a lot of criticism in boxing circles.

Now only a few disgruntled boxing fans are left to criticize, as the better class of sportsmen declare that Carpentier's versatility should not be held against him. They point out that he has been the biggest personality in the ring of this generation and has done more to promote and advertise boxing than any other fighter.

It is clear that the public stands solidly behind the Frenchman.

In a decision in favor of the local boy, as the referee decided that Summers showed more of a tendency to hold. The fourth round was the only one in which Summers landed a left to the nose, which drew blood, but Rudolph cut loose and landed several stuns on the head of his opponent. He apparently drew Summers for a moment. Rudolph had the edge for the remainder of the fight. The referee after the judges had ruled it a draw.

The last preliminary bout was a scheduled young man affair between Young Penny and Kid Burns, and the match was a good one while it lasted. Burns had the better of the bout until the last part of the fifth when he tried to argue with the referee and Penny saw his opportunity and landed flush blows to the ropes. He was so dazed by the blow that he was unable to make any resistance and the fight was stopped and awarded to Penny. The men were lightweights.

The feature bout of the evening was between McIntyre and Joe Irvine. The crowd was disappointed when it was announced that Irvine was unable to appear. McIntyre was not at stake but they took the announcement very well.

Round 1—McIntyre landed two lefts to Irvine's body after some sparring and then poked both gloves in his face. A lively exchange followed and McIntyre beat a fast tattoo on Joe's ribs. A clinch followed and Joe showed some clever infighting, although McIntyre landed a few short jabs. McIntyre was using both hands repeatedly for sharp blows to the bell. Round fairly even.

Round 2—McIntyre snapped Irvine's head back with a straight left to the jaw and received several body blows in return. Joe again received a left poke to the head but only smiled and kept playing for Johnny's body. Both men resorted to infighting and they were clinched at the bell. Round even.

Round 3—McIntyre landed two solid blows to the body in the third stanza and followed with a left jab to the head. Irvine landed a hard right right to the body and several lively exchanges occurred, although neither landed any solid blows. Round even.

SUFFERED SO From Heart and Nerves Life was a Burden

Mr. A. H. Lee, Beamsville, Ont., writes: "I am delighted to let you know what I have to say regarding the good Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills did me.

"A short time ago I suffered with heart and nerve trouble, and was so bad I could not sleep, only about two hours each night. My heart was so bad I had spells when driving on the road and would faint away, and neighbors would carry me in from my wagon. I also took these pills in the night and during my daily work on the farm. My nerves were so bad I would jump out of bed, and was then compelled to walk the floor before I could settle down again, but after taking a few boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills I can honestly say I am a relieved man. I now feel in the best of health, in fact, the best I've been in for three years, and a unit of class of work with pleasure where before life was a burden to me."

to the body in return. McIntyre's round.

Round 6—Irvine came out of his corner with a smile in the sixth and started right after Johnny, landing twice and forcing him to cover up. Joe landed twice more on Johnny's body which stung the latter and he cut loose with a hot left to Joe's head, and then clinched. Irvine continued to play for the body. Joe then snugged a left to Johnny's head, a right to the body which made McIntyre shake his head. Johnny landed a right cross to the head and then landed two blows to the body, which seemed to lack steam. Irvine was forcing the fight at the bell with Johnny covering up. Irvine's round.

Round 7—Both men danced around the center of the ring for a time and then a lively exchange took place near Irvine's corner, in which Joe just missed a left swing and received a right to the face before he could recover. McIntyre landed a left to the head and received a hot left to the head and received a hot left to the face at the bell. Round even.

Round 8—After some infighting in the eighth Johnny missed an uppercut and then returned to his left jab. Irvine again cut loose and Johnny covered up. McIntyre landed a left to the right and Irvine only smiled. Joe landed a clean left as they broke from a clinch and followed with a right to the upper corner saved considerable congestion and enabled the crowd to be handled much more quickly.

The process of a method of extracting the vitamins and mineral salts from the germ of the wheat berry and wheat bran, in fluid form, so that they may be introduced into foods lacking in those important elements, was announced recently.

The process was perfected by scientists of Yale, Harvard, Johns Hopkins, Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, and other American universities working in co-operation with a group of chemists employed by George B. Post, Inc., of New York.

The vitamins syrup which resulted, however, can be used for increasing the food value of other articles of diet and for medicinal purposes. It was introduced into foods lacking in those important elements, was announced recently.

