New Britain, Conn. . Sept. 12th : « A short time since a party in whom I am very much interested was in a position where a suit at law seemed unavoidable, I appealed to saint Anne, promising her if the trouble would be overcome without trouble or expense, I would have it published in the Annals, and would also have two masses said for the souls in purgatory. My request has been granted, and I enclose offering for two masses for the above intention, and ask that you kindly publish the above in the Annals. »

Many thanks to saint Anne for many favors obtained.

Ottawa, Sept. 18th : « In compliance with a promise made to saint Anne some time ago, but until now neglected, I hasten through the Annals to ask her pardon, and offer her my heart full of gratitude. My mother was suddenly seized with a contraction of the muscles of her eye. We were powerless to relieve her sufferings. I applied saint Anne's oil, and a badge of the
