PREDICTS EXPORT TRADE WILL OPEN UP QUICKLY

President of the Massey-Harris Company Confident the "Forward, Canada" Movement Will Be Very Materially Aided by Vast Orders from Abroad.

Unbounded faith in the future of Canada and confidence in the ability of its business men to successfully meet the new conditions and to grasp the opportunities which will present themselves for increased industrial activity are expressed by Mr. Thomas Findley, one of Toronto's leading industrial men and head of the great manufacturing firm of Massey-Harris. Mr. Findley does not see an acute labor problem in the immediate future and is of the opinion that the demand for all kinds of commodities for export trade and the reconstruction of the ruined areas of European countries will take care of the workers released with the cessation of munition work. Speaking with regard to his own business, Mr. Findley is very optimistic and expects greatly increased output and export trade, and the best evidence in support of this conviction is the fact that the firm has planned and arranged its plant to meet a big demand for its products in the next year. The Toronto plant has been considerably enlarged and the firm will be able to handle more men than it did during the war, even at the height of the munition work. Since the signing of the armistice more than 500 men have been added to the working strength and at present from 30 to 50 men are being taken on daily.

The entry of Russia into the war seriously curtailed the business of the firm in that country, then with the invasion of Belgium and France trading with these countries was greatly reduced. The entrance of Italy and Roumania also vitally affected their export trade while the markets of the enemy countries were closed entirely to allied goods. The requirements of the allies made an acute shipping situation and so Australia and New Zealand and even Britain were unable to obtain a sufficient supply of farming implements. As a result Europe and the Antipodes have a great shortage in these articles and will make an immediate demand upon the manufacturers.

The Export Trade.
The implement industry, according to Mr. Findley, can get back to normal more readily than any other industry and the provision of equipment for the devastated areas of Europe will create an immense demand. The export trade, he says, will open up quickly and the urgent need for rapid rebuilding in France, Belgium, Russia and the other devastated lands will ensure an extensive export trade movement from the countries that are in the position to supply the required materials. In Canada the market for implements was reasonably normal and it would be a mistaken tendency to curtail buying in the hope of lowering prices. In almost all industries and particularly those using metals, the materials will remain high-priced for some time to come; and, Mr. Findley does not look for any sudden

ARRESTED ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Trouble on the Michigan, Ohio, Border for Infracton of Reed Amendment.

Toledo, Ohio, Feb. 22.—More than fifty persons are in the Monroe County jail, today, charged with contempt of court and violation of the Reed amendment following the arrest by state troops, at the Michigan-Ohio border Friday night.

Three thousand quarts of whiskey have been seized and are being held in the Monroe County jail as evidence.

Every road, leading from Ohio into Michigan, is being guarded. State food and drug inspectors today began riding interurban cars and steam passenger trains from Toledo to Detroit. At the state line persons known to be carrying whiskey were arrested and held under the Reed amendment.

Five, in a large touring car, tried to drive state troops from three touring cars containing whiskey, which was being taken to the county jail, but were unsuccessful.

MACEDONIA ARMY IS DWINDLING

The Country Now Strikes One as Being Peaceful and Well Organized With Little or no Population.

Saloniki, Feb. 23.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—Macedonia at present strikes one as a peaceful and well organized country with little or no population. Many of the villages and towns which furnished the battlegrounds of the Allied armies and those of the Central Powers have been destroyed and the population scattered, mostly by the Bulgarians, but partly by the necessities of the Allies.

The Allied army of Macedonia too, is dwindling and it gives one a feeling of strangeness to travel up and down Macedonia and see familiar places which once were crowded with Allied troops now deserted. Camps occupied for two years by the Allied forces and which one had come to regard as permanent institutions now are the feeding grounds only of flocks of crows picking about among the ruins of the buildings. It is inevitable that there shall be a readjustment of values, but the lowering of wages must not precede the reduction of the cost of living, in the interest of every one. The materials that will be required for the rebuilding of the devastated lands will not take a sudden drop. Great quantities of lumber, iron and steel will be needed for the work and this demand will take the place of the munition requirements that have held these industries at high tension.

