

envisaged under NAFTA, it is essential that the Canadian private sector act now to position itself effectively in this growing market.

We believe that this message, based on the number of exporters and investors now visiting Mexico, is beginning to be heard by the Canadian business community. We expect that their success will be reflected in improving export and investment performance with Mexico in the short-to-medium term.