George Cook was charged in the police court yesterday by his wife with non-support. Mrs. Cook testified that her husband had left home about two weeks ago and had not supported her since. She said she needed both coal and food and that $34 was owing for rent. She said she had seen him with another woman. The defendant said he was employed with the Dominion Coal Company and that in 1917 he had been married to the complainant who was a widow with four children. He said that on any occasion on which he had been working or staying at the club, he and his wife had not been in so he had to sleep in a coal barge. He had got a policeman and had gone to his house to get his clothes. His wife had thrown a pair of overalls and a cap out of the window to him. The magistrate attempted to effect a settlement but was unsuccessful and postponed the case for a week to see how they made out. Hon. Dr. J. B. M. Baxter, K.C., appeared for the defense.

BOSTON POST PUTS IT UP TO MAYFLOWER

Boston, Nov. 8.—(Canadian Press).—The Boston Post said editorially today: "In answer to the challenge of the master of the Mayflower for a race, the master of the Bluebonnet counters with another challenge. It opens up an interesting possibility, and says the palatial skipper of the cup winner of this year and last: 'For two years the master of the Mayflower has been steadily ignoring our offer to race the Bluebonnet against the Mayflower for a silver bet of $10,000, vessels to sail from Newfoundland to West Indies with equal cargoes of fish, discharge, proceed to Turks Island, load equal cargoes of salt and return to Newfoundland. We have sought a race with the Mayflower; the seeking has been on your side. If you are still of the opinion, we suggest that instead of writing the sort of wires received by us today, you realize that our share of the side bet, I have mentioned has been lying here ignored since last year.'"

"And why should you be so thoughtful of such a contest appeals to the sporting blood. That would be real; that would have the ocean tug to it that no other ship could have. Let the Mayflower people think it over."

MORE EVIDENCE IN PARKER CASE

The case against Mrs. Bessie Parker, charged with the murder of Mary Emily Frontin, was continued in the police court yesterday afternoon. Dr. Stephen McDonald told of paying a visit to the dead girl and of her condition, which, he said, was the result of an abortion. He had ordered her to the General Public Hospital. Detective Biddiscombe told of making the arrest in company with Detective Donahue, and of taking the accused to the hospital, where she was identified by Miss Frontin. He said he went back to her house in Main street and found a knitting needle stuck in the wall behind a board in the kitchen. The needle was admitted in evidence.

THE BAY TERRIER VISITS STEAMER'S HOLD BY WAY OF ELEVATOR CHUTE.

Fort Windsor, Ont., Nov. 8.—The divers of a dog, which passed through a great elevator shipping system, was shot into the hold of a steamer, and was rescued alive, astonished the staff of the big "Consolidated" house here this week.

Nellie, a fox terrier, rammed up to the bin floor, was curious about the big flying along with its load of wheat, and stepped on it. Before she could get away, she was whirled into the bin, landed repeatedly in the clutches of the wheat. Irvine landed a hard right right to the body and several lively exchanges occurred, although neither landed any solid blows. Round even.

COLLEGE FOR ADULTS. EMPHASIS ON ENGLISH.

Plan Being Considered by Oxford University.

London, Oct. 20.—(By mail).—Jolly old chappies of four-score years, frolicking on the Oxford playing fields and doddering septuagenarians loling in cushioned punts on the upper reaches of the Thames, may become realities if the plan for the entry of the old as well as the young to the famous English university is carried out.

The suggestion is that a college be established for adults, as Ruskin College was established for the education of men from trades unions. Such a college, it is pointed out, would be a haven of refuge for extra-mural activities of the university, and would enable many adults to carry on studies which they started under the extension course idea and which they have been unable to complete.

There is no excuse for putting an 'i' in 'acceptable' or spelling 'forty' 'fourty'.

"Any business man," Mr. McNally added, "will be able to pick spelling errors out of a letter, and there is no excuse for a teacher making them. I am old-fashioned enough to think that, and that's the reason why fifty per cent. of our time in Alberta schools is given to the teaching of English and kindred subjects."

"I Was a Fright!"

"Nothing I Could Take Made Me Any Fatter."

"Up to the time I was seventeen years old, I believe that I was the most miserable and unhappy girl that ever lived. I was a second, but when I met her she had taken on flesh and had developed into a fine handsome girl with one of the prettiest figures I had ever seen. I asked her what had caused this change. She said Carmel. She told me she had been taking it regularly for the last three months and from the first week of taking it I had begun to put on flesh. I was so encouraged by what she said that I couldn't get to the drugist fast enough. I bought a bottle and since then I have been taking it regularly. It has made the greatest change in me you ever saw. I now weigh 165 pounds and all my friends tell me what a wonderful figure I have and how I am admired."
