He afterwards found the corpse of a drowned man, rigged it in his own clothes and and planted it near the spot and then went into hiding. This was speedily located and repaired and by midnight on Wednesday the direct line was again in working order. In the accomplishment of this feat three days were occupied in steaming.

Narrow Escape

OF A NOVA SCOTIA CAPTAIN IN THE CHINA SEAS.

The North China Daily News, published at Shanghai, under date of April 28, says: Of the ships that enter the port of Shanghai there are of course many which have experienced to the full the dangers of the deep, but few can have had a narrower escape than the Charles S. Whitney, a fine full-rigged ship of 1,651 tons, belonging to Parrsboro, Nova Scotia, and which left New York on Nov. 20th for Shanghai, with a cargo of some 66,000 cases of kerosene oil. All went well until the long voyage was very nearly over, but then occurred an episode which those on board will probably remember to the end of their lives. At a quarter past two o'clock on Wednesday morning, the ship was out side the North Saddles, coming up before the wind with just enough sail to keep way on. There was a fresh breeze at the time, a thunder storm was commencing, rain was falling heavily, and in the darkness of the night it was impossible to see as much as the ship's length ahead. The captain was aft examining the chart and preparing to heave the ship to, not liking to proceed in the intense darkness. He had just previously taken soundings and found twenty-nine fathoms. Suddenly the cry of "breakers on the lee bow" was raised, and the captain, rushing to the starboard side, could see a line of foam abreast of the fore-rigging, and close to the ship. Above the foam could dimly be seen the outline of the Louconna reef, rising about fifteen feet above the water. The helm was instantly put hard down, and the vessel sheered off to port, grazing her starboard side between the main-mast and mizzen-mast as she went. On deck the concussion was scarcely noticeable, but the captain's wife, below, heard a distinct grating noise as the ship's timbers came in contact with the reef. Hardly had the rock been cleared when the full force of the current began to be felt on the port low, and by a flash of lightning the captain could see that the current was taking the ship back on to the very rock which she had just escaped. Sail, however, was made in about the quickest time on record, and the Charles S Whitney was hove to for some hours until it was light enough to proceed. It was found that she had passed between two of the three hummocks which constitute the Louconna reef, which takes its name from a ship once wrecked on it. Coming up the river, the Charles S Whitney was making about two inches of water an hour, and the pumps were kept going continually. She will have to be put into dry dock for the damage to be made good.

Address and Presentation.

LAST evening the Caledonian Club of Prince Edward Island, presented the Treasurer, John W. Morrison, Esq., with an address and a valuable breast pin, as a token of esteem for the manner in which he has discharged the duties of his office for the past twenty-five years. The presentation took place in the Club room, and was made by President Irving. Following is the

ADDRESS:

To Jno. W. Morrison, Esquire, Treasurer of the Caledonian Club of Prince Edward Island.

Dear Sir,—A very pleasing duty has devolved upon us this evening. It is to present you, on behalf of your fellow-members of the Caledonian Club, with this breast pin, as a slight token of our respect and esteem for your person, and also to mark our appreciation of your long and faithful service as Treasurer of our funds; and we beg leave to assure you, that we cannot but feel, that the very satisfactory financial state of the Club is in a large measure due to your judicious and careful charge of our moneys, and to your good judgment and assistance in all matters connected with its welfare.

It is now some 55 years since you came to this Island, fresh from your native country, and, filled with that strong national feeling, which is common to all Scotchmen, soon identified yourself with the then existing Scotch Society, where your strict integrity of character and kindliness of manner soon won for you an honored and respected position amongst your fellows, and which position you have ever maintained amongst those with whom you have been associated.

That you may be long spared in health and strength, and that you may continue to discharge, with credit to yourself and advantage to us, the duties of the office you have so long and honorably held, as our Treasurer, is, we feel assured, the sincere wish of every member of this Club.

On behalf of the Caledonian Club of Prince Edward Island.

We remain yours, fraternally,

COMMITTEE:

JAS. D. IRVING, President.
ROBT. J. CAMPBELL,
JOHN A. MCINNIS.

Caledonian Club Room, Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, 3rd June, 1890.

Mr. Morrison, who was much affected, made an appropriate reply. Suitable speeches were made by Hon. A. A. Macdonald, Chief of the Club, and by A. McNeill, Esq. All then joined in singing "Auld Lang Syne," when the meeting broke up.

A BEAUTIFUL CANADIAN STORY.

The Graphic, Chicago's popular illustrated weekly, is publishing a beautiful story of Canadian life, by Mrs. Mary Hartwell Catherwood, author of the famous 'Romance of Dollard,' the 'Story of Tonty,' and other charming chapters of Canadian history and tradition. The Graphic story is entitled the 'Children of Ha-Ha Bay,' the scene being laid successively near St. Alexis, Chicoutimi and Tadoussac. Marie a fair orphan girl; her grandfather, a hermit, at Chicoutimi; Ignace, a brave young forrister, and Justine, his sister, are the the well-drawn characters in this, the best of Mrs. Catherwood's shorter stories. The three issues containing this beautiful sketch, (finely illustrated by Mr. A. B. Davies), may be obtained of most newsdealers or they will be mailed by the publishers on receipt af 30 cents.

