

instruction given in a sacristy to thirty individuals, the religious service of the Irish Catholics has never since been interrupted, and daily is performed in five churches of the city, with solemnity, to 50,000 individuals. The little grain of mustard seed has grown into a large tree. The thirty unknown exiles in a strange land have multiplied into a population of 30,000 citizens having their own place in society; provided with churches for their religious wants; with happy homes for their children, and with prosperous institutions for the care of their orphans and helpless poor. Do you not discover in all this the watchful Providence and the loving care of God in our regard? They who have gone before us were not ungrateful; their good conduct proved their gratitude—so shall ours.

The solemnity of this occasion reminds me of a serious duty. I have to ask your pardon for all my shortcomings during the thirty-nine years I have labored amongst you. Your great charity would fain cover over me, but my friends, it is there great all, but your charity which makes me see them more distinctly and feel them more keenly. Did you love me less? I would, perhaps, grieve less for the fault I have committed against you. I can say it with truth, that I always sought your good, but it was often, while administering the fraternal correction, as duty required, was the tender sweetest of charity wanting; so that I am trying to remove perhaps a lesser evil, I caused a greater one by inflicting pain and suffering. So many proofs of your kind confidence satisfy me that you will forgive me; but even that will not satisfy me fully—ask of God to forgive me also.

What I have said is addressed alike to all the St. Patrick's congregation, yet I must admit that certain portions of it, certain relatives, having made special efforts for the cieities, of the feast, deserve separate mention. We will first take up the St. Patrick's Society. Its privileges place it first amongst the Societies; its duty imposes the necessity of giving good example when the interests of St. Patrick's are in question. I beg to thank St. Patrick's Society for its extremely kind mention of the small services I may have rendered the congregation, and I congratulate it on its generous assumption of the responsibilities of its honorable position of the responsible members of the church. We will take the St. Patrick's Temperance Society next. They will please accept my hearty thanks for their kind and cheerful address, richly supplemented by their generous offerings. I owed them much already for the services they are always willing to render. My debts are now largely increased; so that I believe I shall die without paying them. May God bless them, and make them always examples of piety in St. Patrick's parish. The ladies of St. Patrick's congregation put into the treasury of the church a large amount. To sum already up the church by their husbands, these good ladies gave the money intended for their own use, and this again increased by their labor and by their artifice of charity. Their good works are very artifice of charity. I shall not profane them by holding them up to human praise. The Confraternity of the Living Rosary join cheerfully in the noble effort to reduce the debt of the church. Already remarked for their punctuality at their regular devotions, the members of the Living Rosary become to-day examples of generous devotedness by their abundant offering to the house of God. May God bless and reward them. The children of Mary are never behind in any good work. They are always generous, always open-handed and kind. To give back freely to God a portion of what they received from Him, is to them really a work of love. They are convinced that it is for their advantage to keep God always their debtor. The zealous Director of the Catechism is evidently bringing his dear children in the way they should go, their first lesson in charity has been nobly given to-day in favor of dear St. Patrick's. To help the common fund, candies, fruits, tops and balls are all forgotten. The cents are banked and made to produce large interest by means of concerts and other industries, and all to reduce the debt of St. Patrick's. To-day the children of the Catechism may well be proposed as an example to be imitated by persons who learned their catechism long, long ago, but who have perhaps forgotten a little of its practical teachings. God will bless those dear children, and will bless their parents for their sake. How I wish to thank the St. Patrick's choir for their aid they have procured for St. Patrick's Church. This aid is indeed valuable, because of its amount and because of the time it is given. Others have given their money, the St. Patrick's choir have given their money, but with it they gave the sweat of their brow, and the prolonged anxiety of their minds. God will bless them. If they sought a merely temporal reward, they would find it in their success, and the increased reputation of the choir. The Catholic Young Men's Society have given proof of their good will. These excellent young men, in addition to the example they give of the practice of other Christian virtues, and of a laudable desire for the intellectual culture and improvement, give to-day a beautiful example of charity to the young men of their age. May God help them to persevere in the paths of virtue.

The Leo Club must not be forgotten. They have put their heart to the good work, and the Leo boys—full of fun, of the joys of life, and of play. They say the Leo boys are wild; that may be, but in the meantime I am sure they are quite in earnest about their duty.

The baby in stocks may be a temperature man but he likes a little drop just the same.

It may be only a trifling cold, but neglect it and it will fasten its fangs in your lungs, and you will soon be carried to an untimely grave. In this country we have sudden changes and must expect to have coughs and colds. We cannot avoid them, but we can effect a cure by using Bickle's Anti Consumption Syrup, the medicine that has never been known to fail in curing coughs, colds, bronchitis, and all affections of the throat, lungs and chest.

It is no sign that stocks are feverish because they absorb water so freely.

A lady from Syracuse writes: "For about seven years before taking Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dystopic Cure, I suffered from a complaint very prevalent with our sex. I was unable to walk any distance stand on my feet for more than a few moments at a time without feeling exhausted, but how thankful to say I can walk two miles without feeling the least inconvenience." For female Complaints it has no equal.

AFTER YEARS OF SUFFERING, persons who have vainly sought remedial help from other sources, have obtained the long-desired relief from Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dystopic Cure, which puts an stop to the torments of dyspepsia, removes activity of the bowels and liver, relieves maladies incident to the genital sex, and builds up failing health and strength, gives purity to the blood, and tends to the whole system.

Corns cause intolerable pain. Holloway's Corn Cure removes the trouble. Try it and see what an amount of pain is saved.

Palmistry is not such a new craze; we have known men to sit around a table for hours trying to find out about each other's hands.

