He was carrying it on his shoulder, muzzle forward, when he happened to trip and fail, throwing the gun torward stock formost, and the hammer striking on a log, caused the contents of one barrel to be discharged into his knee, shattering it fearfully. The accident happened in a swamp about three miles from any dweiling. His companions took him to the nearest house, where every possible attention and kindeess was paid to him. On Tuesday morning his leg was amputated above the knee by Drs. Johnson of Stellarton, and Fraser of New Glasgow. He was then taken home and though stiff in a very weak state, strong hopes are entertained of his recovery.—

MILBURN.-Our readers will be that Rev. Wm. H. Millburn, of Jacksonville, Illinois, the well-known blind preacher, has formally withdrawn from the Episcopal church, and united once more with the people of his first love. For many years he was a distinguished minister of the Methodist Episcopal Body, among whom he became tamed as much by his among whom he became lamed as much by his Lectures as his preaching. His "Pioneers. Preachers and People of the Mississippi," gives some idea of his versatility. His writings abound with lively and humourous sayings, showing that he has sunshine within though it is decided to him without. Five years since he is denied to him without. Five years since he withdrew from the Methodists. He now returns, we hope like Richard Watson, to live, labour and die within the pale of that church which God employed as the agent of his conversion. There are others who, like Mr. Milburn, have made an ecclesiastical exchange in pursuit of some imaginary advantage. If they have been disappointed, may we not hope that his honest example will encourage them to "retrace their ducements to assiduously held out to ministers Q.C.
