Reunion of Montreal Branches. On Sunday evening, March 24th, St.
Mary's Branch. No. 54, C. M. B. A., invited the members of the various city Branches to a reunion in St. Mary's Church on the occasion of the closing of the men's spiritual retreat. Fully 350 members assembled at the beautiful new Branches to a reunion in St Mary's Church on the occasion of the closing of the men's spiritual retreat. Fully 350 members assembled at the beautiful new hall of Branch 26, where Branch 54 met the Brothers and escorted them to the church, where an eloquent sermon was preached by the Rev. Father O'L'ane, S. J. The Rev. Father O'L'ane, S. J. The Rev. Father read the prospectus from the pulpit, and commented very favorably on the contents of its different pages, and advised all who could do so to join the association. The Rev. Father read the prospectus from the pulpit, and beloved paster as a silliction, and pray that He who does all things for the best may strengthen them to bear with Christian fortitude that irreparable loss. And be it further favorably on the contents of its different pages, and advised all who could do so to join the association. The Rev. Father Salmon, the respected and beloved pastor at St. Mary's, who is also the Spiritual Director of Branch 54, assended the pulpit, and after thanking the Rev. Fathers O'Losne and Kiely (who have concluded a most successful mission in the parish) for their mutting year and parish) for their untiring zeal and devotedness to the interests of his people, he delivered an eloquent sermon on the labors of the noble pioneers of Caristianity and civilgation in the New World—the Jesuit Fathers—and pointed out how insig mission the howling fanatics are who now nificant the howling fanatics are who now cry out sgainst the members of that noble order receiving a small pittance of the large amount that they might both morally and legally lay ctaim to. He them welcomed the members of the C. M. B. A. to his church, and spoke in glowing terms of the good work that is being accomplished by the association. He pointed out the grandeur of men being united for one common interest, and also the effect it had in making men economical and industrious, and ing men economical and industrious, and the ease of mind it gave to the member at the hour of death to know that those he held most sacred to him would not be

A large number of the leading citizens of Stratford met at the Commercial Hotel on Friday evening, March 22nd, for the purpose of presenting an address and handsome gold watch to Dr. Hanavan, surgeon of the D School of Infantry, London, Oat, who, for the last twenty two years, had been one of Stratford's most respected cizens. The following address was read by Mayor Butler :

To M. J. Hanavan, M. D.,

DEAR DOCTOR -Your former fellowcitizens of Stratford beg hereby to give expression to the friendly feelings they entertain towards you and to the respect with which your long sojourn here has

Their regret at parting with you is ren-dered less poignant by the knowledge that you will be only a single hour's travel that you will be only a single hour's travel from them, and that they will often have the opportunity in the future to see your kindly face, hear your friendly voice and greet you with a hearty hand-grasp.

On your own account they can feel some satisfaction at the prospect of happiness before you in your new field of action, but they nevertheless miss you more than it would be becoming to express.

They present you with this watch as a memento of the many pleasant moments they have spent with you, and their earnest prayer is that you may long be spared to wear it and that yourself and your estimable spouse and children may always be surrounded by friends as devoted and sincere as those you leave behind you in Stratford.

Stratford, March 22ud, 1889

After the presentation of the address. Dr. Hanavan replied as follows:

MR BUTLER AND DEAR FRIENDS OF MR BUTLER AND DEAR FRIENDS OF STRATFORD—I assure you that amidst the joy and pleasure of this evening the one and only thing I regret is my total in ability to convey to you in words the deep feeling of gratitude with which I am animated and which I am unable to properly express. However, I know you will be now, as in the past, to my faults a little blind, and to my virtues very klnd. I assure you, my dear friends. wery kind. I assure you, my dear friends, that however much I prize this beautiful and valuable gift with which you have just presented me, its presentation was quite unnecessary to convince me of your very kind regards towards me and your sincere wishes for my future welfare.

