ABOUT POLICIES.

Our good friend the Colonel is much concerned over the Liberal policy, which appears in its eyes to want distinctive-ness. This interest in the fortunes of the Liberal party is evidence of our neighbor's great kindness of heart, for it is not usual to find men trying to instruct opponents for their good. We may be allowed to suggest, however, that it is not the Liberal but the Conservative policy that is at present being tried in the balance, with a very strong chance of its being found wanting. If it is true that charity begins at home, it would seem wise on the part of the Colonel to exert itself on behalf of its friends, leaving its opponents to find a way out for themselves. This is all the more apparent when we keep in view the fact that the Liberals are not in any trouble over their own policy. They have declared time and again for greater freedom of trade and shown their determination to secure it for the country if possible. The Conservative leaders, on the other hand, are bent upon the maintenance of trade restriction, and their present purpose is to find a way of accomplishing this while at the same time appearing to acquiesce in the popular demand for tariff reform. Perhaps their scheme will be successful, but the signs of the times decidedly indicate that it will not. If the Colonel is not satisfied with our judgment in this matter, it may yet be ready to give heed to that of the Monetary Times, which is well-known as an influential and non-partisan exponent of the opinions of the commercial class. In a recent issue that paper speaks as follows: "The government had the game in its own hands, but it seems determined to throw it away. It could have moved cautiously, but distinctly towards a revenue tariff, and thus put itself on a level with the rising tide of reaction against exaggerated protection. It could have taken a line which would have been agreed with the interests of the manufacturer and the consumer. If the manufacturer were wise they would cease to resist a change which is bound to come; and they would go to work to break as much as possible the force of the blow which will affect their interests. With those who do not see that tariff revision is inevitable it would be a waste of time to argue. If they will not assist one party to make a reasonable revision, they will be likely to have to take a still more unwelcome measure from the other. The moment the tariff becomes a distinct issue between political parties, the possibility of a change made by the government is observed. As an exponent of tariff policy Mr. Foster is doing his best to draw on his colleagues to the brink of disaster." In view of all the circumstances, the Colonel would perhaps find more profit in laboring with the leaders of its own party than in efforts to improve the policy of the Liberals.

THE SEWERAGE.

In commenting on the proposed by-laws a few days ago the Times expressed the opinion that the sewerage law would not commend itself to the citizens, partly because of the magnitude of the local improvement complication. These circumstances caused the piling up of a heavy majority against the law. We do not suppose that many of those who voted were opposed to the construction of the sewers; they only disapproved of the work being done in the particular way proposed. But we are afraid the effect of the negative vote will be a long postponement of the work. Theoretically, the local improvement plan is certainly the best, but serious difficulties place themselves in the way of its employment, and we doubt whether they will be overcome very speedily. Connections with the already constructed sewers are supposed to be made on this plan, yet very few have so far been effected. The city is in fact getting very little benefit from the expenditure it has incurred. When it is found so difficult to secure the execution of the sewerage law, it is not surprising that the city fathers may expect that the building of main sewers will be even more tardy. This fact is not pleasant to contemplate, and altogether the situation is not as satisfactory as it might be. If the people of the city are wise they will set about devising a remedy, since they object to the plans proposed by the council.

THE PRAIRIE FOLK.

