The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

"There is something upon which I should like to have your opinion. I have got into the disgraceful habit of telling lies—not lies to hurt anyone but just little lies to make myself appear to better advantage (I cannot exactly express it, but you know what I mean), and now I almost believe these things, and cannot break myself of the habit."

"Yes, mother knew Lady L. very well when she was abroad," sounds delighted. What it really means is that mother was introduced to Lady L. at a charity bazaar and knew her well enough to buy a hand painted horror from her table.

"You know I'm in charge of the office now," the important young man assures you. Being in charge of the office sounds as if he had made some pretty rapid strides since his graduation from high school two years ago. So a frank young person confessed to me in a letter yesterday.

Frank young person, will it be any comfort to you to know that you have much company, and much good company, in your foible?

For you certainly have. If I were estimating the proportion of my acquaintances—and I fancy they are about the same kind of people as your or anyone's acquaintances—who have this habit to some extent at least, I should say five out of ten.

And yet the people who are conscious of the trick, well I guess they are real rare avis.

Like the lady of the letter, most of the people who tell these funny little lies come to believe them themselves.

"I have a standing offer of $2,000 a year," announces the newspaper man. You know he cannot possibly be getting over $1,000, and you wonder why he doesn't accept that offer. As a matter of fact that means that several years ago he had an offer of $2,000 in a distant city. He didn't accept it because he didn't want to go so far away and he has no reason to think the position still open, but he has made that statement so many times that he thoroughly believes it.

"Five out of ten did I say? Dear me, I guess I made the proportion quite too small.

Why, as I think the matter over I begin to suspect that "all the world expect me and thee" is guilty.

Don't you? Ruth Cameron

"The Hermit Peer."

The Marquis of Clanricarde has passed his seventy-eighth birthday. He descends, as do one or two other Irish peers, from the kings of old Ireland. Chiefs of Connaught, who in the dim and far-off days before the Anglo-Norman conquest, kept kindly state in a rough and ready way, say Modern Society. The present peer is the second marquis of a third creation, and fifteenth earl.

Lord Clanricarde is a great judge of Dutch pictures and of blue china. He has been in terrific hot-water with his Irish tenants, and has, seemingly in disgust, withdrawn himself to The Albany—where he lives a hermit life with his beloved canvasses and porcelain.

One most beautiful possession—which is neither a painting nor a teapot—Lord Clanricarde greatly cherishes—a magnificent Cinquecento jewel, which he inherited from his mother, who was the only daughter of the great Gunning. It is formed of emerald and diamonds—a huge plaque known as the "Hercules and the Diamond Sword." Lord Clanricarde has generously lent this treasure to various art exhibitions, where it never fails to attract attention. Indeed, we believe that Sir Julius Wernher considers it to be one of the three greatest Cinquecento jewels in the world.

Lord Clanricarde adopts the orthography "Clanricarde," asserting that the name was so spelt by eleven of his predecessors, but the "Pears" insist on their way of spelling the word.

What He Wanted.

Senator Brackett of Saratoga, as everybody who has seen him knows, has a poll closely resembling a billiard ball, and, as everyone knows also, there is much gray matter beneath that polished dome. Senator Brackett walked into a barber shop the other day, or so some of his friends aver, and demanded a hair cut.

"Hair cut?" snorted a friend who was waiting. "What you want is a shine."

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited. Gentlemen—My daughter, 13 years old, was thrown from a sleigh and injured her elbow so badly it remained stiff and very painful for three years. Four bottles of MINARD'S LINIMENT completely cured her and she has not been troubled for two years.

Concert at the Cove.

On Thursday evening a very enjoyable concert was given in the Parish Room of the Church of England Parish here, in aid of the Church, by the school children of the Cove under the direction of Mr. Ollerhead, the school master, who is to be congratulated on the success achieved. Mr. J. M. Greene, of Bell Island, who is blockaded here en route to the island, also contributed towards the programme which was varied consisting of drills, songs, recitations and farces. Owing to illness Rev. Canon Smith could not attend. Those deserving special mention are Misses Summers and Churchill and Mr. Ollerhead who took their respective parts to perfection.