During my long residence in Stratford of about twenty two years I have ever and

I am willing to acknowledge and commend about twenty two years I have ever and always received nothing but kindness at your hands, and if it were not that I was anxious to rest a lit le from the toils of an active practice, largely in the country, I would have been well satisfied to remain the remainder of my days in the classic city of Stratford and to mingle with the friends I had known and re.

spected so long. In moving fron Stratford there is one great consolation, that I am not parting from old friends, but will, owing to the short distance that separates us, be able to meet frequently and renew old friendships. I shall take it as a personal slight for any of my Stratford friends to visit London without calling on me, where I hope to be able, in a slight degree at least, to show my appreciation of your many kind acts to me.

I thank you for your kind reference to Mrs. Hanavan, and I assure you she, too, will join in welcoming any of you who can make it convenient to visit London, and that your presence will be like a ray of sunshine lighting up our new home. I shall also promise you that if ever your hearths and homes are threatened by a foreign foe, I will be the first to march with "D" Company to protect the Classic City. Once more allow me to express my sincers thanks.

At the conclusion of the presentation, Dr. Hanavan entertained his friends by an oyster supper at the Commercial Hotel.

LORETTO ABBEY, TORONTO.

Special to the CATHOLIC RECORD.

Thursday, the 21st nst., was a day lcng to e remembered by the se who were so fortunate as to be present at this grand old institution, and to witness the so emn and imposing cere onies which took place therein. At 9 o'clock Sister Mary Irene (in the world, Miss Stafford, niece of the late well-known Father Stafford, of Lindsa) and Sister Mary Mercedes (Miss Curtain, of Renfrew) received t e white veil at the hands of the Administrator of the Diocese, Rev. Father R one . For those who have never witnessed Thursday, the 21st nst., was a day long trator of the Diocese, Rev. Father R one.

For those who have never witnessed this impressive ceremony, it is impossible to conceive the solemnity and grandeur of the occasion. The young ladies, arrayed in all the splendor which this world can afford, adorned in satin and jewels, enter the chapel, which is beautifully decorated with lights and heavy with the perfume of flowers, only to leave it again to re-enter, clad in the sombre habiliments of a nun, an action indicative of their desire to renounce the world, with all its pomps and vanities, for the sake of Him who, on this da/, becomes their divine spouse.

sake of Him who, on this da/, becomes their divine spouse.

Immediately after the reception followed the more solemn ceremony of profession, when Sister Lewcadia (in the world, Miss Maggie Hughes, of Brooklyn, N. Y.) and Sister Christina (Miss Phylis Wilson, of British Columbia, both pupils of Loretto, in Guelph) bo nd themselves irrevocably by pronouncing their final yows etto, in Gueiph) bo nd themselves irrevocably by pronouncing their final vows and receiving the black veil and other emblems of their new station from the Rev. Father Rooney.

Rev. Father Rooney.

The sermon of profession was preached by the Rev. Father Plante, of Guelph, who was present by special invitation, and who delivered a touching and eloquent discourse, reminding the novices of the seriousness of the step which they were about to take, and giving them much wise council.

High Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Father Kiernan, while Rev. Father Hand officiated as deacon, and Rev. Father Kennedy, of London, as sub-deacon.

There are at present over three hundred pupils at the Abbey. This institution, from an educational standpoint, is unequalled. The best masters in the city are engaged to teach the higher branches of art. Nor is physical development neglected, Capt. Clark, of Guelph, being present every week to give instructions in calisthenic exercise.

To attempt a description of the beauty of this grand old larger wealth is evently be read of the strand of the str in calisthenic exercise.

To attempt a description of the beauty of this grand old place would be useless. The interior of the house itself, with its chapel of surpassing beauty, its lofty parlors, its vast study-halls, art galleries, and its not least interesting feature, the dormitories, with their rows of snowy beds — to say nothing of the grounds, stretching out on either side, the conservatories, etc.—would require the pen of a Cicero to do it justice.
