

WILSON "NOT CRAZY" SAYS COL. HARVEY

Letters to Lansing Reveal President as His "Old, True Self," Editor's Opinion.

After analyzing the Wilson-Lansing correspondence, together with statements by Secretary Lane and William C. Redfield bearing on the President's actual knowledge that informal Cabinet meetings were being held while he was incapacitated, Col. George Harvey concludes in the current issue of Harvey's Weekly that President Wilson is not sane.

After terming the letters to Lansing the "most" insulting and inferentially mendacious statement ever signed by a President of the United States, Col. Harvey writes: "No, Mr. Wilson is not crazy; he is just mad, not as a matter, but as a hornet that has been set upon; so mad that he can't bear it without stinging."

"Every bubble burst. Hated by Italy, reviled in France, calmly ignored by England and awaiting in his own country a verdict, if he should permit one to be rendered of violent repudiation such as has never been recorded in the history of the Republic."

ENGLAND FINDS ITSELF IN DILEMMA

Solution of Financial Situation is Question Over Which Leading Bankers Differ.

The dilemma in which England finds herself with regard to money matters is one over whose solution leading bankers and financial men are divided along diametrically opposed lines of thought, according to Arthur W. Kiddy, Financial Editor of The Morning Post, writing in the Journal of the Canadian Bankers' Association.

"Briefly stated," he says, "opinion at the present time, even in the highest banking circles is sharply divided with regard to the policy which should be pursued in the future. One school of thought advocates that the course of money rates should be kept as low as may be consistent with safety, the idea being that low money rates will stimulate production and that the only way to get anything like a return to normal conditions without undue social disturbance, is to wait patiently until production has begun to overtake consumption when (so it is urged) matters will be adjusted without any undue social disturbance."

"On the other hand, those who advocate the imposition of dearer money rates and a gradual process of deflation view that such measures are necessary in view of the part which has been played in raising prices of commodities by extended credit and expanded currency. Moreover so far from checking healthy trade expansion, it is maintained that there is at the present time a tendency on the part of manufacturers to hold up goods in the expectation of still higher prices, and this, it is considered, would be checked if these manufacturers and traders were unable to carry their stocks on cheap money. Not only so, but it is also asserted, and with much truth, that both here and in the United States there has been considerable abuse of low money rates in the sense that they have ministered to speculative operations when every farthing of credit was required to finance genuine trade activities. And further, it is also maintained that if gradual deflation is not commenced at once there will be just as much danger of social disorders arising out of inflation and high prices of commodities as would arise from any temporary inconvenience occasioned by gradual contraction."

"Mr. Kiddy leans rather strongly towards the latter alternative, pointing out that in similar crises history shows that any trouble which has arisen has been due to sudden restriction of credit facilities rather than to dearer money. 'Let it be known that at a price there are ample credit facilities,' he says, 'and usually nothing worse happens than a severe economy of credit, so that bankers and other great dealers in credit see to it that such facilities are not frittered away in speculations, but are used for genuine trade purposes.'"

"The members present sent word to Mr. Wilson through Doctor Gray son and received a query from Mr. Wilson as to what business was on hand, he reply went back that the Cabinet was considering its duty in view of his disability, and no word of disapproval ever came from the White House."

"Wants a Rubber Stamp. 'A more childish, silly and disingenuous pretext for doing a discreditable thing cannot be imagined,' Colonel Harvey resumes. 'The whole business really resolved itself to a specific request from the President to the Secretary to give your present office up and afford me an opportunity to select some one whose mind would more willingly go along with mine; that is to say, a mere rubber stamp in human form, willing to take orders from Mr. Wilson, instead of the Secretary of State charged by the Constitution and under his oath with the performance of certain specific duties.'"

"What he will do next, the good Lord may know; we don't and we don't doubt if Mr. Wilson has the slightest suspicion. The doctors have disagreed or lied about his malady from the beginning. The only person who had it right almost from the start was Senator Moses, who wrote to a constituent that he understood the ailment was a lesion of the brain which had inflicted paralysis of the left side, including the arm and the leg; and he was promptly jeered at by the doctors and sneered at by the President himself. And yet, if Dr. Hugh H. Young of John Hopkins can be believed, that was and is the real ailment."

"Meanwhile the famous mansion in the avenue must continue as the White House of Mysteries, and the actual administrative part of the Government must remain in the hands of a lady and two gentlemen who have yet to be designated by the people as regents of the Republic. This is your consolation: Bear it ye must; but grin, ye need not!"

