The Guards' Mutiny.

The Guards' Matiny. LONDON, July 23.—The Times confirms in the report of the mutiny of the Cold stream Guarda, and states that it was due to the work of the young soldiars com-posing the battalion being exceptionally asvere during the Kaiser's visit. This caused general ill-feeling, when the bat-talion was ordered to parade on Monday. The disposition to refuse to obey orders was quelled by the officers, however, and the hattalion paraded as

New Trial for Mrs. Maybrick. Lonpos, July 23.—Mrs. Maybrick's soli-citor says that he has been advised by Charles Russell that her case can be re-opened and a new trial had, grounded on the refusal of the insurance company to pay the policy. The solicitor intends to carry out this scheme. Much new evidence has been collected in America. Mrs. Maybrick is in Woking jail, and suffers much from Ill-health.

Defective Game. LONDON, July 23.—In the House of Com-mons, this evening, Lord George Hamil-ton, first lord of the Admiralty, stated that the gun which recently exploded on board of H. M.S. Cordelia was the same pattern as the one which burst on board the Active, in 1883. The admiralty, he said, had ar-ranged to have all the guns of that pattern new in use immediately replaced by others.

between Mitchell and Slavin is the told of the sporting world. It appears that the men quarrelled previous to the rising of the curtain, the dispute being as to their money-making capacities. From this they fell to boasting of their puglihitic provess, threat-ening to knock each other out. Mitchell was about drunk, and Slavin still more in-toxicated. There was a large sudience. The first two rounds were so unscientific as to provoke jeers. In the third Mitchell anded a heavy blow on Slavin's nose, breaking the cartilege and causing blood to spurt in all directions. The autience rose en mosse and shouted "Cownell" "Shame!" etc., at Mitchell. Slavin was enraged and flew at his assailant, but the blows ex-obarged in this real fight were recklessly wild. In a minute or two the curtain was lowered, shutting out the passie from the view of the audience; but the basie from the combat could be plainly hand, and the peo-ple were grastly excited.
