have are good ones. One day, about ten years ago, I went away from home to sell some fifty head was to buy some groceries and dry goods before I came back; and above all a doll for our youngest, Dolly. She had never had a store doll of her own

Dolly could talk nothing else, and went down to the very gate to call after me to get a big one. Nobody but a parent can understand how full my mind was of that toy, and how, when the cattle were sold, the first thing I found a large c ith eyes that would tucked it under my arm while I had tea and sugar put up. Then, late as it s, I started for home. It might have been more prudent to stay until morning, but I felt anxious to get back and eager to hear Dolly's praises about her doll. I was mounted on a steady going FURSI old horse and pretty well loaded. Night set in before I was a mile from town, and settled down as dark as pitch while I was in the middle of the darkest bit of the road I know of. I could have felt my way through, I remembered it so well : and when the storm that had been brewing broke, and pelted the rain in torrents I was five miles or maybe six from home.

I rode as fast as I could, but all of a I rode as fast as I could, but all of a sudden I heard a little cry like a child's voice. I stopped mort and listened. I heard it again. I called and it answered me. I couldn't see a thing; all was around in the grass, called again, and known to be a drover and to have money about me. It might be a trap to catch me unawares, and rob and murder me. I am not superstitious not very, but how could a real child b out on the prairie in such a night, at such an hour? it might be more than human. The bit of a coward that hides itself in most men showed itself to me then, but once more I heard the cry, and said:

"If any man's child is hereabouts Anthony Hunt is not the man to let it

I searched again. At last I bethought me of a low under the hill and groped that ay. Sure enough, I found a little dripping thing that mouned and sobbed as I took it in my arms. I called my thing under my coat as well as I could, promising to take it home to mamma. It seemed so tired, and pretty soon cried itself to sleep on my bosom.

It had slept there over an hour when I saw my own windows. There were lights in them, and I supposed my wife had lit them for my sake; but when I got into the doorway I saw something was fear at heart five minutes before I could lift the latch. At last I did it and sav

It was my own darling, and none other, that I had picked up on the drenched road. My little child had wandered out to meet papa and the doll, while the mother was at work, and they were lamenting her as one dead. I

I had not stopped when I heard the cry of help upon the road, hardly louder than a squirrel's chirp.
