Man's Form Excells Woman's in Beauty.

"Man, as distinguished from wor an," says Professor Ramsay Traquair Professor of Architecture at McGill University, "has, as will be acknowleged by all artists, a form more abstractly beautiful than woman. The Greek sculptor, who was distinguished by an exaltted love of beauty, showed his appreciation of this by making all his figures of women very masculine in their proportion, and by em phasising in his female figures the hale." It seems a pity Professo Traquair commented, that with these sanitary, expensive and grotesque garments when there are so many Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism,

Orange Wreaths for Brides.

Various theories have been given re garding the use of orange blossoms as bridal ornaments. The custom is supposed to have been brought to Europe by the crusaders from the East, the Saracen brides being accustomed to wear orange wreaths at their marriage. To this objection was raised that al though the orange tree was brought to England as early as 1290, it was long before there was any real cultivation of it even in green-houses. A second theory is that orange blossoms came to be worn by brides on their marriage because they were not only scented, but also were rare and costly and so within the reach of only the noble and rich, that indicating the bride to be of high rank. A third is that orange bridal wreaths had their seen cultivated for centuries Then

It was only when the fuse was lighted and the heating mixture was working that the gases were driven off. If three drops of this liquid gas were absorbed into the skin it would cause death in most cases, while lesser quantities, down to probably one tenth, would put every man in hospital. This gas, and the common mustard gas which likewise burns the skin, could be sprinkled from aeroplanes in practically unlimited quantities. Thus entire fields, forests, camps, and railroad centres may be covered with the "lew of death"
