Chicago, Nov. 3.—While the guests to the wedding of Miss Eleanor Green and William M. Wilson were making merry last night at the residence of the bride's father. Clinton Robinson, a former admirer, struggled with a policeman to see the bride for the last time.

As a result of Robinson's efforts to look upon the young woman through a window he was arrested, and this morning Justice Quinn gave him a fine on the technical charge of attempting to overpower a policeman. Only the officer appeared against Robinson, the bridal pair having departed for Hot Springs on their honeymoon.

Che Foo, Nov. 3, 2 p.m.—On Oct. 24, having made every possible preparation, the Japanese opened fire with their artillery along the whole line, incidentally continuing the daily practice of dropping shells into the harbor. The Russians replied, the sound, as of distant thunder, telling the inhabitants of Port Dalny that the long expected assault on the fortress was imminent. The bombardment continued furiously until the afternoon of Oct. 26, when the Russian guns on Etse Mountain, Antse Mountain and Rih-

The Japanese infantry are now using mechanical devices which enable them to throw grenades with great accuracy and rapidity. In the meanwhile another body of Japanese assaulted the trenches on the slope of Rihlung Mountain. The Japanese trenches extended to certain portions of the slope and stopped some distance above the extreme Japanese outpost, where the ascent of Rihlung Mountain became almost perpendicular. The Russian trenches seamed the slope. To advance against them over an unbroken slope which was mined even without Russian resistance would have been a difficult task, but the slope had been torn up, great holes having been blown in it at various places by the bombardment, and the Japanese availed themselves of these indentations, which offered combined foothold and protection against bullets In the meanwhile the fire of all their available artillery was directed against the Russian trenches, the Russians eventually retiring, whereupon the Japanese in 30 minutes constructed trenches sufficient to shield themselves. The Russians exploded mines, but the Japanese claim without result One company of Japanese engaged in this fight aroused general complimentary comment for its remarkable coolness, executing the various mansuverings for the purpose of securing shelter with automatic exactnees, as if on parade.
