Quebec Man Hasn't a Trouble Left Since Taking Tanlac.

"I have never been a man to praise any kind of medicine, but since taking Tanlac, I have changed my mind and am now ready to tell the world what it has done for me," was the statement made by Marcisse Descombes, an employee of the Quebec Railway Light, Heat and Power Company, living at 33 Signal street, Quebec, Que.

"During the past year," he explained, "I have learned what suffering means, and I got so bad off I can hardly understand how I stood up under the strain. My stomach was badly out of order, and I didn't relish a thing. In fact, I was almost afraid to eat for fear of the suffering that was to follow. I would boast up with gas after meals, and my heart would palpitate terribly. At times I was weak and dizzy, and could hardly stand up, and my nerves were so on edge that the least little unusual noise would completely upset me. Many nights I was so restless I couldn't close my eyes at all, and when morning came you can just imagine how weak I felt. I managed to hold onto my job, but it pulled me down until I was almost a nervous and physical wreck."

"I had never had any faith in medicine, but I kept hearing so much about Tanlac that I made up my mind to try it, and since it has made a clean sweep of my troubles there is nothing too good I can say about it. I took only three bottles of Tanlac, but today I feel better, work better, and sleep better than I have in years. My appetite was never better in my life, and I digest everything I eat without a particle of trouble. My heart action is normal, and regular, and I am not bothered with dizziness any more. My nerves are as steady as steel, and I sleep sound all night long. I never lose an opportunity to praise Tanlac, and already I have told all my friends and neighbors about it."

Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drug Limited, and by an established agency in every town.

GIRL OF 14 IS STAR WITNESS AGAINST MOTHER

Domestic Infelicities of Elora Couple Are Aired in Court.

WIFE GIVEN ALIMONY

Will Get $4 a Week As Long As She Lives Chaste Life.

As long as Belle Ewing of this city lives a chaste life she will be entitled to draw $4 a week alimony from her husband, the town of Elora, according to a decision handed down by Chief Justice R. M. Meredith of the supreme court, which is sitting in the local court house. Mrs. Ewing, through her solicitor, E. T. Essary, had entered action against her husband for alimony and custody of the two children.

On the witness stand Mrs. Ewing swore that her husband had beaten both her and the children cruelly. She said that her husband had charged her with insanity and had taken her to a lunatic asylum, and that the magistrate had dismissed the charge.

The Star Witness. Pretty little Mary Ewing, the fourteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ewing, was the star witness for the defence. She told a most sordid tale of the conduct of her mother, which she alleged had been the cause of her father's death. She charged a number of men who she said used to call on her mother during her father's absence, and told her mother's unseemly conduct.

She also told of the cruelty with which she alleged her mother treated her father. At one time she saw her mother strike her father with a knife. She produced a wicked looking butcher knife with which she said her mother attacked her father. She had brought the knife to court with her mother wrapped in paper. Mary said that she had written a history of the conduct of her parents.

Her father had always been most kind to her, she testified, and she had had no time to choke or strike her. He did not use abusive language to Mrs. Ewing, although she was not always careful in her choice of language. The girl swore that both she and her sister would rather live with their father.

The husband said that Mrs. Ewing had attacked him with a knife and was remained on a charge of insanity in Guelph. Later he claimed she was released on agreement of separation. He swore that on several occasions his wife practiced adultery.

Euphemia Knapp, a sister and housekeeper of the defendant, told of the things she saw when on several occasions she visited the family. Although her brother was at all times kind to his wife, Ewing, using vile language, she refused to repeat what she had heard in court and the judge upheld her in her objections.

W. G. Bowley swore that he knew the defendant for 40 years, and that he had always found him to be a perfect gentleman and at all times temperate. He said that at one time he called at Ewing's house. While there Mrs. Ewing sat in an extremely immodest position unbefitting to any woman when men were in the room. The judge ordered him to demonstrate the position, which he did.

M. Bisset of this city, Ewing's employer, swore to the good character of the defendant. He said that Ewing had a position which was capable of paying her $1500 a year, but that her health had averaged only $750 a year, during the past ten years.

In giving his judgment, Chief Justice Meredith said that if Mr. Ewing had applied to him for separation as soon as he knew that his wife was practicing adultery he would have given it him without awarding the woman alimony. But as he had delayed, he had to take her back to live with him, he did not feel that she could be harder on her than he was personally, and so he awarded her $4 a week, payable on condition that she lived a chaste life in the future. If after a year she can prove that she has been following the straight and narrow path that she could apply to have it raised.

