BY ROBERTS, FRIDAY, JAN. 16, 1914.

The Political Situation

Things have been pretty lively in political circles since our last issue. On Saturday last the Telegram published a letter from Sir Robert Bond to Mr. Clift, his colleague, tendering his resignation as the Leader of the Opposition Party, and also intimating that he would resign his seat in the House of Assembly.

The reasons assigned for taking this step was disloyalty and lack of cooperation on the part of Mr. Coaker, and opposition, on principle, to the political aims and aspirations of W. F. Coaker and the F.P.U.

On Monday W. F. Coaker, the President of the F. P. U., wrote a letter to the Telegram in which he denied being disloyal to Sir Robert Bond, and stated that "Sir Robert has resigned because he fears disloyalty, not because he has experienced it. Further on Mr. Coaker makes it perfectly clear that Sir Robert had very good grounds for fearing disloyalty" if he had not already experienced it. "The F. P. U.," says Mr. Coaker, "seeks to control the Government of this Colony." Mr. Coaker, in his letter, also speaks of Sir Robert Bond as a "Dictator," but Dr. Lloyd came out in the same issue and defended Sir Robert against this attack.

On Tuesday the Telegram contained a letter from Sir Robert Bond to Mr. Loveridge, Secretary of the Northern Liberal Association, acquainting him of his political intentions, and among other things stated that he did not approve of a third political party. This matter having been considered by Sir Robert's followers in the House, a conference between themselves and the F.P.U. members took place, but they failed to agree to remain allied to one another, except on one thing, and that was to drive the present Government from power.

Mr. J. M. Kent was later selected as Leader of the Liberal Party, and Mr. W. F. Coaker as Leader of the F. P. U. Party, with Mr. Kent as official Leader of the Opposition Party in the House.

Liquor's Deadly Work

She heard me through without a word, but when I had finished she stood with clasped hands over Bessie and shrieked such unearthly cries that soon the neighborhood flocked to the spot.

"FATHER HAD DROWNED HIMSELF," his body was taken from under the beautiful water and buried in the cemetery alongside of Bessie. MOTHER WAS A RAVING MANIAC. I put the blue bells in a little box and hung them around my neck. After the funeral I lay in the hospital, sick for weeks with brain fever, but when I came to myself, the box was still around my neck; here it is, and he drew from his bosom a small box containing a few withered leaves.

"They speak of sweet baby Bessie," he said, as he closed the box and slipped it back over his shirt bosom.

Then he looked Mr. Merrill straight in the eyes and said: "Please, mister, don't ever vote for whiskey. It killed my father and dear little baby Bessie, and it locked mother up in the mad house. Please don't vote for rum!"

FRIEND—Can you vote to perpetuate the business which killed this innocent girl and her drunken father, drove the loving mother mad and sent the brother into the world a homeless wanderer? Can you vote for this business and, looking God in the face, say you are innocent of the blood of these people?"

Sir Robert Bond's letter of resignation appears on the second page of today's issue.
