No More Sore Feet
Thanks to Dr. Bovel's Herb and Gum Salve

Woodstock, Ont.
The Bovel Manufacturing Company, Montreal, Que.

Dear Sirs:—

Let me tell you that I cannot praise your Herb and Gum Salve too highly. I have been troubled with my feet, especially my toes, for many years. My feet would burn so that I could not wear my boots or slippers. I lately got a box of your Herb and Gum Salve and I am glad to say that I am now able to wear my boots with comfort.

Yours truly,
MRS. S. CRONK.

Keen suffering is often caused by such minor ailments as swollen or burning feet—a trial will prove you that no treatment brings such quick relief as Dr. Bovel's Herb and Gum Salve.

Dr. Bovel's Home Remedies are sold by all dealers. Ask for them. If not obtainable through your dealer within a reasonable time, send 25c (in stamps) to us for any article you require Bovel Mfg. Co'y. St. John's, Nfld.

Sometimes I wonder how anyone ever dares to get married.

And that sometimes is after reading in the magazines a number of articles about the impossibility of being happy though married.

"Why I am not married." "Why my wife left me." "Why I wouldn't marry my husband if I had my life to live over again." "Why I beat my husband with the frying pan every morning."

"How to keep up appearances even if you hate your husband"—I quote from memory, so these may not be entirely exact, but I assure you they are very similar to the titles of the magazine articles with which we are constantly bombarded.

And every time a newspaper writer runs out of other material she takes a long breath and proceeds to warn her readers of some snag in the matrimonial river that even the most skillful pilot has a bare chance of avoiding. I know, you see, for I do it myself.

And the trouble with most of these warnings and prophecies is that they are true. But one of the greatest lessons that life gradually teaches us is that no one truth is the whole truth, and that one thing may be true and that another almost opposite may also be true.

And that applies to the question of matrimony as well as to any other. Of course there is no doubt at all that marriage is not the rosy mountain top existence which courtship paints it.

But what of that? Was ever any pleasure, any undertaking, the spotlessly perfect thing anticipation painted it? And yet would one wish on that account to have hung back from all pleasures and all the undertakings?

To be sure, one must bring infinite tolerance and forbearance to the marriage relation in order to make it a happy one.

But what of that? Is there any family relation—brother and sister, father and son, mother and daughter—but requires tolerance and forbearance to make it happy? And yet one would not wish on account of that to be a recluse or a hermit.

Do you know I haven't a doubt that the woman who tells us in the magazine article why she wouldn't marry her husband if she had her life to live over again would probably go back to him if she had a third life after the second.

Now, perhaps you think I'm over-estimating the effect of all this magazine and newspaper talk.

Perhaps I am. And yet I have heard more than one girl say, "Why I positively am afraid to get married. You read so much about divorces and married people being unhappy."

They forget, you see, that the reason one reads so much more about unhappily married people than the other kind, is that everyday happiness makes tame reading, and that newspaper readers would be dissatisfied if instead of a spicy piece about Mr. and Mrs. So-and-So, who are trying to see who can divorce the other first, they should find a list of people who are happy though married in their morning paper.

Cheer up, young folks. Much of life that seems complex when you talk too much about it grows simpler when you come to living it.

Cultivate forbearance and tolerance, get the habit of letting each day take care of its own troubles and a disposition not to expect too much, and I have not a doubt but that some day you and the other half of you may stand on the crest of the hill singing that sweet old folks' love song—

"John Anderson, my Jo, John,
We clamb the hill together,
And monie a cantie day, John,
We've had 't' we ane another,
Now we maun tatter down, John,
But hand in hand we'll go,
And sleep together at the foot,
John Anderson, my Jo!"

Household Notes.

To keep vegetables fresh through the winter pack them in sand or dirt when putting them into the cellar.

Old pieces of flannelette or soft cloth make useful mops. Cut the cloth into even strips and tie in bunches; then nail the bunches to an old broom handle.

If the juice of a lemon is added to a pan of cold water, and the wilted vegetables allowed to stand in the water for half an hour they will be as fresh as when gathered.

If your roses are still in bloom, save the petals; dry slightly, and drop a few in the tea caddy with the tea. They add not only to its flavor, but to its perfume on the table.