Given To Father. The custody of the children was given to the father. At any time, if she behaves, the mother will be allowed to apply for access to her daughters.

He said that he did not feel the sum of money low because the woman had not acted as became a wife, but because she was a drunkard and he was able to earn money as her husband, who was partly disabled.

The suit brought in by W. C. Cascard, a drover of the township of Malahide, against Wilfred Shute, another drover, for the sum of $1200 and to have a certain amended, was settled out of court.

The case of Doris Harris, who sued Beatty Brothers of this city for rent, was dismissed with costs.

MAURICE GOOTSON LOSES ANOTHER COURT CASE

John Sutherland Succeeds in Getting $12 Back Pay.

As a lawyer for the defence, Maurice Gootson is on the downward slide. This morning when he lost a case for non-payment of wages the second successful case he had had against him.

The case was heard in camera. Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon awarded Sutherland $12. Gootson had to pay the costs.

Cosima Catalano was charged with employing a child who was under age. The case was adjourned for a week.

200 CANDIDATES FOR THE ORIENTAL ORDER

All-Night Session Planned for Friday Evening.

Although not even mentioned in the official program of Odd Fellows' convention week in London, it is whispered about that the biggest and most tumultuous doings of the entire week are to transpire on Friday afternoon and evening. Friday afternoon probably in Springbank Park and Friday evening in the Princess Winter Garden, where the degrees of humiliation will be conferred on 200 candidates seeking admission to the Oriental Order of Humility and Perfection.

Those who have heard of the Oriental Order, you may grasp some conception of its import and mysterious nature. It is a secret society, the official call to Mecca which Grand Hyatt Russell Legg has issued on behalf of the Mystic Shrine of Odd Fellows, is a large single-sheet newspaper which many of the visiting Odd Fellows are passing around among themselves, while coddling their brains how to frame up water-tight excuses which will induce their Rebekah sisters and wives to permit them to stay over alone in London for Friday night.

The Mystic Shrine of Odd Fellows, which is the claim made for Orientalism by its official organ, The Oriental Order, has never been recognized by either the Sovereign Grand Lodge nor the Grand Lodge of Ontario, although it is said to have originated in this province. Some of the Orientals claim that their order is so ancient that they really don't know how it originated. Others admit that it really originated in and derived its name from the Oriental Hotel in Petrograd, Ont., when the Grand Lodge of Ontario met there some years ago.

At a special meeting of the council held last night two proposals were voted down. One of these was made by Ald. Cameron Wilson and was to the effect that the men return to work at the old rate of wages and that a vote on higher rates be taken as soon as it could be done legally.

The other, moved by Ald. Drake, was to have the men return with fares increased to six and eight tickets for 25 cents, to provide the money necessary for increased wages and to take a vote as soon as possible.

Neither motion received sufficient support. The council then ruled that a two-thirds majority of the council was necessary to reverse the previous action of the council in turning down the report of the special street railway committee.

The meeting was hurriedly called to order by the seven aldermen. If any proposal had been approved, would have been presented to a mass meeting of the employees.

Not Very Promising. John Colbert, president of the union, told the council that the day's negotiations between the men and the Ontario Railway Board had not been very promising. Accounts showed that there was a deficit of $100 during the 27 days of operation by the board, and as a result the men will receive only the regular rate of pay for that period. They went back to work on the chance that earnings would be sufficient to pay them their slight increase.

On carefully considering the figures they saw no means of paying the 52 cents an hour asked by the men without cutting the service. One suggestion was made to take off eight cars from the line, and to increase fares on the Springbank line. This might afford three or four cents an hour increase, but the railway board would not give any guarantee to that effect. Taking off the cars would also mean that 25 men would be laid off permanently.

Only a one-way service would be given from the Ottawa end, and three cars, the other three being left in the barns. Two would be taken off the north belt, one of the West, and one off the Normal, and one off the Oxford.

Two cars might be added on the Dundas line. He said that the board had given assurance that it would do so.

Two youths, who were charged with trespassing was allowed to go on payment of costs.

George Beadle, an inmate of the Pontiac Asylum, who was arrested here and charged with vagrancy because he wandered around in a pair of bedroom slippers, has been handed over to an immigration officer.

GORGEOUS PEONIES

Grown by Members of Ontario Peony Society.

The Advertiser received a wonderful gift of flowers this morning "with compliments of the Ontario Peony Society." Great, perfect blooms of peonies, silver-sprinkled with red drops and of varied colors, all in one huge box.

