

Will the Minister of Railways, and his colleagues, the members of the Council, show themselves less confident, will all their power and on the merits of their cause, than two citizens in their weakness and obscurity?

The refusal of an inquiry demanded by public opinion would give rise to the gravest presumptions against the authorities and in favor of ignored rights.

---