Italian Guns Effective.

The fire of the Italian artillery was efficacious in dislodging the Austrian infantry from their defences. Italian foot then advanced and seized two Austrian lines of defence in succession. An underground passage had been constructed to within 60 feet of the Austrian line and thru this Italian reinforcements were poured with great rapidity. Before the Austrian gunners had time to realize the swiftness of the Italian advance the Italians were on top of them and found them still shelling the positions from which the advance was made some time before.