There were peonies of deep rose, others of rose with white tipped petals, pure white blooms and white with shell pink tracings, pale cream with deep edge of delicate pink, and one lovely flower of palest pink, its color emphasized by its lavishness of deep gold stamens, and none the less lovely were the tight buds clustering closely beside the full-blown flowers, with faint hints about their edges of their colors-to-be.

London may well be proud of such wonderful productions of the gorgeous peony bloom.

LIMITED CAR SERVICE

A settlement on the basis proposed. Those who were opposed then asked for an order to rescind the vote. A vote was taken on this and in order to carry it required a two-thirds majority. When the count was taken it was found that there was two votes short of this number.

I believe," said President Colbert, "that the fares to Springbank will be taken up with the Ontario Railway Board this morning. As far as the city fares are concerned, they will remain the same as before, seven and nine tickets for a quarter between the lines that do not pay and three will be added to the lines that do pay. That is, there will in future only be a one-way service on the Ottawa line, one on the North Belt line, one on the West line, and one on the Normal line. The North Belt and Richmond lines never paid. By the new eight cars will be taken off from the lines that do not pay and three will be added to the lines that do pay. That is, there will in future only be a one-way service on the Ottawa line, one on the North Belt line, one on the West line, and one on the Normal line. Three more cars will be added on the route between the court house and Eleanor street, giving a much better service on the lines where the business really is."

The Board's Statement. On the 1st of May the employees of the street railway company for increased wages. On the 5th of May the board, at the request of the city council, took possession of the railway and under a temporary arrangement with the men, the operation was resumed on the 6th of May. The board at once engaged special auditors who thoroughly investigated the finances and affairs of the company and made a report. On the 15th of May this report was forwarded by the board to the city council.

The council, through a committee, agreed with the men to recommend that a bylaw be passed to increase fares. They also agreed with the men that out of the increased fares the latter were to have their wages increased eight cents per hour, and that the balance of the increased fares was to be used in doing certain paving, etc. The council, by a vote of nine to one, ratified the arrangement between the committee of the council and the men, and passed a resolution to increase fares to five and seven tickets for 25 cents. However, when the bylaw to authorize this increase in fares was introduced in the council several members of the council changed their votes and the bylaw was defeated. Owing to this the council to carry out its bargain with the men, the latter on the 7th of June struck again.

On the 7th of June the board wrote the city council, stating that in their opinion there was no need to increase fares to five and seven tickets for 25 cents, and that the board was willing to operate the railway under the old rates of six and seven tickets for 25 cents, and to pay the men the increased wages arranged for by the council. The board also increased fares, the balance, if any, to be paid over to the city. The council, however, discussed the matter, but took no action on it.

The board then agreed with the men to increase their wages by 4 cents per hour, and to further increase fares to five and seven tickets for 25 cents. The money to pay these increased wages will be derived from a saving made by taking five cars off of one line and rerouting several of the lines of the railway. All costs of the operation will be cut down to the lowest possible figure. No paving will be done and no new work or repairs beyond those absolutely necessary to keep the railway in operation.

Under the conditions mentioned the board will operate the railway. The board finds that free transportation has been given by the company to various persons in excess of those entitled to such transportation under bylaw No. 126. Steps are now being taken to remedy this.

A statement has repeatedly been made that the board recommended increases in fares to a scale of 5 and 7 tickets for 25 cents. No such recommendation or suggestion was ever made by the board. We are at a loss to know where those who made the statement got their information from, as it is absolutely untrue and never had any foundation in fact.

The board desires to thank Dr. H. Stevenson, M.P.P., for the valuable service he has rendered in getting the cars put in operation again.

Dated June 15, 1920.

Taking Other Work. Ald. Watkinson said that a number of street railway men had obtained other employment.

Ald. Harley suggested that the men should not interfere if the railway board wanted to re-route the system. Ten cars would be better than none, he said.

Ald. Watkinson claimed that the Street Railway Company had sent its employees to ask the council to pass increased fares instead of coming to itself. Ald. Ashton replied that the Street Railway Company had nothing to do with any request the men were making from the council. He declared that the company would never run the cars again.

J. M. Parker, business agent for the union, also spoke to this effect.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Mitchell and Mr. and Mrs. One Roberts of Toronto returned home after spending a pleasant visit to Mr. and Mrs. A. Birmingham, 586 Dundas street.
