

and this has entailed a corresponding increase in the members attending NATO meetings.

It is expected that around 750 persons will come to Ottawa for the meetings, including the delegations of the fifteen member-countries of NATO, NATO Secretariat officials, and representatives of the international press and other information media.