In Strathroy, on Tuesday, May 6, 1919, George Lightfoot, in his 82nd year. IN MEMORIAM

In Newforliam
In loving memory of my dear husband, Norman Cook, who entered into rest on Sunday, April 13th, 1919.
Tears, sad tears, oh bitter tears, Sickness, sorrows, a guish, fears, How of twe ask why this is so, With us poor mortals here below?
So of twe wonder why its thus, But answer none will come to us, In our prayers night and day, Yet loved ones still are taken away.

Again we're plunged in sorrows deep,
In deepest sorrow, fry and weep,
For a loved one gone before,
Here on earth to meet no more.
Dear, loying husband so good and sweet,
How gently here you fell asleep,
Whilst Chri t your Saviour stood by you,
To lead and guide death's valley thru
He was your guide and He your stay.

He was your guide and He your stay In all your sufferings night and day, Him you trusted by the day In faith and hope your staff alway.

In faith and hope your staff alway.
But now we must all say adleu
In yonder heaven we will renew,
And there forever more unite.
No more suffering, no more night,
Dear, loving husband, rest in peace,
You are resting now in yonder dome,
You are resting now in yonder dome,
Your song is now, "Sweet Home, Sweet Home."

Oh Thou whose all pervading eye, Thou alone our tears can dry, Oh give us grace to overcome, Until we all arrive at home.

HINTS ON COOLING MILK

Three Essentials in Cooling Explained.

Make That Spring on Your Farm a Profit Question - It Should Be Enlarged, Cleaned Out Well and Cribbed In an Efficient Way.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

ACTERIA in larger or smaller numbers are always present in freshly drawn milk. At temperatures between 60 deg. F. and 98 deg. F. (blood heat) they grow and multiply rapidly, causing the milk to become quickly spoiled. As the temperature falls below 60 deg. 9., the bacteria become less active, the changes caused by them are less marked, so the milk keeps sweet and in good condition for a longer time.

Growth of bacteria in milk in 24 hours (18, 000 per c.c. when freshly

Bacteria Per C.C. (20 drops) after 24 hours. 280,000 50 deg. F. . . . . 1,170,000 60 deg. F. . . . 24,600,000

The above table shows how low temperatures check bacterial multiplication in milk. This is the scientific fact upon which the practice of milk cooling is founded.

In practice a dairyman should bear in mind three things in connection with the cooling of milk. First—cool milk with as little delay as possible after it comes from the cow. Second—cool milk to as low a temperature as possible, say somewhere Second—cool milk to as low a temperature as possible, say somewhere between 40 deg. F. and 50' deg. F. Third—cool milk with as little contamination as possible from outside sources, such as dust, dirty utensils, water splashings, etc. If these three points were regularly attended to by all dairies a marked improvement in the general quality of our milk sup-all dairies a marked improvement in the general quality of our milk supplies would be noticeable right away. The quickest way to cool milk is to run it over some form of tubular or surface cooler, pail by pail, immediately it is drawn from the cow. In this way milk may be rapidly cooled to within two or three degrees or three degrees of the temperature of the water used. The objections to this method are the extra work involved in washing the cooler twice a day, the difficulty of keeping it properly clean, and the danger of contaminating the milk with dust, barn odours, etc., unless the cooler is used in a clean and the cooler is used in a clean and the cooler is used in a clean and separate milk room.

The other alternative is to place the cans of milk in a tank of running cold water at the earliest opportunity, or in an insulated tank of water into which some chopped-up ice is thrown. If the milk is stirred once every ten minutes during the first hour, cooling will take place more rapidly than where milk is left unstirred. If cold running water is not available all summer, enough ice should be put up during the winter to ensure the summer, enough ice should be put up during the winter to ensure the milk being brought to a sufficiently low temperature during the warmer portions of the year.

The importance of prompt and thorough cooling of milk is still insufficiently appreciated by many milk producers. There is no cheaper and simpler method by which milk quality may be improved.—T. H. Lund, B.S.A., O. A. College, Guelph,
