The Newcombe Piano

Has time on its side; it is not an untried thing, but for well-nigh thirty years the Canadian people have been testing it, and its popularity is growing by leaps and bounds—and that on its real merits.

It is scientifically correct in construction; musically it is perfect, and from the standpoint of the artistic it is without a peer.

There's money in the Newcombe for the dealer, and lifelong satisfaction to the possessor of one.