The coughing and wheezing of persons troubled with bronchitis or the asthma is excessively harassing to themselves and annoying to others. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil obviates all this, entirely, safely and speedily, and is a benign remedy for inaness, soreness, injuries, piles, heart and spinal troubles.

Georgie: "Do you know, Ethel, old Stokes had a perplexity fit the other day?" Ethel: "A perplexity fit? You mean a paroxysm stroke."

Jaloch Snow, Gunning Dove, N. S., writes: "I was completely prostrated with the asthma, but hearing of Dr. Thos' Electric Oil, I procured a bottle, and it done me so much good that I got another, and before it was used, I was well. My son was cured of a bad cold by the use of half a bottle. It is a safe and makes cures wherever it is used."

NOTES.
On the eve of the celebration of the jubilee of the clergy of St. Patrick's Church presented the most costly and most modern set of breviaries to both Rev. Fathers Dowd and Toupin.

When Mr. Murphy had concluded reading the address from the congregation he presented a cheque to Rev. Father Dowd for $17,206.21 The St. Patrick's Society also handed a cheque for $100 to the esteemed pastor.

After Acting Mayor Wilson had read the Corporation address City Clerk Glackney read the following despatch from Mayor Abbott: "Senate determined to sit Friday and Council will consequently sit to-morrow. With the greatest regret, therefore, I am obliged to forego pleasure of presenting testimonial to Rev. Fathers Dowd and Toupin. Pray present my felicitations to them and express my extreme disappointment at being unable to attend."

At solemn Benediction last night there was a large congregation. Rev. Father Dowd gave out the Rosary, and Rev. Father Toupin assisted at Benediction up to the "Tutum Ergo," when Archibishop Lynch concluded the ceremony. The music was again grand, including the chorus of Beethoven's "O Salutaris" and Gounod's "Ave Maria" solo, by Mr. J. Heenan, with violin solo obligato. The "Tutum Ergo" by Mazurine was only rendered. After Benediction the choir sang "God Save Our Native Land."

Messrs. Notman & Son made a handsome and valuable presentation to Father Dowd and Father Toupin on the occasion of their jubilee. The larger and beautiful portraits of the rev. gentlemen, which have been on view in Notman's window for the last week, attracted the attention of all who saw them. The portraits were true to life and works of art worthy the establishment. They were Bromide finished in ink set in massive gilt frame, the tyt-six inches by thirty-nine. After the jubilee celebration yesterday Mr. Notman presented the portraits to the venerable clergymen and received their cordial thanks.

The "Catechism" address was read in a highly learned and most admirable style by Fr. Mckenna. It was followed by a presentation in gold of $252. Girls varying in age from five to seventeen presented half of this sum and looked infinitely charming in their snow-white dresses and general bearing. They were Miss Frances Donahue, Louise Symons, Bella Curran, Estelle Sexton, Sadie Taney and Bella McAnally. Miss May Eugenie's floral tribute was greatly admired and considerably enhanced the children's magnificent donation. Even bright, intelligent and handsome boys, neatly attired in their black suits presented their large quantity of gold coins on silver trays. They were J. Shee, W. McKenzie, H. Ward, Edw. Elliott, F. J. S. John, J. P. Whelan and Fred Mckenna. The pupils of St. Patrick's Catechism deserve unlimited praise for the memorable part they took in yesterday's Golden Jubilee celebration.

AN OPEN LETTER.
Messrs. T. Milburn & Co., Nov. 25th, 1886.
I wish I had used B.B.B. sooner, which would have saved me years of suffering with erysipelas, from which I could get no relief until I tried B.B.B., which soon cleared away the itching, burning rash that had to long distressed me. Mrs. Edward Romkey, Eastern Passage, Halifax, N.S.

WHAT TRUE MERIT WILL DO.

The unprecedented sale of Bosch's German Syrup within a few years, has astonished the world. It is, without doubt, the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, Colds, and the severest of Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by physician, as it does not dry up a Cough and leaves the disease still in the system, but, on the contrary, removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the disease makes its appearance will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price, 75c, large bottles.

Doctors are disagreeing upon so many subjects that it isn't healthy to go to them for advice.

WOMEN WITH FADE, COLORLESS FACIES, who feel weak and discouraged, will receive both mental and bodily vigor by using Carter's Iron Pills, which are made for the blood, nerves and complexion.

A GOOD TEST.

What everyone says must be true, or have some foundation at least, and everyone who has tested it, says that Hagard's Pectoral Balsam is a prompt and reliable cure for the various throat and lung troubles caused by colds, which are always prevalent at this season of the year.

Some fellow reports having seen one evening recently a burning building in the heavens. It must have been an air castle, built on the foundation of a pint of fiery liquid.

A LUCKY MAN'S GRATITUDE EXPRESSED.

WRIGHTSVILLE, Pa., April 6.

Editor of The Pilot, Boston, Mass.—Thirty-five years ago the Pennsylvania canal boatmen would boat all summer on the canal, and steamboat in the winter. I never thought then, when I boated between Pittsburgh and New Orleans, that I should draw on March 15th, from the Louisiana State Lottery, $15,000. God is great, I thank him for the great favor. I also thank the officers of the Louisiana State Lottery for sending me the lucky ticket. No. 66,551. It only took five days from the day I sent my ticket until I got the money. Yours, with my best regards.

THOMAS FALVEY.

Boston (Mass.) Pilot, April 16.

An old man-of-war sailor, who had lost a leg in the service of his country, became a retailer of wool. He said he was obliged to be a retailer because, having lost a leg, he could not be a whole sailor.
