SHIPS MAY BE LARGER

This Generation Will See Ocean Steamers of 100,000 Tons

Probable developments in the increase in size of ships will form the subject matter of several papers to be communicated to the Twelfth International Naval Congress, says the Engineering Magazine, beginning in Philadelphia on May 23 next. C. L. Van de Sandt in his paper will predict that a few years will see vessels of 20,000 and 25,000 tons, covering the sea lanes of the North Atlantic. In a generation he believes there will be ocean liners of 10,000 ton plying between Europe and North America. This size vessel, he says, will have a length of 1,000 feet, a width of 100 feet, and a draught of more than 40 feet.

E. L. Corbitt of New York will also discuss this subject at the congress. His predictions are based on tables worked out from past increases and from the economic advantages of larger ships. He believes that vessels of 1,100 feet in length in 1918 is a modest prediction.

The future size of both merchant and war vessels has an important bearing on the size of the ship canal. Mr. Corbitt says that important ship canals should be large enough to accommodate the largest vessels afloat, because even the merchant vessels are likely to be impressed into service by their governments in time of war. When it is completed two years hence, the Panama Canal will be the only ship canal with capacity to pass the greatest vessels afloat. Its locks will take vessels nearly 110 feet wide, more than forty feet deep and 1,000 feet long. These dimensions were insisted on by the general board of the United States after the consulting board and naval commission had suggested a size that has already been proved inadequate.

GIRL ROBBED OF $680 IN A NEW SWINDLE GAME

Servant, Looking for Work, is Persuaded to Give up Her Savings

New York, April 18.—Helen Taness, a young Hungarian girl, who reported to the police the loss of $680, finds little consolation in the fact that she is the victim of an entirely original swindle.

Last week Miss Taness went to an employment agency in Harlem, where she met a woman who said she was looking for a thirty-cent maid who did not run around all night and spend her wages. The girl was proud to say that she had saved $680 since she came to this country, and she showed her deposit books from the Harlem Savings Bank and the Germania Bank. The woman employed her and took her to a house in Third Avenue near Ninety-eighth street.

THROWING THE BOOMERANG

Boomerang throwing has become popular in England because King George has just shown interest in it. He first saw an exhibition of the art when he sailed for York in May 1911. The British dominions beyond the seas and met Salt Bush Hill, Australia, before King George, Queen Mary, Queen Alexandra, the Prince of Wales and other distinguished people.

The Australian natives are the most skilful in throwing a boomerang, and their strength is of less value than judgment and dexterity. The boomerang is held in the hand, a slight upward jerk imparts to the boomerang the strong spinning motion. The boomerang reaches the point aimed at, ducks straight into the wind, then rounds slightly to one side and tucks up through the wind narrowing its circle and finally jumping close to the thrower.

AN UNUSUAL OPERATION

Part of Overdeveloped Thyroid Gland of Woman Removed and Attached to That in Another Child

New York, April 18.—By removing a section of the undeveloped thyroid gland of a woman and grafting it on the atrophied thyroid gland of a five-year-old child, Dr. Harrison Bates, house surgeon at Bellevue Hospital, believes he will achieve a cure in both cases. The unusual operation was the result of a fortunate coincidence.

Maria Martin, four years old, was brought to the hospital on February 13. The child was undernourished and weakened to such an extent that after an exhaustive examination the physicians feared she could not live. They found the child's thyroid gland atrophied. Unless it could be made to grow there was little possibility that medical aid would benefit her.

An exactly opposite affection was discovered by the physicians when Mrs. Hannah Kirschkopf, thirty years old, of Bethel, Conn., was taken to the hospital on April 10. The thyroid gland in the new patient was overdeveloped, causing excessive nervousness and irritability.

Dr. Bates and the other physicians studied both cases. They determined that the operation would result in a permanent cure in both cases. Their diagnosis was explained to Mrs. Kirschkopf and she consented.

GRAND MUSICAL EVENT

A grand musical event, which is being looked forward to, is the Artillery Band concert, to be given in the Opera House next Monday evening, under the patronage of Lieut. Governor Wood. The sale of seats opened at the theatre yesterday morning and all day there was a steady stream of purchasers, with the result that several hundred tickets were purchased.

There is yet a number of excellent seats on sale and the management have made provision to take care of the large audience expected. The band is offering a choice programme and will be assisted by two of St. John's leading soloists, Mrs. J. C. Cunningham and Mr. Wharton, who are most pleasing vocalists.

TWICE SHY.

When a certain postmaster began business one morning about a year ago, he found that the safe, in which were kept the postage stamps, had been robbed during the night, and promptly reported the matter to the proper authorities. The latter decided, after an investigation, that restitution should be made of the stolen stamps but that the expense of repairing the damage to the safe would have to be borne by the postmaster, which was accordingly done.

Some time later a second robbery was committed and reported as before, as the result of which there was another investigation, which disclosed the fact that the stamps had been abstracted on this occasion without any violence to the safe.

"But how was done?" asked the inspector somewhat puzzled. "The safe does not seem to be injured at all."

"I made up my mind I would not be caught again," replied the postmaster, slyly. "I left it unlocked."

STORY OF SCOTCH THRIFT.

(London Chronicle.)

It was in the smoking compartment and he turned to the man on his right with the question, "Was ye a match?"

The reply was a haughty negative.

"A similar inquiry addressed to the only other occupant of the carriage met with a similar response."

"Ah, weel," exclaimed the son of Scotchland ruefully, "I must've ye yin of my ain!"
