He had succeeded in living down the prejudice excited by the Jameson raid, and despite his secret connection with the earlier stages of that intrigue against the Boer republics he was not unpopular with the Dutch in the colony. would inevitably have returned to power if he had lived to witness the close of the war, and his influence would have been strongly exerted in race reconciliation. Mr. Rhodes shared with Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Barton the distinction of being a great imperialist among colonial statesmen. He was badly advised by his brother at Johannesburg before the Jameson raid, and was misled by Dr. Jameson himself, who had been infatuated with the story of Clive in India. But the great services rendered by him to the empire have not been forgotten. MR. CHAMBERLAIN MAY VISIT

SHOT HIS SWEETHEART AND HIMSELF. London, March 27 .- A shocking tragedy, caused by an unhappy misunderstanding, has been revealed at the coroner's court at Colwyn Bay. A young man named David Richards missed a small box of money belonging to the is disposed to supplant or stand in the shop of which he was manager. He asked his sweetheart, Lillian Keay, who was the only one who saw him put the box of money away, to restore it, thinking she had taken it. She denied any knowledge of the box. He thereupon shot her dead, and turned the revolver upon himself and killed himself too. During the inquest on the two bodies, Richard's employer rushed into the court holding up the missing box, which had been the cause of the tragedy. It had been found near the place where the unhappy murderer and suicide had said he put it. 'PINO LEADER CAPTURED. Manila, March 27 .- Noriel, the only last. insurgent general with the exception of Malvar, still in the field, has been captured by Lieut, Bamford, of the 28th Infantry. A major, captain, lieutenant and five men who were acting as a bodyguard to Noriel were captured with him. They have all been held as prisoners of war. There is some reason to believe that one member of this bodyguard is Malvar in disguise.

SALOON PASSENGER RATES. the continental and British steamship lines have settled their difference, and that an agreement in regard to saloon rates between Europe and the United States will be announced in a few days. LOVE REIGNING IN HOLLAND. Amsterdam, March 27. - Prince Henry of Holland and Queen Wilhelmina are in love again. They have settled their differences, and resumed the honeymoon. It has leaked out that the original cause of the trouble berival about six months after their marriage of a pretty young woman tioned to him.
from Berlin. This young woman had KEPT A FI no visible means of support, but was able to take a cottage on the outskirts of The Hague, and Prince Henry used to take rides in that direction. The young queen had several disputes with her consort on the subject, and the affair has been finally arranged by the return of the young woman to Germany. Wilhelmina is anxious that Henry should not follow, and is therefore again trying to make him happy at home. He is being called into consultation in state affairs, is treated with more respect than formerly by the royal household, and altogether his lot is more comfortable.

MR. RHODES' LAST HOURS VANILLA

Conscious Until Shortly Before His Death.

Death Due to Two Successive Attacks of Heart Failure.

To Have a Public Funeral—Oom Paul Kruger's Scriptural Comment-Voice of the Public Press.

London, March 27 .- The Amsterdam correspondent of the Daily Express telegraphs that on the news of Cecil Rhodes' death being conveyed to him, Paul Kruger said: "The Lord giveth, the Lord taketh away. Blessed be the name of the Lord."

Cape Town, March 27 .- Mr. Rhodes died peacefully yesterday. He was conscious until 5:55 p.m., when he uttered a few words and sank quietly. The immediate cause of his death was two successive attacks of heart failure. At his bedside were Dr. Jameson. Dr. J. W. Smartt, British commissioner of public works; Col. Elmhurst Rhodes, director of signaling of the South African field force, and Mr. Walton, of Port Elizabeth, a member of the assembly. Mr. Rhodes'

> KEPT A FIRM GRIP ON SOUTH AFRICAN INTERESTS.

Up to the last Mr. Rhodes kept a firm grip on all those vast South African interests created and controlled by him. Except that he was more irritable and more dictatorial, there was no outward change in his method of handling men, millions and empires. Toward the social side of life, however, he soured visibly. Once his day's work at the offices of the British Chartered South African Company was over he shut himself up from the curious in an unfrequented London hotel, where he utterly denied himself to all except half a dozen favored intimates.

