THE SUMMER GIRL'S NEW HOOD. The summer girl has devised an entirely new means for adding to her attractiveness. The latest addition to her outfit is a hood, wonderfully wrought of frills and furbelows, with which she will protect herself from chilly breezes and keep her hair in curl on damp summer evenings. Moonlight sails and drives will offer excellent opportunities for the display of these novel affairs, which promise to be as useful as they are becoming. The hood shown in the illustration has a foundation of black satin. Soft becoming frills of black tulle plisse surround the face and border the tiny cape. Bows of miroir ribbon, in delicate green and lavender, give a very Frenchy touch to this unique headgear, which may be worn with any costume.

The hood ties in front with bows of black satin, but is made very large and loose, that it may not crush the most elaborate coffure. The girl who is afraid of disarranging her locks, however, may adopt the fashion peculiar to the stage peasant girl of wearing her bonnet dangling about her shoulders.

ling about her shoulders.

Dimity Dresses for Summer.

For an unpretentious fabric there is nothing prettier or more dainty that will be worn this summer than dimity. The small cord that runs through it gives just enough substance to keep it fresh looking for a longer time than either lawn or muslin can be worn.

The newest dimities come with colored grounds, but any of the white ones are so well covered with flowers, leaves or figures that they produce a colored effect.

The latest idea is to make a petticoat of the same dimity that is used for the dress, gorling it closely at the waist and trimming the foot with a flounce of the same edged with Valenciennes lace.

The dress skirt is made full but with gored front breadth, and is trimmed down either side with ribbon which starts at the belt and finishes at the knee in a large bow with flowing ends.

A pretty conceip for the waist is to tuck it across the bust in inch-wide tucks, which also extend across the top of the full Bishop sleeves, making an almost continuous effect.

Another idea is to insert squares of Valenciennes insertion in diamond shape across the top of the waist to form a small, sourar voke. The dimity is cut Valenciennes insertion in diamond shape across the top of the waist to form a small, square yoke. The dimity is cut away underneath, and also the lining. This insertion is also set into the sleeves A folded stock of ribbon, with immens bow at the back, and a belt to correspon

"Why don't you wheel any more?" asked the slim girl, complacently, as she stopped to chat with the stout girl on the Boulevard. "One never saw you without your wheel a month ago."

"If you must know," said the stout girl, with the air of making a desperate confession, "I always hated the bicycle, but rode to improve my faure. Nature. but rode to improve my figure. Naturally I stopped when I found it was improving my health instead, and that I was gaining seven pounds a week."

The atmosphere about the shirt waist pargain table began to get disagreeable. For three-quarters of an hour two experts in the savage art of shopping had usurped the place of more modest bargainers, the place of more modest bargainers, clutching and commenting upon a certain pink shirt waist that they didn't intend to buy. Then a masculine looking woman marched up, calmly brushed the talkative shoppers aside, seized the pink shirt waist, bought it and walked on.

But she did not understand why two particular shoppers glared so desperately, or why such a widely appreciative smile spread from one to another of the remaining shoppers.

And ecru batiste made up in the same way is used for the same purpose. Closely fitted vests in truly tailor style are made of white silk, white cloth and all sorts of novelty vestings, and later in the season pique vests of white and pale tints will be worn. The new stiff linen shirt front fastens in the back, and over the high standing collar is a narrow tie of satin, which ties in a little bow in front.—New York Sun

Very elegant black and white gowns are with the price black skirts, the waists with a fight of jetted and spangled net over white satin front and back, and the bodice has wide revers of white moire turned back to show the full front. These revers are draped with the other revers of black mousseline de soie. The collar and draped belt are of salmon-colored miroir velvet. The majority of waist models, in spite of their reduced sleeves, still give much breadth to the shoulders by means of full flaring collarettes, fichu frills on the top of the arm, and short wavy pelerines, more or less elaborate in effect. ADJOINING BANK OF MONTREAL Suddenly Stricken Down by Heart Disease.

"A sad and sudden death occurred to a well-known citizen on one of the leading streets this morning."

Nearly every large city paper contains daily some such heading. The number of deaths from heart failure is very large, but it is only when they occur in some public and sensational manner that general attention is drawn to them.

Palpitation and fluttering of the heart are common complaints. With the heart itself there is nothing radically www.mc. But the system is disorganized, the kidneys and liver are out of order, and the stomach is not in condition to do its work porperly. Between them all, they throw too much responsibility on the heart, and the letter is unable to stand the strain.
