

Seek Ring Battles; Camera Hunters' Luck; Society Enters Chorus

Society debutantes are appearing as chorus girls in a play "Chiquita" held at Covent Garden theatre, London. Mlle. Andree Lafayette is shown making up Lady Eleanor Smith, the daughter of the Earl of Birkenhead.

Americans believe that they have found a relative to George Washington. They have traced the family tree of their illustrious statesman to George, Baron von Washington, the Austrian descendant of the Washington line.

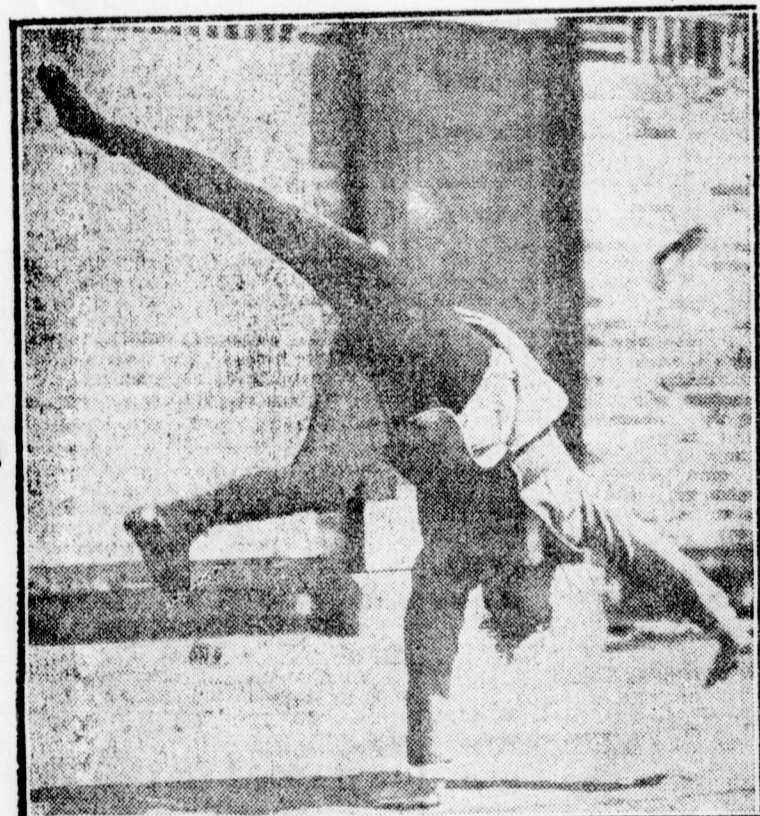

The British round-the-world fliers have left England in an effort to circle the globe. The plane is shown flying over a pier near Southampton to bid farewell to officials and friends.

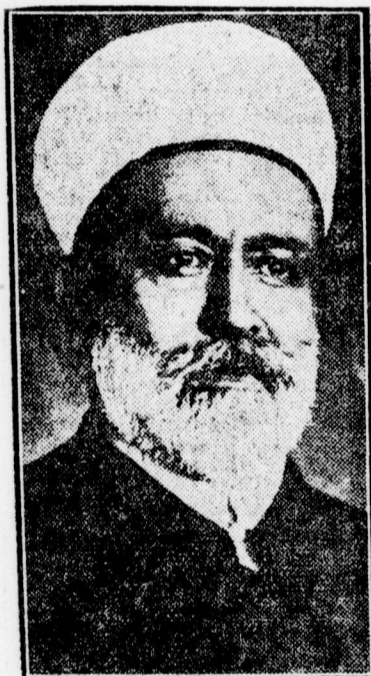

Miss Nancy Aikin, daughter of Lord Justice Aikin, makes her debut in revue, in which she takes a leading part at the Little Theatre in London. Society is much perturbed that she has entered upon a career.

Marta Farri, champion strong woman, twists steel into all shapes with her bare hands. Making neckties with hard metal is one of her pastimes. She is shown decorating a clown with a bar the average man couldn't bend an inch.

Oliver Morosco, the well-known theatrical manager of New York, has just announced his intentions of making a come-back as an acrobat after twenty years, in order to take a part in a coming play. He is shown taking off weight.

Although the sultan has been deposed, Mustapha Fosi Effendi, the Sheik of Islam, remains and now stands out as the spiritual leader of Islam. His power is but little lessened by recent political changes.

"There's daddy up there." Mrs. MacLaren, wife of Squadron-Leader A. Stuart MacLaren of the British round-the-world flight, points out to her little daughter Lillian the plane as it starts off on its long journey.

Lady Lutyens, wife of the English architect, Sir Edward Lutyens, who, it is said, has decided to seek election for parliament on the Socialist ticket. She is an ardent Theosophist and an advocate of reform in divorce laws.

Much of the artistic work at the coming British Empire Exhibition has been done by lady artists. Here are three of the girls photographed after chatting with the King following his recent visit to Wembley.

Mme. Katherine Kethy, member of one of Hungary's oldest aristocratic families, is now making her living as a salesgirl in her own country. Due to the post war financial conditions there are very few living the idle life.

Camera hunters have all the luck. Here is an interesting group of mountain sheep against the skyline on a crag in the British Columbia mountains. The Canadian Rockies provide a wonderful field for the sportsman.

Little Margaret Vincent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Vincent, of Thorold, Ontario, is shown holding a dress rehearsal with her pet rooster in preparation for the great Easter Parade.

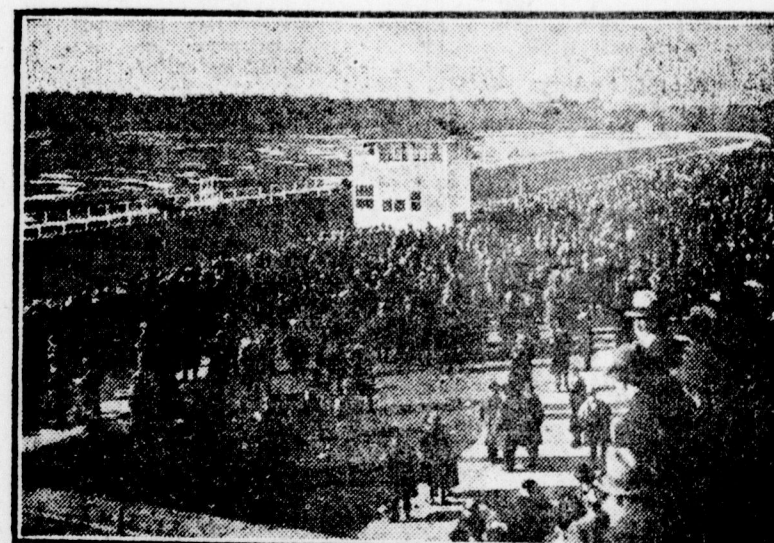

A marriage which has been kept secret since February is that of Rogers Hornsby, champion batter of the National League and star player of St. Louis Cardinals, to Miss Jeannette Pennington.

Quentin Romero-Rojas, right, and Luis Vincentini, Chilean heavyweight and lightweight boxers, have arrived in America seeking ring battles. Rojas is said to be as fast on his feet as Carpenter and hits harder than Firpo.

The various feathered folk in High Park, Toronto, believe in taking their vacation early. Some of the birds are shown doing the "goose-step" down the road from their winter quarters to their summer resort on Catfish Pond.

Here is a general view of the Bowie track, Bowie, Md., which opened to a record crowd recently, despite a two day delay. It was the official opening of the course.