

of the crime or offence charged were he placed on trial therefor, and it shall not be essential to establish that the crime or offence would be a crime or offence under the laws of the requested country.

If the person claimed shall have been convicted of the crime or offence for which his surrender is asked, it shall be sufficient to prove that he is the identical person so convicted in the courts of the requesting country and to produce a duly authenticated copy of the sentence of the court before which such conviction took place.

ARTICLE X

If the person claimed by one of the high contracting parties pursuant to the stipulations of this treaty shall also be claimed by one or more other countries on account of crimes or offences committed within their jurisdiction, such person shall be delivered to that country whose claim is first received unless such claim is waived.

ARTICLE XI

Either Government may ask for the provisional apprehension and detention of a person, if it indicates at the same time its intention to request his extradition. During the period of provisional arrest of a person, whether pursuant to a formal request or otherwise, for the purpose of extradition hereunder, the legal officers of the requested country shall oppose the release on bail of such accused or convicted person, except in cases in which the denial of bail would, in their opinion, cause injustice.

Any fugitive provisionally arrested shall be released unless within two months from the date of arrest, or within such further time as a proper authority of the requested country shall direct, the formal requisition for surrender is made by the appropriate representative of the requesting country and within that time the documentary proofs in support of the requisition are produced before the appropriate judge or magistrate.

If, at any time prior to committal for trial, the accused or convicted person shall signify his willingness to return to the requesting country he shall, subject to the consent of the competent authorities of the requested country, be delivered to the proper officials of the requesting country for return thereto.

ARTICLE XII

All articles which were in the possession of the person to be surrendered at the time of his apprehension, and any articles that may serve as a proof of the crime or offence, shall be given up when the extradition takes place, in so far as this may be permitted by the law of the requested country.

ARTICLE XIII

All expenses connected with the extradition shall be borne by the requesting country. However, the appropriate legal officers of the requested country where the proceedings of extradition are had, shall, consistently with the discharge of their duties and without charge, co-operate with the officers of the requesting country before the respective judges and magistrates.

ARTICLE XIV

The present treaty shall be ratified by the high contracting parties in accordance with their respective constitutional methods and shall take effect ten days after the exchange of ratifications which shall take place at Washington as soon as possible.
