The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

People always say that a mother's love for her children is so much greater than their's for her. Now I have the sweetest mother in the world, and I love her so dearly that I am sure that she cannot care any more for me than I do for her. I wish you would write and say that it is not at all an invariable rule, a young girl wrote me the other day.

Perhaps she does care as much for her mother as her mother does for her. Or perhaps she isn't old enough to have learned how great love can be. Of course, I can't judge.

But I am going to tell her and anyone else who has any doubt about the difference between mother love and child love, two little stories.

They were told me the other day by Mary Boyle O'Reilly, the famous woman prison commissioner.

A woman lay dying in Sherborn prison. She had lived a very disreputable life. She had left a good husband for another man, then left that man for the life of the streets and had dragged her husband's name in the foulest mud of the gutter.

When the woman was dying Miss O'Reilly sent for her husband. When he came, he brought with him a girl of fourteen, who had been put into a convent at the time of the trouble and had been brought up there.

Miss O'Reilly took the girl under her wing and started off with her toward her mother's room. The girl looked about her in surprise and said: "What a queer looking hospital." Naturally it didn't take the quick-witted commissioner long to realize what that meant. The daughter had never been told of the mother's shame and the father was still making a desperate effort to hide it from her.

Of course Miss O'Reilly tried to cooperate and the girl might never have known, if a squad of prisoners in prison garments had not come down the corridor at just that moment. The girl started and shrank back and then before the commissioner could stop her, ran straight up to one of the squad. "What place is this?" she demanded. "This is Sherborn Prison, Miss," answered the prisoner. With a cry the girl turned and ran straight back to the office. The father who had been as terribly wronged as a man could be, made up his mind to forgive and went to his wife. She sent back a message pleading with the girl to come.

But the girl refused.

And the woman died without seeing her.

The other story isn't quite so sad. Or maybe it's sadder. I'm not sure which.

A young country girl had drifted via the life of the streets into Sherborn prison.

She was obliged to undergo an operation and was very ill. Her mother knowing nothing of all this came down from the country in search of her.

She went to Miss O'Reilly's private office. "They tell me you know where my girl is," she said. "I do," said Miss O'Reilly. "Where?" "I'll take you."

As they started off in the motor some one called after Miss O'Reilly by her prison title, "Commissioner."

The woman looked up quickly "What did he call you?"

"Commissioner," said Miss O'Reilly. The woman thought a moment, "I never knew but one commissioner."

"That is what I am," said Miss O'Reilly, and was ready to comfort the woman.

But the woman did not weep. No during the forty miles to the prison did she say a word about her daughter.

Only when Miss O'Reilly had brought the woman to the door of her daughter's room, she took the commissioner's hand and said slowly "You have done a good deal for me I can't thank you. I can only pray at the best thing that can happen to you that you may never have a child."

And then she turned and went into her daughter's room SMILING.

And never once did she speak a word of reproach or blame of her. There is a difference, you see.

Strong Healthy Women

If a woman is strong and healthy in a womanly way, motherhood means to her but little suffering. The trouble lies in the fact that the many women suffer from weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organism and are unfitted for motherhood. This can be remedied.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Cures the weaknesses and disorders of women. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned in motherhood, making them healthy, strong, vigorous, virile and elastic.

"Favorite Prescription" banishes the indispositions of the period of expectancy and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It quickens and vitalizes the feminine organs, and insures a healthy and robust baby. Thousands of women have testified to its marvelous merits.

It makes Weak Women Strong. It makes Sick Women Well. Honest druggists do not offer substitutes, and urge them upon you as "just as good." Accept no secret nostrum in place of this non-secret remedy. It contains not a drop of alcohol and not a grain of habit-forming or injurious drugs. Is a pure glyceric extract of healing, native American roots.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES.

Mint leaves lend a pleasant flavor to iced tea.

Meat should generally cook 30 minutes to the pound.

Rubbers can be brightened by the use of ammonia water.

