

the students that he is not still with us. His choice in the selection of a helpmeet receives our highest commendation. We hope all our graduates may be as fortunate as he in this respect.

WELFORD and Mill Branch, Kent County, N. B., enjoy the services of William McLeod. With his wonted enthusiasm he preaches the gospel there, and we understand with good effect and much acceptance. He surprised everyone by being among the first to enter the holy bonds of matrimony.

JAMES F. SMITH, B. A., B. D., has a good field for his talents in building up a congregation from the somewhat scattered elements in River Hebert and Maccan. We wish him all success in his work, and from reports we learn that we are likely soon to have a much stronger hold upon that field. His characteristic perseverance and energy will have full scope in his present situation.

DAVID WRIGHT, is settled at Springhill, a young and growing town, which is destined to increase largely in the near future. His field requires good and noble work in order that our denomination may hold its own. We trust that he is the right man in the right place, and that he will prove equal to the occasion. Coming from the land of Knox, he ought to fearlessly wave the banner of Presbyterianism.

REV. THOMAS STEWART paid us a visit, as a representative of the Alumni; and at a general meeting of the students assured us of their hearty support in carrying on our journal. The editors, in the name of the students, heartily thank the Alumni for this and many other evidences of lively interest in the college. We remember with pleasure Mr. Stewart's visit last winter, when his lecture on the Religion of the Scandinavians took the students by storm. The Sussex people are fortunate in having one so able to minister to their spiritual wants.
