Crosby presided in an efficient manner which together with an excellent program of entertainment and the artistic decoration of the Lodge room combined in making a pleasant and memorable evening.

The following program was rendered:

Worshipful Master's remarks. March-Orchestra. Reading—J. M. Owen. Waltz-Orchestra. Recitation—Rev. W. Bruce Muir. Solo—Mrs. Byers. Song—Male Quartette—Messrs. Elliott, Burton, Spiney and Yeomans. Speech—L. A. Fullerton. 10 Minutes Intermission. March-Orchestra. Solo—Miss Crowe. Stump Speech—J. P. Edwards. Reading—F. W. Harris. Song—Male Quartette. Waltz-Orchestra. Refreshments. God save the King.

The reading given by the Rev. W. B. Muir was much appreciated, and fully convinced the audience of his high ability as an eloquist. His male quartette whose voices blended in perfect unison was rendered with much feeling and the absence of any accompanying instrument added to the effect, Mrs Byers and Miss Crowe sang in their usual good form responsive to the music, while the imitable manner in which Mr. J. N. Edwards and Mr. F. W. Harris rendered their humorous selections left nothing to be desired in this line. The success of the evening was in a large measure due to Mr. Stealy and those who so kindly assisted him in the Orchestra selections.

The Monorail for Canada

The Charlottetown Guardian says—the monorail—a cheap railway with only one rail on which the cars are balanced astride—is rapidly coming into vogue in other countries and is now to be tried in Canada. The system is such that it admits of taking very sharp curves, and hence can pass around hills or other obstructions so as to reduce the cost of grading to a mere fraction of what the grading of an ordinary railway costs. The monorail is especially adapted for branch lines through a difficult country where the traffic is not heavy.

It is well adapted for the carriage of good speed and is little trouble with snow. The Canadian Monorail Company has its headquarters in Montreal, and will shortly supply the plant for a number of lines in Canada. One of the first likely to be constructed will be between Amherst and Tidnish, a distance of 17 miles. The development of the monorail in the sister Provinces across the straits will be watched with great interest, as if successful, it may solve at moderate cost the problem of railway connection for several points on the shores of Prince Edward Island to which the construction of an ordinary railway would be both very difficult and very costly.

Mrs. Lapsire Makes a Hit Handling Reins on the Snow

(Newburyport Leader)

Some excellent trotting events were witnessed on the High street speedway between the Kelly school and Park street yesterday afternoon by hundreds of spectators. The honours of the day were well divided up between Dr. Laccallade and his handsome little Goldie, Mrs. Louis Lapsire and Supt. Twombly of the City farm.

Today some fast brushes are anticipated as the snow has become packed just about hard enough to insure good shipping and the owners will be out early with their trotters.

One particularly pleasing brush was run off early in the afternoon between Dr. Laccallade and Mrs. Lapsire. The horses held together neck and neck up to within the last hundred feet when Dr. Laccallade with a good show of generalship forged ahead into the lead and came out a length ahead.

Persons who have not witnessed these races do not know what they are missing, for more amusing Irishness could not be seen anywhere. All along the route are drawn up sleighs filled with spectators, the sidewalks certain places are crowded, while the windows of every house along the course is crowded with interested spectators.

Perhaps the grittiest driver is Mrs. Louis Lapsire, who won several of yesterday's events. The woman driver certainly knows how to handle her little trotter and makes the best of them sit up and take notice.

Mrs. Lapsire was formerly Miss Lizzie Fitch of Clarence, N. S., and daughter of Mrs. Phineas Banks of Port Lorne.

GOOD ROAD FOR HAULING WITHOUT SNOW.

How One N. S. Lumberman was Prepared for Emergency.

Joggins, Feb. 9.—The snow which fell last week was eagerly hailed by the lumbermen who were beginning to despair of getting their logs out of the wood. However B. B. Barnhill had taken time by the forelock and prepared for such emergency. Last summer he prepared his ponds at considerable expense by levelling etc., and constructed a huge sprinkler with which he sprinkled the road on cold days thereby making an excellent roadbed for hauling to his mill a distance of three miles.

Immigration to Canada

"The outlook for immigration to Canada from Great Britain was never more promising," said E. Blake Robertson, assistant superintendent of immigration.

Mr. Robertson got back Saturday night from a tour of several weeks in the British Isles in the interests of his department.

The inquiries at our offices in London, Birmingham, Belfast, Dublin, Aberdeen, York and other places are much greater than ever before at this season of the year," Mr Robertson continued. "The looking agents also report that inquiries at their offices are exceedingly heavy. In some cases steamer accommodation on steamers are sold out until May. The second cabin bookings are also heavy.

"No, the coronation is working no appreciable difference in our work. It may give more labor over there but it will not affect the British influx to Canada.

"There seems to be a great interest among all classes in everything pertaining to Canada. Hundreds of lectures have been delivered by the officers of our department and the halls have always been filled to capacity. Yes, there seems to be more interest in Canada over there than ever and the people generally seem to have a more extended knowledge of the country.

"In 1910 the total immigration to Canada from the British Isles was 110,000. All indications point to a number considerably in excess of that during the present year. We expect a record number, in fact. Moreover the newcomers will be a sturdy, industrious lot."

One Year's Imprisonment For Libelling King

New York, Feb. 2—Under the head of "Labelling a King," the "World" this morning says editorially: "A British subject has been sentenced to a year's imprisonment for circulating a libel upon King George, and the fact has numerous aspects of interest.

"That royalty should apply to the courts for redress against a commoner is not so notable a proceeding as that the commoner when found guilty of seriously damaging the character of the monarch should get off so lightly. In a day of greater royal prerogatives he would have been lucky to escape being hanged, drawn and quartered or locked up in the Tower for life, according to the usage of the time. As it is, he is punished no more severely for reflecting on a king's honor than if he had circulated the same report about John Doe or any other fellow subject. The penalty in the present case may be cited as an exhibit in the evolution of popular rights. The divine right, at least as concerns constitutional monarchs, no longer confers extraordinary privileges.

"The 'Tribune' under the caption: 'The Royal libel case,' editorially says: 'The prompt conviction and sentencing of the scribbler who had uttered a gross libel on King George will be generally regarded with satisfaction, not so much because of the well deserved punishment which is thus inflicted upon the culprit, as because of the principle which is involved in the protection and vindication of a head of a state against calumny and the warning thus given to reckless sensationalists who look for immunity if the eminence of the objects of their attacks.'