A yeast cake can be kept fresh for a week by burying it in flour.

A few grains of rice in the salt shaker will prevent the salt from caking.

Whitewashing the cellar walls at least once a year will save doctor's bills.

If stoves are rubbed with kerosene before they are stored away they will not rust.

House plants intended for winter blooming should not be allowed to flower during the summer.

A nut pick on top of the refrigerator will be found just the thing to remove paper tops from milk jars.

Place a solid silver spoon in a fruit jar when it is filled with hot preserves and the jar will not break.

To make tough meat tender cover it with boiling water and put it where it will barely simmer for several hours.

When starching shirt fronts and collars, if a high gloss is desired, add a few drops of turpentine to the starch.

Strong ammonia and water will revive the luster of the gold and silver oriveted Egyptian scarfs that sometimes tarnish.

Any brickwork rinsed off with ammonia and water and then carefully dried will be wonderfully brightened by the process.

A cloth wrung out in hot water to which has been added a little turpentine will restore the brightness of faded rugs.

Notes From Harbor Grace.

Miss Phoebe Alcock returned from St. John's last week where she spent four months very pleasantly with friends.

Mrs. A. Crocker and Mrs. M. Griffin intend going to Labrador by the s.s. Invermore to join their husbands.

Codfish is scarce about here. On one or two mornings last week a fair sign was had by the fishermen, but the outlook at present is gloomy for a good voyage.

Several trout went out by this morning's train for New Harbor Barrens and other favorite resorts.

Mr. K. Sheppard leaves by this evening's express for Sydney.

Mr. Schilsky arrived on Friday night to conduct the music examination in connection with the C. H. E. On Saturday afternoon he gave a private recital at Gordon Lodge, which was very much enjoyed by the following guests who were present: Rev. W. Finn, Mr. T. Hanrahan, Thomas Hanrahan, Jr., Mr. Gother, Mrs. Hanrahan and Miss Cody. The examiner's violin playing (which is his specialty) is spoken of as being marvellous.

Our talented music teacher, Miss Cody, is to be highly complimented on the success of her pupils at the examination on Saturday. Mr. Grace is proud of such a talented teacher. Her ability and painstaking is the secret of the success of the pupils. Of the 17 pupils sent up 16 passed most successfully. The following is the names and the marks gained by each:

INTERMEDIATE.

Honours.	Marks.
Mollie Flynn	88 p.c.
(Highest marks in that grade.)

JUNIOR (Honours).

Kathleen Lynch	88 p.c.

Rita Fitzgerald	62 p.c.

Masters Arthur Rodgers and H. Parmiter left yesterday in the schr. Studlands, Capt. Parmiter, for a holiday trip. The schooner goes first to Keligrews, then to Salmon Cove. At both places lumber will be discharged. St. John's will be the next port of call, after which she will proceed to Alexander Bay, B.B., and again load lumber for some Conception Bay port. The boys will no doubt have a pleasant trip.

Another factory is soon to be opened up here. Several of our mechanics have formed a company, secured a building and ordered machinery. May success attend their efforts. There is plenty of room here. We will give the reader a full account on Friday or Saturday.

Dr. de Van's French Female Pills

A reliable regulator; never fails. While these pills are exceedingly powerful in regulating the generative portion of the female system, they are strictly safe to use. Refuse all cheap imitations. Dr. de Van's are sold at $3.00 and $5.00 a box. Mailed to any address. The Scobell Drug Co., St. Catharines, Ont.—U.S.A.

It is a dangerous thing to allow ashes to accumulate in the cellar, as the house will inevitably be musty in consequence.

In spite of its apparent warmth, Indian curry has a very cooling effect, and is excellent with rice and chicken in summer.

When making aprons the pockets will not tear if a strip of the straight goods is stitched in between the pocket and the apron.

Old perspiration stains may be removed by applying oxalic acid and water in solution of one part of the acid to twenty of water.