For dresses of silk and soft wools, the tendency in the direction of skirt fullness and surplice or Marie Antoinette effects for waist section. Some advance models show the material gathered about the waist; others have stitched plaits.

Not a few of the new tunics are not unlike chemise-cous that are apparently slipped over the head, although the fastening actually occurs down one shoulder, about the armhole and so down the under-arm seam of the garment.

Time to Cry Halt.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—As an interested outsider, watching the trend of affairs, political and otherwise, in Newfoundland, I am compelled to express my unbounded surprise at the shortsightedness of the people in setting aside, ever temporarily, a statesman of such great ability as the Right Honourable Sir Robert Bond, K.C.M.G. Well, indeed is it for the people of the island to have such an able, patriotic and farseeing leader to guard their real interests, even if his position at present is leader of the Opposition benches. Yes; well indeed that he is on deck and keeping a sharp lookout, or very soon our ship of state would be on the rocks a total wreck. 'Tis hard to understand how the people were so completely hoodwinked during the last election. When one compares the enormous benefits and financial assistance the present Government are seemingly anxious to extend to parties from a foreign shore, for the purpose of building up for them a huge monopoly at the expense of the inhabitants of the island, with the paltry donations of a couple of pounds of seed potatoes per man and a horse or two, and a couple of sheep and pigs amongst some hundreds of people, it makes one wonder whether it is not children playing at governing instead of intelligent men. Again I say, 'tis well for Newfoundland that there is still to the fore Sir Robert Bond and his few supporters of similar calibre to save it from utter demoralization. Was the mandate given the present Government at the last election of such a nature as to enable them to give away according to their pleasure, regardless of the effect of the same on the people, all and every asset left us for a mere song, an imaginary benefit based on shadows? It seems like it. Surely if ever there was a time in the history of the Island when with no uncertain voice the people should cry "Halt!" it is now—now before it is too late. In great and noble minds, prosperity begets extra caution and wise preparation for any be future woes. With petty selfish ones, rashness may often madness. By their fruits ye shall know them. Verily say.

Yours truly, AMAZED. The Nellie M. sails for Pernambuco to-day. Capt. Taylor takes 3,800 lbs. of fish for Monroe & Co.

Woman's Power Over Man

Woman's most glorious endowment is the power to awaken and hold the pure and honest love of a worthy man. When she loses it and still loves on, no one in the wide world can know the heart agony she endures. The woman who suffers from weakness and derangement of her special womanly organism soon loses the power to sway the heart of a man. Her general health suffers and she loses her good looks, her attractiveness, her amiability and her power and prestige as a woman. Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., with the assistance of his staff of able physicians, has prescribed for and cured many thousands of women. He has devised a successful remedy for women's ailments. It is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a positive specific for the weaknesses and disorders peculiar to women. It purifies, regulates, strengthens and heals. Medicine dealers sell it. No honest dealer will advise you to accept a substitute in order to make a little larger profit.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG, SICK WOMEN WELL.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and strengthen the Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

Fads and Fashions.

Signs of attempts to introduce new sleeves are noted in recent gowns.

The note of black is very pronounced. It is seen in challoes and organzies for misses and juniors, as well as far adults.

Bordered effects are not confined to any one material but appear as a women or printed component of cottons, linens, silks and woolsens.

Coats are short, about 24 inches, although some of them run to 32, and others having no length to speak of, since they are Eton form.

White woodlens, white silks and the wash stuffs are being exploited by all the leading retail houses and endorsed by the fashionable women.

The new laces appear rather coarse, but this is due to the employment of a flat mesh whereon are wrought "darned" motifs that are highly ornate.

With the majority of washable suits there are accessories that match handkerchief bags, suspended with long chains, sunshades and, of course, hats.

Pressed crin. of extreme fineness, fine Milan straw and an infinity of fancy braids, including many basketweaves, will be employed for the spring hats.

The peasant coiffure is gaining in favor. The hair is parted, braided and wound in two disks over the ears. Little children also wear the hair in this style.

The true Empire suit has yet to be evolved; and it is doubtful if it would prove worth while should it ever be represented among fashionable models.
