FOUND GUILTY OF DRIVING HIS AUTO

Out-of-Town Motorist Is Sentenced To Seven Days in Jail.

Found guilty of driving a motor car while under the influence of liquor which caused him to run over a boy on King street near the Western Fair grounds on the Tuesday of fair week, an out-of-town motorist was sentenced to a term of seven days in jail in police court today. Evidence given by two court today. Evidence given by two police sergeants, two police constables, one ex-constable and certain damaging statements made by the prisoner greatly outweighed the evidence given by one ly outweighed the evidence given by one lone civilian called for the defence, in the opinion of Magistrate A. H. M.

Graydon.

According to James Haldane, the first witness, who was employed at the King street gate of the exhibition grounds, and who witnessed the occurrence, accused drove up King street from the west. When near the gate, he suddenly drove up over the sidewalk, knocking down a bicycle and then a boy. He ran over one of the boy's legs. He believed the driver to be under the influence of liquor. Under cross-examination, he said there was a place to park cars on the rural deanery meeting.

"He would have to do a lot better than he was doing if he could." was the reply.

"What did he taik like?"

"He wanted to say too much."

"Oh. that's a common fault," Mr.

Meredith answered.

Sergt. T. Lucas said that he acarched the prisoner at the grounds. Paisley said to him: "I haven't anything on me. All I have got is inside of me."

Constables R. E. Brammer and W. Pope both gave evidence.

Had Some Beer.

Accused said that he drank a bottle of beer when he came to the city, and then drove to the fair grounds. He attempted to park his car on the south side of the street, but split his brake rod when he put on the emergency. He could not use his right foot on the brake because it was lame as a result of being kicked by a cow. When he struck the boy he lost his head, and no doubt kicked the clutch and at the same time put on more gas. He admitted having taken one drink before breakfast, but said it was for a cold. He had alither one or two more after dinner before leaving home. He swore emphatially that he was not a drinking man, which he could prove by his whole neighborhood. He had not been drunk in three weeks, and he defed any man to prove it.

'I would be tempted to give the defendant the benefit of the doubt if I had any," he said, "but I do not doubt that he is guilty. It was a serious offence, for it might have meant the death of several people."

In the opinion of his worship, the man's statement that he had a drink before breakfast was enough to convict