HIS CONSTANT COMPANION. Dr Jameson was his constant companion. Indeed, none of Dr. Jameson's ndiscretions ever affected the warm friendship existing between the two men. They could be seen in the park in the morning, taking solitary rides on horses, never breaking out from a walk, the cynosure of all eyes, yet severely unobserved of the hundreds of London's political and social leaders who had the right to a bowing acquaintanceship.

SHUNNED THE GOVERNMENT LEADERS.

How they were invested Mr. Rhodes never knew or cared for months later, as that night he went off on one of his wan-dering tours, and refused to allow himself to be bothered with the details of the investment of his million until he returned to England. PUBLIC FUNERAL. Cape Town, March 26.—The government has decided to give Cecil Rhodes a public funeral. His remains will be brought here from Grooteschur for the burial service which will be held in the cathedral. The body will then be taken to Grooteschur, and will eventually be buried at Mattopo Hills. WHERE HE DIED. The cottage where he died was a simple seaside cabin, small and close to the railway. It was ill-fitted to be a sick chamber, although the utmost was done to improve the ventilation, and make it more comfortable. Dr. Stevenson slept by his patient every night that he might be in readiness to administer oxygen, which practically kept Mr. Rhodes alive. Last Sunday he lost all interest in everything, and since that he dozed the hours away.

The news of his death spread found grief. All places of amusement were immediately closed. An open air concert was stopped and the audience uncovered while the band played the 'Dead March." The people then silently dispersed.

PRESS COMMENT. London, March 27 .- The estimates of the career of Cecil Rhodes and the effect of that career on the history of the British Empire are colored largely by the political views of the papers making them. But the opinion is unanimous in the press here that in spite of the defects and the limitation of his forceful character, few men have more profoundly impressed the placid, and a death mask of them will imagination of their contemporaries, or played a larger part in the world's affairs than Cecil Rhodes, and the empire is poorer by his premature London, March 27.—Whether it was death. With the expressions of admiration for his great services are mingled kindly-worded regrets for the disastrous mistake made in the Jameson raid. The Standard says: "There was a certain largeness and magnanimity even in his failings. He remains an impressive and inspiring figure, and the real lover of his country, who sacrificed much to make England great and powerful." The Daily Chronicle says: "There was nothing in the career of Cecil Rhodes to support the charge that he was a vulgar money grabber. There was nothing small about him. Even his blunders were colossal."

The Daily Telegraph says: "If Cecil

Rhodes was guilty of a blunder in 1895 he paid as dearly for it as his most bitter foe could wish. Now that he has passed beyond the reach of malignity or censure, only the magnificent services he rendered the empire he loved will be remembered." The Times says: "With all his undeniable faults and the errors which stands a heroic figure around which the traditions of imperial history will cling. Considerable curiosity is evinced as to the probable disposal of his property and interests. The general notion is that the bulk of his property will be bequeathed not to an individual, but to public interests in South Africa, and that Dr. Jameson will be designated to succeed, so far as any one can succeed, to the charge of his Rhodesian interests. It is understood that Mr.

marred his noble work. Cecil Rhodes

Rhodes wished to be buried at Mattopo Hills, because this was the scene his historic conference with the Matabele chiefs. A dispatch from Cape Town pubished this morning in the Daily Express says that Dr. Jameson is authority for the statement that Cecil Rhode left Groote Schnur, his residence near Cape Town, to the people of that city, and large sums of money to charities. PREPARING FOR THE FUNERAL. Cape Town, March 27 .- The preparations for the state funeral of Cecil Rhodes, which will take place here on are half-masted everywhere. Those who attended the sickbed of rowed over the fact that he left so much unaccomplished. "So little done, so much to do," was an expression which he used more than once. During Mr. Rhodes' illness all kinds of novel means were utilized to counteract the trying heat. Boxes of ice were let into the roof of the seaside cottage at Muizenburg where he died yesterday, punkas were continually kept in motion and extra windows were cut in the walls. London, March 27.—The Rhodeslan section of the colonial exhibition at the royal exchange, has been draped in black. Numerous expressions of regret and condolence have been cabled by members of the stock exchange and others interested in South Africa. After a slight hesitation at the opening of the stock exchange, the tone of Kaffirs was distinctly firmer, showing that Mr. Rhodes' death had been discounted.
