But it's worth while undergoing a heap of discomfort to see such a show as the Barnum and Balley aggregation gave at Dufferin Park yesterday afternoon and last night. Perhaps the crowd in the big tent for the night performance was the largest which has ever attended a circus in Toronto. It is estimated that 16,000 paid admission and possibly 27,000 people were present at the two performances. The acommodation was inadequate at night, several hundreds of late arrivals having to content themselves with sitting on the ground and many others were turned away. The inconvenience of the over-
