PERFORATED BOOKS OF TYPEWRITER CARBON.

The idea of putting typewriter carbon in perforated books is a new one and will appeal to most people as the most practical form of package. The carbon paper is bound in perforated books of 25 sheets, so that one sheet may be easily torn out without soiling or disturbing the rest. This prevents its becoming creased, thereby destroying its value.

These books have recently been introduced by the Whitfield Carbon Paper Works, of 123 Liberty street, New York, and have met with great success both with large and small consumers. The carbon paper in the books is of a high quality—its manufacturers claim it to be the best on the market. It gives a clear, clean copy that does not smut and will not dry out in any climate, so that it can be safely carried in stock by any stationer without danger of deterioration.

Samples we have received give beautiful results, and we would recommend stationers to write to this concern for samples and their special trade prices.