"You Can't Brush Or Wash Out Dandruff. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips. Do this tonight, and by morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have. You will find, too, that all itching and itching of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work."

GOT RID OF THE COUGH THAT STICKS

Some coughs seem hard to shake off—stick right to you in spite of all you do to get rid of them.

Those are the kind of coughs that are dangerous—that weaken the lungs so that the germs of consumption find a ready foothold. We know of no remedy that will cure stubborn coughs—coughs that won't let go—like Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

It allays the inflammation, soothes the irritation and heals the diseased mucous lining of the lungs and bronchial tubes. Mrs. Leo Allen, Petite de Grand Bridge, N. B., writes: "Last winter I had an awful cough that kept me in the house for over two months. I tried several cough remedies, but got no relief. I was almost discouraged when a grocer here offered me a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. After taking that one my coughing began to ease. I took two more and they cured me completely."

Get the genuine Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup; put up in a yellow wrapper; 3 pine trees the trade mark; Price 25c and 50c; manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

"The farmers, at least the organized farmers, from now on will pool their efforts in exploring what in the past has been forbidden ground. They will employ trained research workers to investigate conditions affecting agriculture. With trained research, publicity and legal talent, farmers need no longer be importuned in dealing with the questions of marketing, distribution and finance."

FARMERS SEETHING WITH DISCONTENT

Resent Big Profits Taken by Middlemen Between Them and Final Consumers.

Washington, Feb. 23.—Charles S. Barrett, president of the National Farmers Union, presiding today as chairman of the conference of the National Board of Farm Organizations, said that while it would be very pleasant to be able to say that "all is well with agriculture and that in the farmer's mind there is no discontent, nothing left to be desired," the facts were that "the farmer is not content nor satisfied."

Answers to the recent questionnaire sent out by the Post Office Department, he said, came nearer to revealing the truth about agriculture than anything that has received equal publicity in the city press.

"The replies of the farmers," said Mr. Barrett, "reveal deep dissatisfaction with the treatment that has been accorded agriculture and resentment at the wide spread between prices received by the farmers and those paid by consumers, a feeling of insecurity in the ability of farmers to continue to the same extent of production of food, and inability to secure sufficient labor or to hold even the farm boys and girls on the farms in competition with the alluring scale of wages offered in industry and commerce of the farms."

"The farmers and their wives in answering these questionnaires faithfully reflected both a condition and a state of mind which do not speak well for the future, either of agriculture or the enduring prosperity of this nation."

C. N. R. OFFICIALS ROUND UP GANG OF CAR THIEVES

Have Been Helping Themselves to Merchandise in Transit—Said to be Company Employees.

Fredericton, Feb. 24.—Word reached here this afternoon that detectives in the employ of the Canadian National Railway had made a big round-up of railway employees at Napaodagan, on the National Transcontinental route, who were charged with stealing merchandise from freight cars.

Local officials of the C. N. R. confirmed the report, but the only particulars they were able to give was that a dozen or more persons, said to be largely employees of the railway, had been arrested and were being brought to Fredericton this evening.

The arrests are the culmination of investigations which have been going on for some time as the result of large quantities of goods of various kinds being stolen while in transit via the Transcontinental route, including merchandise for shipment overseas from the ports of St. John and Halifax.

Cuticura Soap Complexions Are Healthy

Strength and nerve force and to enrich the blood.

Joseph D. Harrigan, Former Visiting Specialist to North Eastern Dispensary, says: "Let those who are weak, thin, nervous, anemic, or run down, take a natural, unadulterated substance such as bitro-phosphate and you will soon see some astonishing results in the increase of nerve energy, strength of body and mind and power of endurance."

Bitro-Phosphate is made entirely of the organic phosphate compound referred to in the National Standard Dispensary as being an excellent tonic and nerve and a preparation which has recently acquired considerable reputation in the treatment of neurasthenia. The standard of excellence, strength and purity of its substance is beyond question, for every Bitro-Phosphate tablet is manufactured in strict accordance with the U. S. Pharmacopoeia test requirements. Bitro-Phosphate is therefore not a patent medicine and should not be confused with any of the secret nostrums, so-called tonics or widely advertised "cure-alls."

CAUTION — Although Bitro-Phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness and sleeplessness and general weakness, owing to its remarkable flesh growing properties it should not be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.