When making pies, if you tuck the upper crust under the lower and press down with a fork, you will never have any trouble with your pie sticking to the plate or the juice running out.

When a colored dimity or lawn dress becomes faded it can be made pure white by boiling in water enough to cover, to which two tablespoonfuls of cream of tartar have been added.

Ivory handles that have become blackened may be cleaned by rubbing them with lemon dipped in salt. Stained enamelled pans can also be cleaned by rubbing them with coarse sand and lemon pulp.

Tan-colored linens are used as such as white for the table these days. Such a statement may cause conventional housekeepers somewhat of a shock, but one can easily see what a saving it would be in laundry bills.

Enamel oilcloth on the kitchen table will wear twice as long if several thicknesses of smooth newspaper are kept beneath it. An old magazine on the table will save the oilcloth from losing its enamel by contact with hot dishes.

It frequently happens that painters splash the glass windows when they are painting the sills. When this is the case melt some soda in very hot water and wash the glass with it, using a soft flannel. It will entirely remove the paint.

Coffee stains on colored goods can be removed if at once sopped with a clean sponge wet with cold water. Place the damaged spot over a thickly-folded cloth or basin and keep changing the water in the sponge until the coffee disappears.

How many housekeepers know that jelly is much clearer if strained when done through a fine wire sieve or cheese cloth into the jelly's glasses? This takes out all the scum, which the most careful skimming cannot remove when the jelly is boiling.

A little brush, such as is used for cleaning vegetables in the kitchen, is a great help in cleaning your carpet sweeper.

Keep a piece of sandpaper in the machine drawer for rough or blunt needles; a file, too, will quickly smooth a dull machine needle, and scissors may be sharpened on a large needle or the stem of a glass (or piece of glass) by opening and shutting quickly, as if you were trying to cut the glass.

Young at 81.

Sir Thomas Crosby's Health Maxims. —A Long Night's Sleep.

With pride and wonder members of the City Corporation and of the City Livery Companies are following the public career of Alderman Sir Thomas Crosby, the octogenarian medical man who has been chosen to succeed Sir Vezey Strong as Lord Mayor of London during the coming year.

So many demands are made upon the time and energies of a Lord Mayor-Elect that the five weeks intervening between the dates of his election and his succession to the civic chair on November 9 are looked upon as a period of probation and severe training for the onerous responsibilities of the twelve months of office. Every day has its engagements to be kept, meetings to be attended, speeches to be delivered, preparations and arrangements to be made, congratulations to be received and acknowledged. At eighty-one years of age Sir Thomas is discharging all these multifarious obligations with a youthful vigour that suggests admiring Liverymen to look forward to the Lord Mayor's Show and the Guildhall Banquet, following it as the inauguration of a mayoral reign at the Mansion House that will stimulate energy and activity in every department of the City's life.

"How does he do it? What is his prescription?" ask amazed aldermen as they watch the nimble octogenarian and listen to his clear and vibrant voice. A representative of the Daily Mail recently invited Sir Thomas to disclose his secret.

"Take care of your arteries!" That is Sir Thomas's prescription for the preservation of youth. "In the City of London or anywhere else, take care of your arteries. If they degenerate you get an effusion of blood upon the brain or elsewhere and crack!—you are old at five-and-twenty."

"But what do you do to your arteries to keep them from degenerating?" he was asked.

"Early to bed," he replied, "smoke little and drink less, but first of all early to bed. You know the saying, 'Six hours' sleep for a man, seven hours for a woman, and eight for a fool.' Well, the man who said that was a fool himself, and all the fools who have believed him have found out their folly. A long night's sleep, that is the great rule."

Quarter of a Glass.
"But then if little tobacco and less drink is a good rule, why is not total abstinence from both a better one?"

"Well," Sir Thomas explained, "I have been a teetotaler myself for a time, and as far as I could judge teetotalism did me no harm. I was as well without anything as with it. But if you want to know why, after all my experience, I take a glass of wine I will tell you. It is because I like it, and the Lord Mayor-elect, laughed a great big, hearty, euphonic laugh.

"And there's this about it, my glass of wine is half a glass, and after November 9 it is going to be only a quarter of a glass. When it is every day you have to make a difference. For frequent doses a smaller quantity, you see. But the long night's sleep, you need never vary that!"—Daily Mail.