PICKED UP AT SEA.

The steamer Exeter City, of the Bristol line, which arrived at New York from Swansea on Sunday night, brought to that port the captain and crew of the Norwegian bark Louis, which sprung a leak and sank off the Irish coast, 180 miles from Fastnet light, May 19. The bark was bound for Quebec and when sighted by the Exeter City was just about to be abandoned by the crew, who, after passing three days and three nights at the pumps saw it impossible to save her. She sprung a leak during heavy weather. The Louis was commanded by Capt. Jheffermehl. The crew consisted of nine men. Capt. Jheffermehl's seven-year old son was taken from the sinking Louis. The bark was valued at $35,000.

The June Messenger of the Sacred Heart (114 S. 3d St., Philadelphia), is a Sacred Heart number. The frontispiece is an excellent reproduction of R. Hess' painting of the ideal Blessed Margaret Mary, in Munich Cathedral. It contains seven illustrated articles on "Paray-le-Monial" (8 illustrations), the shrine where the devotion to the Sacred heart was first revealed to Blessed Margaret Mary, and on "Onewago; a century-old American centre of the Sacred Heart" (6 illustrations), which was once the scene of the labors of the first American Vicar-General, Father Pellentz, the Prince-priest Gallitzin and other eccleasiastics whose names are historical. Other articles are "Certain Traits of Character in Christ," continuation of "Father Sestini, the Founder of the American Messenger," a true "Story of a New York Priest," with the usual League papers and notes by the "Reader." "Blessed Margaret Mary" is an exquisite sonnet by Helen Grace Smith, and "St. Anthony and the Sacred Heart" is a poem from the ever-charming pen of Eleanor C. Donnelly.

A Baby's Allowance.

ONLY $5,000 A YEAR ALLOWED THE INFANT FOR POCKET MONEY.

Two lawyers, three laymen and a referee, appointed by the Supreme Court, put their heads gravely together a few days ago, in New York in order to find out whether an allowance of $5,000 a year should be granted to a two-year-old baby for his proper support. The little chap is heir to at least $500,000, so that even if he should have $5,000 a year pocket money, he would be able to lay up something out of his income. Oddly enough, his father is a poor man, unable through business reverses to look after the maintenance of the boy. This remarkable baby is Francis Marcen Whaley, only son of lawyer William Whaley and Louise McCready Whaley. His grandfather was Nathaniel L. McCready, who left a large fortune to his daughter with power to use the income from it during her life and to appoint any of her children as heir to it upon her death. By the exercise of this power she made baby Francis her heir. Just how large the estate is cannot be told as yet, but it is certainly not less than $600,000, and may be more. Wm. Whaley the father is a lawyer. The trustees were somewhat surprised at the amount asked for, and the result was a friendly suit to determine just how much the baby required. Baby is in charge of an aunt, Mrs. Chisholm, at Edisto Island, south of Carleston, S. C., and is to be taken to Saratoga in the summer as the climate of the island is not healthy in hot weather.

Newfoundland Troubles.

Further details have been received at Halifax of the latest outrage by the French war-ship at Bay St. George, Newfoundland. This place is only 60 miles from Sydney C. B., is inhabited by about 3,000 people and is a famous fishing ground for herring and other bait. On an average 100,000 barrels of herrings are caught and exported each year from this bay to the United States and Canada. The herring season commenced last week. There was a tremendous rue, and the hrif-starved inhabitants spread their nets and gear for an enormous haul. There were six French vessels in the bay seeking bait, convoyed by the French war-ship Indre. On the 23rd inst, the French commander ordered the British fishermen to take up all their nets and gear within six hours. The indignant and terrified inhabitants appealed to the magistrates appointed by the Newfoundland Government for protection. They replied that that they were powerless. There was no British warship in the bay, although the British commander had been warned of what might have been expected to happen. Some of the people obeyed the order, fearing that otherwise they might be destroyed. Others refused, and the French marines removed the British fishing gear, and in doing so destroyed many of them. Then an indignantion meeting was held, presided over by Rev. Dr. Howley, prefect apostolic of the west coast of Newfoundland, and resolutions were unanimously adopted reciting that the fishery was the sole means of livelihood of twelve thousand people; that their rights had been ruthlessly trampled under foot by the armed force of a foreign nation; that they could neither get redress nor protection from their own Government, and declaring that hereafter they would not pay customs duties to the Newfoundland or British authorities. To longer submit to taxation without being afforded protection to their lives and property was to freely submit to legalized robbery.

The resolutions were telegraphed to St. John's and cabled to the imperial authorities. The latter ordered the warship Emerald, Captain Sir Walter Baldwin, which was anchored at St. John's, to proceed to Bay St. George and report upon the situation.
