ELEVEN MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN KILLED

Tragedy on a Schooner Off Honduras -Murderer Taken From Jail and Lynched.

New Orleans, July 12 .- A shocking story of murder, with robbery as the motive, was brought to this city to-day by Capt. Hans Holm, of the Nerwegian with bullets. fruiter Brattan, which plies between "McGill wa New Orleans and Honduras ports. It was confirmed by the officers of the fruit one of the most striking negro characters Hondurean coast and whose population an English merchant at El Provenir, is an indescribable mixture of whites, and a Bay Islander." Caymanites and Caribs, was the scene of the tragedy in which eleven lives were sacrificed. The captain of the schooner Olympia was about to make a trip to Ruatan, Truxillo and Belize. She carried a crew of four and quite a number of passengers, making the total list of people aboard number thirteen. Among these were two women and one child.

11 o'clock Friday night, June 30th, and after she had been under way less than an hour everybody was aroused by a W. WHYTE'S ESTIMATE shot, and rushing on deck found a negro armed with a rifle shooting down the men one after another. This negro was Robert McGill, and, as it afterward developed, he had stowed away on board and then swimming ashore.

After he had killed all but one of the men McGill ordered the last survivor to go below and scuttle the ship. When the ported the negro shot him dead.

McGill then put the two women, Miss Elsie Morgan and her sister, Mrs. WalWhyte, second vice-president of the CoWhyte, second vice-president of the Coallowing the woman to live and killed Rose and her infant. Then he began shooting at Miss Mergan, who had leaped everboard, and would come back to the dory. She started back and when within an oar's length when Miss Morgan told her story an immediate search was instituted for McGill, and the authorities on the mainland were notified. They caught him at El Porvenir, a little town on the road to Ceiba, and there was a demonstration, but he was protected and his life was saved through the presence on the service and the murderer placed aboard and sent back to the island.

Miss Elsie Morgan, the only survivor of the terrible experience, visited New Orleans three years ago and is a well educated, refined woman of 25 years.

The Murderer Lynched. New York, July 14.—A new Orleans dispatch to the Times says:

"From Mobile late to-night (Thursday) came the news from Honduras, via the Norwegian steamer Condor, that Robert McGill, the Honduran who murdered 11 persons on an English vessel, recently, was lynched at Utilla, Honduras, the night after the gunboat La Tumbla surthere, and six hours after the departure of the ship which brought the first news auguration of the new province of Sas-

Eflau Freight Company, plying between the date of the ceremonies having been Cuba, Honduras and Mobile. The news definitely fixed for that date. of the lynching reached Cuba just before the steamship sailed Saturday night.

"From the brief reports telegraphed here from Mobile it appears that when McGill was confined in the civil jail at Utilla. The strongest guard the town possessed was placed about him. President Berilla had declayed that he wanted no Bonilla had declared that he wanted no lynching as McGill was a British subject but the citizens of Utilla were ject, but the citizens of Utilla were wrought to a frenzy through the narrative of Miss Morgan, who had recovered to tell the happenings on the ship. The jail was surrounded at nightfall, the guard overpowered, and McGill, raving and cursing, taken from his cell. It was proposed to burn him in front of the so far as to build a fire, but the pleadings of the British consul finally prevailed on the mob to put the negro to a less fearful death. He was bound and still protesting and begging, strung up to the veranda of the Morgan home and riddled
