cal Britaren, Tender the Visitors a Banquet -- The Toss List-A Fle sant Time Spent.

The magnificent banquet in the auditorium of the new Oddfellows' building last evening proved a fitting finale to a memorable day in the local annals of the organization.

In the privacy of the lodge room, earlier in the evening, the excellent subordinate degree staff, under the direction of Capt. Wm. Potter, gave splendid exemplification of the work of the second degree in the presence of the visiting gentlemen of the Grand Lodge, who warmly eulogised the superior production. Shortly before eleven o'clock the brethren and over two hundred of their guests filed into the magnificent banquet half, where a most elaborate dinner had been prepared.

The hall was beautifully bedecked with loyal bunting, while over the with loyal bunting, while over the head of the chairman hung a magnificent picture of Her Majesty the Queen, draped in Union Jacks. The ladies of the W. C. T. U, had charge of the catering and provided a rich and sumptuous repast. Five long tables, laden with delicacies and beautified by foliage were filled by the tables, laden with deficacies and beau-tified by foliage, were filled by the guests, and many warm and fitting eulogies were paid the ladies upon the excellence of the menu provided and the courtesy and graceful attention

A feature of the toast list was also the splendid vocal renditions of E. J. Forsythe, J. W. Wilson and Wm. H. Brackin. Prof. Forsythe gave an excellent rendering of the solo, "The Filag of Oid England," and in response to a hearty encore, "She is Oid England Still;" Mr. Wilson contributed a contral production of "The Man Rehind. capital production of "The Man Behind the Gun," while Mr. Brackin gave a magnificent rendition of "There's heland," by Allitsen, and was accorded an enthusistic and much merited enterpress. The accommonlinents were most core, The accompaniments were most acceptably played by Frank Phelps. Another delightful contribution was the splendid patriotic recitation by Acting Mayor Sulman. THE CHAIR gretted the privilege of thing present. The addresses were exceedingly appro-priate, eloquent and enjoyable, and vere all greeted most beartily.

NOTES.

The musical part of all the proceedings was under the personal direction of E. J. Forsythe.

The trustees are framing a series of rules for the government of the various rooms in the building. Calvin Stephens, the eldest member of the lodge, was present at all the functions. Mr. Stephens was initiated

The guests at the banquet are in-debted to Chas. A. Ryall, of Leaming-ton, for the fragrant Havanas enjoyed during the evening.

There were present last evening some fifteen members of the Merlin lodge Dr. Oliver, who was solicited for a song, responded with a neat address on their behalf.

The subordinate degree team com-prising members of both Chatham lodges were highly complimented by the grand officers and visitors on the excellence of their work.

Nhe ladies of the W. C. T. U., who superintended the tables last evening, did themselves great credit. This morning they were all busily engaged.

All the Temple requires now to set t off properly is that new pavement The patriotic address of W. H. Hoyle, M. P. P., P. G. M., in response to the toast of the Empire, was one of the most brilliant efforts ever heard n a Chatham banquet hall. There was considerable dissatisfaction expressed over the quality of the "souvenir" programs issued but really there was no paticular blame to attach to anyone for them. Poor as they were they were worth what they cost. A l job work has to be paid for at a fair rate. The proper way to secure it is to select the standard it must come up to and then get prices. Where a job office has no reputation to maintain it can tender at any old price and then do the work to fit the cost. Outside of programs everything in connection with the dedication was right up-to-date.
