CURING LYMPHANGITIS

The "Monday Morning Disease" Affecting Horses.

Symptoms Described, and a Course of Treatment Suggested for Alleviating and Curing the Trouble—Working Over Asparagus and Rhubarb Beds.

Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.

LYMPHANGITIS, commonly called weed, a shot of grease or Monday morning disease, is a common ailment in horses. Some horses are predisposed to the trouble and suffer after being exposed to slight exciting causes.

It occurs in horses that are accustomed to regular work and high feeding, when such are given a rest for a day or longer and in the meantime receive their regular ration of grain, hence the name "Monday morning disease," it frequently being noticed on Monday morning in work horses that have stood idle and been well fed since the Saturday even preceding.

It consists in inflammation of the lymphat glands, usually those of the hind limb or limbs, but it is not uncommon for the fore limbs to be the seat.

Symptoms.—The first symptoms usually are rigors (shivering) followed by well marked increase of temperature; but as these symptoms usually occur at night they are not often noticed. The first symptoms usually noticed are well marked soreness and lameness, usually of a hind limb. From reasons not understood the right hind limb is more frequently involved than the near one. Pressure upon the inner surface of the limb from the sheath or mammal downwards reveals well marked soreness, and at first a beaded condition to the touch. If a fore leg is the seat this condition will exist on the inner surface of the fore arm. There is usually well marked increase in temperature, a full, rapid pulse and often more or less well marked labored breathing. Appetite more or less impaired, and in some cases colicky pains are noticed. The swelling of the parts usually increases rapidly and the beaded condition disappears, and there is usually a decrease in soreness and lameness. Exercise reduces the swelling and lameness, but they reappear during the night; and at each time this occurs there is a tendency to organization of some of the exudate which may result in a chronic big leg, hence it is not wise to exercise or work until the acute lameness has disappeared.

Treatment.—If colicky pains be well marked, give a colic drench, as one oz. each of laudanum, sweet spirits of nitre and tincture of belladonna in a pint of water. Follow up with a brisk purgative of 7 to 10 drams aloes (according to size of patient) and two drams ginger. Give the purgative at first if colicky pains are not well marked. Follow up with four drams nitrate of potassium twice daily for two days. Keep the patient in comfortable stall excluded from drafts and bathe the affected leg frequently with hot water and after bathing rub well with a stimulant liniment, as one made of 2 oz. oil of turpentine, 1 oz. tincture of iodine, 1/2 oz. gum camphor, 6 oz. alcohol, and water to make a pint. Feed bran only until purgation commences, then feed reasonable quantities of hay, but no grain. Continue treatment until the acute soreness and lameness have passed, then give regular work or exercise. The swelling will reappear at night for a few days. Prevention consists in either materially reducing the grain ration on days that the horse is not working, or seeing that he gets exercise in some way.

Repeated attacks usually result in a chronic big leg, called elephantitis, which is incurable.—J. H. R., Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

Working Over Asparagus and Rhubarb Beds.

The handling of asparagus and rhubarb beds in the spring of the year is largely dependent on the situation of them and the time that the owner has at his disposal both in the fall and spring.

Where properly handled the asparagus beds in the fall of the year should have had all tops removed and burned and the soil ploughed over the top of the row so that a furrow would be left to remove the water.

In the spring of the year the asparagus bed, if ploughed in the fall, should be ploughed back and then given a thorough disking so that the soil would warm up quickly, especially around the crown of the plant. After this cultivation should be practiced until the 1st of July when cutting should cease and the bed receive a heavy coating of good manure and a considerable quantity of commercial fertilizer.

Rhubarb beds in the fall of the year should be manured heavily with well-rotted manure after the tops have been removed.

Baby Bear is Afraid of People

The smooth, hard, dustless road wound about through the sylvan depths of giant ferns and mighty timbers in a district round Spirit Lake, Vancouver Island. Far away a smoke smudge on the blue above the heaving ocean showed where a Canadian Pacific passenger liner was ploughing the heaving Pacific, bound for the Orient. On the right Spirit Lake gleamed in the bright sun. There was a gentle rustling in the darkness of the undergrowth, the ferns swayed gently. Then there came a sound of scratching and clawing, and finally the head of a three-months' cub rose alongside a great Douglas fir bole. As he cleared the ferns he paused and glanced eagerly about. He sought sight of his mother, who was so wrapped up in some luscious salmon berries that she had forgotten him. Higher and higher he climbed, widening his scope of view. Then came a terrible sound that paralyzed him where he clung to the ragged bark. It was the raucous challenge of a motor horn. Hugging the tree tightly he hoped to be overlooked. On the smooth road a few yards away there rolled into sight a terrible engine carrying ladies and gentlemen. He held his breath and hoped more strongly. But sharp eyes were peering every way from under the auto canopy and a scream of pleased excitement showed that feminine eyes had spied him. He hunched himself closer and bent his head on his shoulder to watch the awful creatures in the big iron animal that always had such a bad breath. A man crashed through the ferns and pointed a black box at him. The cub darted high in the branches of the towering fir tree. The bad-breathing iron animal then grunted several times and crawled swiftly away, and down from the dizzy heights the baby bear hastened his painful backward climb. Arriving at the base he found an anxious mother who had remembered her forgotten maternal cares and followed the scent trail of her pride and her joy. She nuzzled him all over in solitude while he whimpered his story. Then side by side they waddled away deeper into the forests where motor trails did not exist and bears can live in comfort. —L. V. K.
