Properly speaking "Josephine, Empress of the French," is less a drama than a series of vivid historical tableaux, with strong character adjuncts. Rhea's Josephine is the Josephine of the age of sensibility rather than one who would be portrayed today and in this is depicted the craft of author and artiste. ### THE HYAMSES AGAIN.

Trial of the Twins Resumed and Once More Delayed for a Week

Toronto, Dec. 28.—The preliminary investigation in the case of Dallas T. and Harry H. Hyams, charged with conspiring to murder Martha Wells, wife of Harry Hyams, began yesterday morning before Police Magistrate Den-nison. Over thirty original telegrams bearing on the case were identified by witnesses, and filed as hibits, but counsel for the prisoners objected to their contents being made public. Evidence was also taken as to the application made by the prisoners for the insurance of Mrs. Harry Hyams. The amounts of the notes alleged to have been forged by the prisoners were one of $2,500, signed Wm. Lee; another of $300, signed Alex. Crane, and two of $250, signed Wm. Stone, and Johanna Johnston, respectively, all in April, 1893. The prisoners pleaded not guilty on all the charges, and were remanded tell Jan. 6, on account of the non-appearance of certain witnesses for the

A Reaper That Never Tires. Consumption carries off one-fifth of the human race, hence called the White Plague. Certain individuals, families and races show a marked tendency to contract consump-tion when exposed to its exciting causes. The disease is no longer held to be tary, but liability thereto may be inherited. Consumption is eminently a contagious disease. The home of the consumptive—the railway car, the public hall, the church and the school, one and all, are often infested with the consumptive germ floating in the air. Consumption, like most other grave diseases, is often curable. Millions have recovered. The first stage is the decisive one. Suitable medicine is important. Good sanitary conditions, good digestion and abundant nourishment none the less so. In the way of medicine, Pinemalt and Hypophosphites, the new lung remedy, cannot be excelled. It relieves the most urgent symptoms in all cases.

Have the water just as hot as the patient can bear it, and apply with a sponge or cloth, rather than allow the ankle to lie in the water. Then dry and let the part rest quietly, wrapped in flannels, when an application of hamamelis or veratrum and hamamelis may be made. Before retiring apply a flannel bandage tightly around the swollen part, only being careful that the circulation is not cut off. It is surprising how the hot applications relieve the pain and produce absorption and how the bandage, by pressure, prevents swelling and inflammation. - Eclectic Medical Journal. Huxley's Courtship.

Sir W. Fowler tells the story of Huxley's courtship. When the Rattlesnake was in Sydney harbor the officers were invited to his future wife, whose parents resided at Sydney. A few days after they were engaged and the ship sailed for the Torres Straits to complete the survey of the north coast of Australia, all communication be ing cut off for months at a time, and then she returned direct to England.

After that brief acquaintance, not longer than a fortnight, it was seven years be fore the lovers saw one another. At the end of this time, on Huxley's appointment to the School of Mines, he was in a position to claim his bride and welcome her to her first home, in St. John's Wood. Huxley's love at first sight and constancy during those seven long by years of separation were richly rewarded, for it is impossible to imagine a pair more thoroughly suited than they were. -Tid-Bits.

Labor-Saving Electricity.

The hopes of electrical scientists are more briliant and amazing than anything that was ever called utopian, and make our present-day contention for limiting labor to eight hours a day a piece of timid modesty. If but one-fourth of what is seriously contemplated at present shall ever be realized, the curse of exhausting toil which has debased mankind for countless ages will be abolished and there will no longer be any necessity for pauperism. I have found that by inserting wires in the earth to catch the magnetic currents which are continually passing round it I can intercept enough to be of great value to the human constitution as a restorative influence that works in harmony with life. If the reader will repeat the experiment, let him bury a copper wire in the ground for 2 feet, running north and south, and place a sensitive constitution in connection with the end,-Arena.