When President Van Horne was passing through Portage la Prairie the other day a very strongly worded memorial was presented to him on behalf of the local board of trade. As this document gives a picture of the condition of the Manitoba people drawn by some of themselves it seems to be of interest enough to reproduce the full contents of the memorial reads as follows: Portage la Prairie, May 20th, 1893. We, the committee appointed by the Board of Trade, are exceedingly happy to have the opportunity of addressing you in person, as there are certain matters of vital importance to the present and future welfare of the country, and consequently of your road, which we would like to draw your attention. In the first place we have been instructed to enquire whether the recent announcements by leading articles in the Manitoba Free Press referring to a proposed reduction in freight rates by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company in time to give the farmers the full benefit of the same for 1893 crops, have any truth in them or not, and how much reduction in freight being of far greater benefit to us than a 5 cent advance in the price of wheat, which may happen when the crop has to all intents and purposes passed out of the farmers' hands. We regret exceedingly the recent depreciation of Canadian Pacific Railway stock, but at the same time we do not think it is possible for the stock of the railway company to make any material advance unless the sections in Manitoba and the Northwest Territories are met by the railway company in the spirit of a joint interest. We seriously ask you to consider the possibility of such a mutual reduction in freight rates (say 10 cents per 100 lbs. Montreal freight on present rates), as shall allow of farming to be carried out in the country with a certain measure of success. We think that a discrimination in rates should be given on all grain 2 frosted or lower (say a reduction of 10 cents per 100 lbs. Montreal freight) and 10 cents per 100 lbs. Fort William freight, on present rates) as the most being the "Act of God." It cannot be placed to the fault of the farmer. The action taken by the Brandon farmers in refusing to endorse the immigration policy of the government is no doubt a very strong action on their part but we are of the opinion that in a great measure they were justified in the fact that to-day we cannot keep in the country the people who "have" it is not hard to find. "Lack of prosperity" is recorded in our registration offices. We respectfully submit figures obtained from the Portage la Prairie office alone, this without any increase of population to speak of: Total number of 1887 1888 1889 1890 1891 1892 Chatter mort-gages 232 231 228 238 394 528 Suits 141 157 114 254 338 417 Queen's Bench 81 96 69 184 367 429 Total 474 504 481 731 1154 1574 As already noted in the Times, Mr. Van Horne did not see his way clear to concede the heavy reduction asked by the Manitoba farmers; the grain rates are to be lowered only 1-12 cents per hundred pounds. If the statements made in the memorial are correct, as we earnestly suppose they are, this small measure of relief will hardly meet the case. We fully expect to see these Portage la Prairie people severely dealt with by the government press for "running down the country" and displaying a "lack of patriotism" in the presentation of this memorial.

"HEALTHY EXPANSION."

Government newspaper organs are growing over the "healthy expansion" of Canada's trade, as shown by the returns for the ten months ending with April last. The exports for those ten months were $93,537,602, an increase of $4,101,809 over the corresponding period of last year. The imports amounted to $97,312,740, or $7,436,594 over the ten months of 1891-92. It is easy to understand why a free trader should regard this expansion of trade as "healthy," but not so easy to see wherein it affords satisfaction to the supporters of the "national policy," whose avowed purpose is to check importations. It will be noticed from the figures quoted that our exports have increased to a much greater extent than our imports, a fact which might naturally be supposed to alarm the restrictionists. It will also be noticed that the "balance of trade" is still against us, though the Conservative fiscal policy is supposed to keep it on our side. Finally, it appears that the increased importation is nearly all in dutiable goods, for the amount of duty collected in the ten months was $17,547,102, an increase of $1,457,238 over the last year. The extra goods imported were therefore such as the N. P. was designed to keep out of the country. From all this, we repeat, it is difficult to understand how the advocates of restriction can derive satisfaction from the trade returns.

"Mohammed" Alexander Russell Webb, who is an American converted to Islam, and who has undertaken the work of converting other Americans to the same faith, shows a goodly amount of worldly wisdom in invoking the aid of the printing press. He has commenced at New York the publication of an excellent printed and well edited weekly journal, which he calls "The Moslem World," by means of which he proposes to "spread abroad among the independent thinkers of America a knowledge of the character and teachings of Mohammed," and also to correct errors "into which the masses have fallen, through the false history and misconceptions published by prejudiced and ignorant followers of other systems, who have written about Islam and its inspired founder." He further says: "In undertaking this work, I feel that I am doing humanity a service, and I am honestly and sincerely of the opinion that Islam and the Islamic laws, engraved upon our social system, will prove a blessing of inestimable value, and a corrective of those evils which are sapping the life of our domestic institutions, and with which Christianity seems powerless to contend." An American trying to convert other Americans to the Moslem faith is a rare spectacle. If Mohammed Alexander Russell succeeds in placing the other Mohammed ahead of the Almighty Dollar with some of his fellow countrymen he will have accomplished a wonderful work indeed.

Montreal Witness: Mer. Meline, the author of the French protective tariff, complains that all the great economists and all the great newspapers of the country are opponents of protection and of his tariff simply because they are doctrinaires and destitute of patriotism. These complaints have a familiar sound to Canadians; it almost seems as if we had heard them in a previous state of existence, as the psychological research people say. Has not something of the same kind been said in Canada and the United States? Mr. Meline appeals to the protectionists to establish a great daily journal devoted to the advocacy and defence of protection. Is not there something shockingly familiar about this policy?