When a fruit jar cover sticks, stand it on its head for a few minutes in a pan half full of hot water. It will come off easily.

Clothes should always be thoroughly aired and dried after being cleaned or they will become sour; and white goods will turn yellow.

To preserve the flavour of tender peas boil them for a little while in the pods, which may then be removed, and the cooking completed.

MINARD'S LINTMENT CURES SCAB IN COWS.

"SHANNAHAN" Gives His Impressions of the Labor Parade on Labor Day.

'Twas Labor Day, and at a quarter to seven I awoke and peeped out through the edge of the blind to see if it 'twas done raining. Nothing stirred a fellow up, you know, like a parade, and when 'tis raining the night before you go to bed with a fit of the blues, but when you wake and find that it is cleared off and Old Sol is doing his best to force his smile through the gray clouds your heart rejoices, so it was on the morning when I peered out through the blind, and soon I was up wrestling with a white shirt and a pair of cuffs. If I was like Tucker I'd have a wife to help me out, but being an old bachelor and boarding with a cranky old lady, I had to do my best to tog myself, with the assistance of nobody.

Unionism is a great thing in many ways, but in one in particular. It makes a man think more of himself and more of his fellow-worker.

There we were, Tradesmen and Labourers, the hard workers of the city, all bent on showing our strength and doing our best to uplift the standard of Labor, men who knew each other, and perfect strangers, all joined hand in hand for a common purpose—to act fairly and squarely to ourselves and to the employers also.

The parade, to my mind, was a grand success, and every Union being fairly well represented, but at the same time there were a few of our men who did not parade, but I suppose we'll find such men in heaven like that—they'll actually fail to join in a chorus up in that Celestial Home. Bands—well we had enough bands to wake the dead, and while they all played grand, I couldn't help being specially attracted by the little boys from Mount Cashel in their fine and drum band. "Rousing," that's the word. The Highlanders were what a reporter would call sublime, and the man on the big drum should be given a week off by the man he works for. The Guards, C. L. B., C. C. C. and S. A. Bands all contributed soul inspiring airs, and gave one a joyous feeling on the long march. Up at Government House we were received in a whole-souled manner by His Excellency Sir Ralph Williams; I met the Governor before the day myself and Tucker went up to him looking for a berth to the ice, and as he glanced down the long line of workmen he smiled me and gave me the wink. His speech was clear, every one could hear what he was saying. This is something new around here, for most of the speakers we heard up there in the past did their best, but their words were carried back in the porch. He encouraged the workmen and paid a grand tribute to their loyalty to the Empire. He's the kind of man that suits this country for he always wants to be out among the people. Long may his big jib draw.

The Banners and Regalia of the Unions showed that great pains was taken in having everything O.K. Every man seemed to take a pride out of being a Union man, and the women lined the sidewalks and gloried in the grand sight that their husbands, fathers, brothers and sweethearts presented.

Labor Day is something that has a wonderful feeling in it, we can't describe it, but we feel more brotherly and consequently are made better men. At the termination of the march Mayor Gibbs addressed the Unions and compared the working-men of to-day and their social standing with that of the last century, and impressed on his hearers the necessity of always standing shoulder to shoulder and by fair honest practices both to themselves and their employers they would attain the object that they sought, viz., better living, general contentment with a desire to always improve our mental, physical and financial condition.

Married Last Evening.

The wedding of Miss Lizzie Hartery and Mr. John Brophy took place at the R. C. Cathedral last evening. Rt. Rev. Mons. Roche officiated. The bride, who was attended by her sister, Miss Bride Hartery, was dressed in cream lustre with hat to match. Mr. James Coffey was best man. After the ceremony they were driven to their future residence on Signal Hill Road where a wedding repast was partaken of and the health of the newly wedded people heartily toasted. The festivities were kept up till midnight. Both the young people are popular and received a large number of presents. The Telegram extends congratulations.

A QUIET NIGHT.—The police had a quiet time last night. Only two arrests were made for drunkenness.
