

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N.S., OCT. 14, 1898.

Editorial Notes.

The government has appointed Thursday, Nov. 26th, as a day for national thanksgiving in Canada.

There are about 3,500 different makes of their patented at Washington, U. S.

The weather this year having been somewhat broken during haying and harvesting season, some little drawbacks have been experienced.

Numerous cases of fraud perpetrated in the police in the city of Montreal and other parts of the province of Quebec.

Sydney, C. B. has a daily paper, the Record, which was started a short time since, and has devoted a good deal of attention to the road reform.

It is time for Nova Scotia to realize that, speaking generally, the means at our disposal are in a measure at least sufficient to secure permanent improvement to the highways.

Miss Cowan's Musical.

The musical given by Miss Louise Wheatley Cowan, in College Hall, last Friday evening, was not favored by a large audience as would have been wished for and reasonably expected.

Personal Mention.

Miss Jessie Hayes is visiting friends in Boston.

Mr and Mrs A. V. Rand are spending a few weeks in Boston and vicinity.

The Hooper-Axford Wedding.

Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 6th, witnessed a very interesting wedding in the parish church of St. John, Cornwallis, Nova Scotia.

The day which was as a summer's day in warmth and brightness, commenced by the celebration of the Holy Communion at 8 a. m.

The church was crowded to the doors and even on the steps.

The bride and groom proceeded to the church rails during the chanting of the psalm; the service being concluded the bride party followed the Bishop to the vestry, and on re-entering the church, the Sunday-school children, over whom the bride had been superintending, lined the central aisle and together with the flower girls scattered flowers at the feet of the newly married couple.

After partaking of some refreshments at the Rectory, the bride party drove to the station to take the train for a short tour within the province.

Every number was admirably chosen and given in such a measure, as to call forth hearty applause.

Every number on the programme was happily chosen and rendered in such style as to elicit the highest applause of the audience.

The Western Vote.

The Montreal Witness gives the following explanation of the falling off in the plebiscite vote in Ontario and Manitoba as compared with the previous provincial vote:

The anti-prohibition press is making a great ado about the apparent decrease of prohibition sentiment in Ontario and Manitoba owing to the much smaller vote polled for prohibition last Thursday compared with the vote polled in these provinces nearly four years ago.

The lack of patriotic interest in public questions of such importance is certainly to be deplored, but the reduction of the number of voters on this occasion as compared with the former plebiscite has no significance, as it could not have been otherwise.

The last week in September is one of the busiest periods in the year among Ontario and Manitoba farmers.

Threshing is in full swing all over the country, and as each machine requires a force of some eight or ten men to run it, when the weather is fine, we could hardly expect that the threshing would stop until the operators would go five or six miles to register their votes.

Those who have sites are also filling them just at this time, and at each a gang of half a dozen or more men are required to keep the backhatch crop being harvested, potatoes are being dug, corn is being cut and hauled, and fall ploughing is in vogue.

The farmer has too many pressing duties requiring his immediate attention, and the plebiscite being often considered a secondary matter, the latter was neglected.

The former plebiscite were taken during the multiple elections in mid-winter, when ordinary farm work is suspended by the frost, and the voters were coming out anyway to choose their local councillors.

High Grade Sewing Machines.

Miller Bros' display of the "New Raymond," "New Williams," and "Wheeler & Wilson" sewing machines at the Provincial Exposition of 1898, held at Halifax, N. S., was certainly very beautiful.

Their sewing machine booth, to say the least, was very artistically fitted and furnished, and reflected much credit on the taste of the person or persons who decorated the show.

Thousands of visitors, who visited the show at that the afore-said firm, Corner of Prince and Barrington streets, was awarded the diploma and medal for the best exhibition of high grade sewing machines.

The exhibit consisted of the "New Raymond" and "Wheeler & Wilson" in family and tailoring styles, and the "New Williams" as a unique family machine.

The booth was a skeleton machine kept running by an electric motor, with a mirror adjusted underneath so as to reflect the underwork in motion to perfection, much to the satisfaction of admirers of art.

Some very fine samples of work done on the "New Williams" sewing machines were on exhibition in the booth. Lessons were given on the different machines in the booth by courteous and obliging operators.

Visitors, as well as all others, were specially invited to the firm's workrooms to inspect the fine stock which consisted of a large number of very handsome machines in oak and figured walnut.