A paragraph in the Toronto Globe reads: "On the 2nd of December, 1892, Messrs. Leslie & Sons, of the Toronto nurseries, shipped a large amount of this apple and plum trees, also a large variety of small fruit bushes, via the C. P. R. to Messrs. Fenwick Bros., merchants and planters, of Kores, Asia. Mr. Leslie has just received information from the planters stating that the stock arrived in excellent condition, and all the trees and bushes are growing beautifully. As this consignment has been successful, Messrs. Fenwick have decided to plant more extensively. Here would seem to be an opening for enterprising British Columbians, who should be able to supply any Asiatic demand in such lines as those mentioned.

From the Halifax Herald's report it appears that importers and users of iron who interviewed the two investigators stationed at Halifax offered the following list of grievances: 1st. The duty on iron and steel is excessive under present conditions. It amounts to from 50 to 75 per cent ad valorem, with the duty on the iron when there were local factories in operation. Protection was the object. There is no iron made in Canada now such as is required by the trade. 2nd. Mixed duties are protested against. A common ad valorem duty alone is acceptable. Specific duty is not a favorite. 3rd. It was urged that duty be assessed on real cost and not on arbitrary valuations, which were put on the iron.

4th. The oath required of importers that fishing supplies entitled to free entry were intended for the fishery and no other use was declared to be obnoxious. Because after leaving the importer's hands, he cannot say what use the supplies will be put on in the country. 5th. Clauses in the tariff that make it possible for a manufacturer to import raw material and then to export the finished import the same were asked by the delegation to be expunged.

As the Chronicle remarks, "the concession of even a part of these demands will knock the national policy into the mire, and the railway will be a wonderful cure accomplished by these pills in the township of Ancaster. It was started by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, a representative of the prominent farmer, residing about a mile west of the village of Copetown and seven miles from Dundas, had been given to a young girl, who had been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, the interest taken in the case that the Star decided to investigate it and a few days ago a representative of this paper went up to the Horning household for that purpose. In passing through Copetown he learned that very interesting and interesting story of the recovery of Mrs. Horning. Possibly the fact that both Mrs. Horning and her husband were born in the immediate neighborhood and are presumably known to everybody in the country around, increases the interest in the case. The starman on arriving at the Horning residence, was going to take a walk by herself. She looked the picture of health, and it was hard to believe that she was the same woman who was at death's door four months ago. She replied that she could give him all the details of her recovery, which she did. She said that her recovery was simply miraculous; she took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills all the time, and she could not say that she knew of any other case of recovery. She then gave the following history of her remarkable recovery: "A year ago I was taken ill with what I should not call attention, which finally resulted in partial paralysis, my legs from the knees down being completely dead. My tongue was also paralyzed, and I could not speak. I could not sleep for the intense pain in my head. Our family doctor said I could not be cured, and he called in several other doctors, but they all said in consultation agreed with him. I felt myself that it would be only a short time until death would relieve me of my sufferings. On the first of July last, however, about four months ago a friend came in and read an account in the Toronto Weekly News of the miraculous recovery of a woman named E. P. Hawley, an inmate of the Michigan Soldiers' Home, at Grand Rapids. The story was so full of interest, and I decided to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. When I began taking Pink Pills it was so ill that I could not get out of bed. I was unable to get up for the first few days. Then I was able to take a whole one after each meal, and had continued taking them. After I had taken over a box, I began to experience a strange tingling sensation all over my body, and from that time I began to improve. In a month I could walk, and in two months I was able to go from one room to another. My general health also improved. In fact my entire system was like that of the old soldier, whose case had induced me to take the pills. While taking the pills at the outset I had my legs barked with vinegary acid, and very bristly. It is now four months since I began taking the Pink Pills, and from a living skeleton I am now a comparatively well woman. I am doing my own housework this week and sleep from all pain and sleep well. When my neighbors come to see me they are amazed, and I can tell you there is great faith in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I am glad to give you all the details of my recovery. When I began taking Pink Pills I made up my mind that if I got better I would have the case published for the benefit of others. I am glad to say that I am sure I would now be dead if it had not been for Pink Pills." Mrs. Horning states that she purchased the Pink Pills at Mr. Compport's, in Dundas, and Mr. Compport informed her that his sales of Pink Pills are large and constantly increasing.