Mr. Findley is of the opinion that every effort should be made by the Canadian manufacturers in the development of their export trade, as this would mean a real acquisition to the wealth of the country, and he thought that a maximum of employment should be effected on the manufacture of goods for sale in foreign lands. Through the efforts of the Lloyd Harris Commission he expected that Canada would share very favorably in the contracts for building material in France and Belgium, and with the assistance and co-operation of the Canadian Government the readjustment period would be bridged successfully.

Canada Needs Industries.
It was his opinion that the munition workers released at the end of the war would be gradually absorbed by the existing industries, and the extra and immediate demand made upon them by Europe. If ever there was a time, he said, when Canada needed industries, and all that industries meant to a country, it would be in the next ten or twelve years. The last four years had shown the worth of industries to Canada and had demonstrated that she could not have gone through with her war without them. No country could have carried on the war without adequate industrial equipment.

New conditions will require new effort, said Mr. Findley, and manufacturers will require to make the fullest use of the opportunities. On their initiative would depend the future of Canada, and he had every confidence that the business ability which had been displayed during the trying days of the war would realize itself in the days to come. The outlook was bright, encouraging and assuring.

DECIDE TO STOP GENERAL STRIKE

Soldiers' and Sailors' Council Make Such a Decision After a Conference in Munster.

Amsterdam, Feb. 22.—The soldiers' and workmen's council at Essen, in the Ruhr industrial region, has decided to stop the general strike. This action was taken today, according to a report from Essen, after an agreement had been reached at a conference in Munster between the commander of the government troops and representatives of the council.

As They Lie.
"Now," said the professor, "supposing that by some convulsion of nature portions of the earth now under water became dry land, what would be the most prominent character of the landscape?"

And the summer girl, who was trying to suppress a yawn, replied: "German submarines."

"FOOLS REPUBLIC OF BRUNSWICK"

The Socialist Republic of Brunswick Only One of Spartan Republics to Survive.

Berlin, Feb. 22.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—Various Spartan republics which from time to time were established in Germany were short-lived, with the exception of the "Socialist Republic of Brunswick," which even after the election of the Reichstag, continued to defy the central government in every possible manner and did not hesitate to insult the most exalted members of the Reichstag. One Berlin paper referred to the new state as "The Fools Republic of Brunswick."

The President of Brunswick is named Meves. He left his apprenticeship to a tailor and has made an uncertain living as a "household man." His wife still retains her position as a "household man" in a Brunswick theatre, and is quoted by her neighbors as having said, "None of my husband's plans ever lasted very long, and it will be the same with this one, so I am keeping my job."

The vice-president of Brunswick is a Jew who was appearing daily in a cabaret before the establishment of the "republic." The Minister of Education is a woman named Pausenauer who was once a domestic servant, and later employed as a charwoman by a woman's club. She then became a landlady.

The office of police president is held by a locksmith who, it is said, objected to taking the place because he had no faith in its permanency and who could only be induced to accept it after his employer had promised to re-employ him if he wanted it.

The government of Brunswick, which holds power only by armed force, and which is opposed by an overwhelming majority of the people, as proved by the result of the National Assembly elections, has organized a national guard and marine division. These men receive 14 marks daily and found. This sum is soon to be increased to seventeen marks. Large numbers of the unemployed joined the divisions because of the high pay. Quantities of ammunition were collected in the Grand Ducal palace, and the Spartans seemed determined to defend their position by force of arms.

All citizens who can do so are leaving the city. Brunswick is feeling floods of paper money which the peasants refuse to accept and which is worthless outside the boundaries of the state.

Newspapers are punished by fines or orders suspending publication if they offend through articles which displease the Spartans, while the Spartans, on the other hand, alone enjoy unrestricted liberty. Freedom of speech is prohibited at all non-partisan meetings.

HAD SEVERE COLD

AND TICKLING SENSATION IN THE THROAT.

