CURRENT TRADE CONDITIONS.

ONTARIO.

Wintry weather has put a further check on the consumption of lumber. It has also caused the early closing of inland navigation and the shutting down of mills. Many mills in the Georgian Bay district have logs in the booms which under different conditions would have been sawn this year. Altogether the lumber trade is quiet, but on all sides are heard expressions of satisfaction with the business of the year now drawing to a close. The Government timber sale last week proved conclusively that healthy conditions prevail in the lumber industry, and that the hewers of the forest do not anticipate a disastrous reaction in the industrial prosperity of this country. For a month or six weeks lumber is expected to move slowly, but as light stocks are carried by retail dealers and consumers, buying for the spring trade will probably commence early. Although yet too early to estimate the volume of building which will be done next year, it may be said that in Toronto present indications point to a very active season.

QUEBEC AND NEW BRUNSWICK.

Most of the mills in the Province of Quebec are now closed down and inventories of stocks of lumber in the yards show a reduction as compared with last year. Some contracting for British deals has been done and the prices obtained were in some cases higher than for similar stock one year ago. There continues to be a good demand for spruce lumber for shipment to the Eastern States. Clapboards are slightly higher, extras being held at $44 and clears at $42, Boston delivery. There is no particular change in New Brunswick cedar shingles, which range from $3.35 to $3.45 for extras.
