A. W. Wright took part in the Breton county election in 1906. A. W. Wright who was a member of the House of Commons, was slower to investigate the case, but before he went to the House he had concluded his investigations.

Mr. Foster informed Mr. Wright of the total cost of the last election, and the voters' lists, included in the estimate was $235,396.

Mr. Costigan informed Mr. Wright of the steps which had been taken by the authorities of the United States to the reciprocal relaxation of the labor law on one side and the United States laws on the other in the Hawaiian Islands. Negotiations were in progress regarding the legislation which was necessary on the part of the Hawaiian Government and the United States Government.

The Cape Breton Election

Mr. Davies again brought up the question of the alleged cost of $25,000 by the Liberals in the Cape Breton election and read the report of the Attorney-General of Canada in which he characterized the election as an unmitigated failure. Mr. Davies said, on his part, that $200,000 was the sum subscribed for Mr. Murray's campaign. He asked that the Attorney-General be appointed to investigate the matter.

Mr. Dickey said Mr. Davies' honor, whatever that was, the loud cries of "no" he would withhold, but he would state that it was not his honor but on personal grounds the facts that Mr. Davies had made his declarations to the House. Davies wanted to invest a large amount of money spent in this way through the proper channels by the courts.

The discussion was continued by Messrs. Mills (Bothwell) and — who pointed out the facts the courts gave to the Lib-

Prohibition Comes Up

Mr. Flint moved that in the House the manufacture and sale of intoxicants except for medicinal, sacramental and scientific purposes be prohibited by law. In opening to the amendment which side-tracked his main purpose, he said that the bill was delayed until the decision of the committee of the court was received on the jurisdiction to deal with it as between the states and the nation. Decision is not due, he argued that there should be no delay, but the subject should be considered on its merits. He said that he had viewed Hansard on the subject with a view of showing that his action at Washington was taken on the stand that traffic in wine was not