This trouble is most distressing, and is caused from a cold that has settled in the throat.

How many people have lost a good night's sleep by that nasty, tickling, irritating sensation in the throat?

The dry, hard cough keeps you awake, and when you get up in the morning you feel as if you had no rest at all.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which is composed of the most soothing and healing expectorant herbs and barks, combined with the lung healing virtues of the world-famous Norway pine tree, will give you almost instant relief in all cases of this nature.

Mrs. G. C. Routley, Bright, Ont., writes:—"I take great pleasure in writing you of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup."

"For several weeks I was troubled with a severe cold and a tickling in the throat. I tried numerous remedies, but found no relief until I used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which I had heard so much about, and on taking one bottle got instant relief. I highly recommend it to those who need a quick cure."

So great has been the success of "Dr. Wood's" in curing coughs, colds, bronchitis, etc., it is only natural that many imitations have been placed on the market. The genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c and 50c. Manufactured only by The T. Millburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

GAGETOWN

Gagetown, Feb. 21.—A serious outbreak of influenza began about a week ago in Upper Gagetown, and is continuing with considerable severity. There are now over fifty cases, every member of six or seven families being ill. The most serious case is that of Mrs. Frank Estabrooks, who has had pneumonia; it is now improving somewhat. On the whole the disease is of a mild type, only one death having occurred so far, that of a colored man, Charles McIntyre, who passed away Tuesday.

T. W. Inch and G. C. Law, who are conducting the brown tail moth survey along the river this winter, returned last week and in practically time since the survey began several years ago, were unable to find a single one of the brown tailed moth in the Gagetown area. The first two or three years, upwards of a hundred nests were found here; last year only three, showing that the vigilance of the government has resulted in practically stamping out the pest here.

Mr. and Mrs. L. S. McKenney are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a little daughter at their home.

History of the War
ILLUSTRATED

Offers You a Complete and Authentic Record of the War

THE TIMES History of the War is a monumental storehouse of facts, illustrations, drawings, maps, cartoons, describing the War from the beginning to the end.

Every day, so long as the present generation lives, reference will be made to The War. Its effects, the changes it has brought about, the precedents it has established and broken down, will mould our daily business and social life.

Consequently a knowledge of the war is necessary. But even more than that, a source of RELIABLE information regarding the war should be in every home, office and library.

It will never be possible now to compile a history of the war equal in completeness and authenticity to The Times History of the War. Many sources of information which were drawn upon by the editors of The Times History are now closed forever. The Times History, written concurrently with the events themselves, will therefore stand for all time as the great, unimpeachable source of War knowledge.

Canadians have special pride and glory in the part their country played in this Great War drama. Canada's record of self-sacrifice, enterprise and achievement is second to none. As a matter of national pride, as well as a means of general knowledge, every Canadian home and office should possess The Times History of the War. For this work completely, authentically describes how Canada mobilized for war, the valor and surpassing feats of her soldiers are told; her achievements in finance, in agriculture, in the making of munitions; the names of her famous soldiers; the battles they fought and won—all this is told.

In deciding to buy this work, you can be assured that no History of the War, no matter when or where published, will or can have the scope, the authenticity, the world-embracing character of The Times History of the War—the product of the best informed and best equipped organization of its kind extant—The London Times, in collaboration with officials of the British Government.

Praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as the Greatest Remedy for Women's ills.

New Haven, Conn.—"For two years I suffered with a female weakness, this in my back and painful periods, and I was so weak and tired that I was unable to do my work. A friend told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it gave me great relief. My pains left me and I am now able to do my work and feel fine. You can publish my testimonial and if your Vegetable Compound does others such good as mine I will be very much pleased."

Mrs. CHARLES E. MORGAN, 37 Seaside, New Haven, Conn.

The reason Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so successful is because it contains the most effective, strengthening properties of good old-fashioned roots and herbs, which act directly on the female organism.

Such women should not give up hope until they have given this wonderful medicine a trial, and for special advice the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lowell, Mass. The result of 40 years' experience is at your service.
