General Rules For Feeding.

Children at all ages should be given food only at regular meal hours.

The child must be taught to chew his food properly. Plenty of time should be taken at every meal, and the necessity of thorough mastication should be impressed. To aid children who are too young to understand this, all meats should be cut very fine, and all vegetables mashed. Prepared cereals require careful mastication, hence they should not be given to little children. Use grains cooked very soft.

Never force a child to eat; if little food is taken at a meal, do not make up the amount between meals, wait until the next regular hour; and above all do not give a child some indigestible article of food just because he refuses the ordinary, simple food you have provided.

Children relish plain food until you teach them to prefer highly seasoned dishes. If a child always refuses an important food, such as milk or cereals, give him this food first at meal-time, and refuse to give him anything else until this is eaten.

It is not wise to allow a young child to choose his food, even from a simple diet. Very soon he will form the habit of eating only certain things and refusing others. Keep him to the schedule you have chosen, and he will learn to eat and enjoy what you give him.

If an infant refuses his food, or takes less than usual, examine the food to see if it is right. Inspect his mouth to see if it is sore. If one of these is the cause, do not coax him to eat, but take the food away, and give no more until the next feeding time.

In case of illness, reduce the food, and give more liquid. If there is fever, give no solid food. If the child is taking only milk, dilute it.

Very warm weather, give less food, particularly less solid food, but plenty of water.

THE DANGER OF ANAEMIA

CONSUMPTION MAY FOLLOW UNLESS ITS RAVAGES ARE CHECKED.

There is danger to every girl and every woman who falls a victim to anaemia—that is, bloodlessness. They become listless, feel too weak, too wretched, and too hopeless to take prompt steps to stop the trouble. Too often, through neglect, they drift into a worse condition, forgetting that anaemia frequently leads on to consumption. If you are anaemic in the least degree, you should lose no time in beginning treatment to increase and enrich the blood supply. To do this, there is no other medicine so good as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills help make rich, red blood, which drives out disease, and brings again the bloom of health to pale and sorrow cheeks. There are thousands of women and growing girls in Canada who owe their present good health to the timely use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Among those who have been restored to health by this great medicine is Miss Rose Neville, Mount Forest, Ont., who says: "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills performed almost a miracle in my case. I was a victim of anaemia in what my friends considered a dangerous form. I was pale, always felt tired out, suffered from severe headaches and had no appetite. I was taking doctor's medicine for a long time—in fact I took two doctors—but instead of improving, I found my health again as good as ever it had been. In fact, I am stronger than ever I was before. My parents were at a loss to know what to do for me, and thought I would not recover. Then a friend advised Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I had only taken them a few weeks when I began to feel better. This greatly encouraged me, and I continued taking the Pills for some time longer, and found my health again as good as ever it had been. In fact, I am stronger than ever I was before. I have advised the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to other girls, who have found the results equally beneficial."

Sold by all medicine dealers, or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

What Mayonnaise Is

EVERYONE is aware that no set of terms in French or English is so obscure as those connected with food.

For generations men and chefs have argued about the word mayonnaise. Did it come from the French verb "manier" and refer to the movement required to produce it? Or is it named in honor of the siege of Mahon, as some writers insist?

Have it whichever way you like—use its name as an adjective or a noun; there is nothing in a name after all—but be sure not to be indifferent to its concocting.

Because its ingredients are simple and few is not a reason for thinking that anyone can make it. Epicures rate it as a high accomplishment to make it rightly, and always insist that you keep in mind the old Spanish proverb that says four persons are needed: a spendthrift for oil, a miser for vinegar, a counselor for salt and a madman to stir it.

A true mayonnaise is made with no ingredients but the yolk of eggs, oil, vinegar, salt, pepper and mustard. When anything else is added it is not mayonnaise, but a salad dressing, a sauce, or what you will.

Lay out the named ingredients and beat the yolk of two eggs in a deep bowl until they are smooth and free from big bubbles. Mix a salt-spoon of pepper and two of salt together with a half a spoonful of best French mustard and add these to the beaten eggs. With the left hand pour in, drop by drop, the purest oil, stirring the mixture furiously all the while. When it is so stiff it can be inverted without spilling, drop in sparingly two tablespoons of vinegar.

Almost anyone can make a mayonnaise if they will have the ingredients, the mixing bowl, the silver, or wooden, mixing fork, everything in fact, well chilled at the beginning. Then there will be no danger of the mixture when the vinegar is added.

The majority of recipes call for olive oil, but I find that few families like its nutty flavor and often strong odor.

There are several nut oils on sale that are odorless and tasteless. I use both cotton seed and peanut oil, and often recommend coconut oil.

A pint of American salad oil can be worked into two egg yolks if the mixing is done evenly and slowly and directions followed.

The beating should be an over-hand motion from left to right, and not by fits and starts. If the dressing should break, which his very unlikely, do not throw it away, but cool another bowl, beat another egg yolk and season it and add the broken or curdled sauce to it, in the place of more oil. Soon it will all be worked in and no harm done, except you will have more mayonnaise than you planned to make in the first place.

It keeps indefinitely if tightly corked and not heated, and you will be glad to have it at hand when next you have the goods for a salad or some cold meat for dinner.

When hard-boiled eggs are added to this dressing it becomes Remoulade sauce. Fresh salad herbs, like parsley, chervil, burnet, chives and mint, are sometimes pounded to a paste in a mortar and added to mayonnaise when it becomes Sauce Verte. Indeed, there are hundreds of variations, but none of these are the true mayonnaise; each has its special name, and is especially fitted for some particular food.

"He who invents a new sauce," claimed Careme, the greatest of chefs, "is equal to the discoverer of a new planet and a great benefactor to mankind. For the planet may only be looked at, whereas the sauce adds a spice to life."

A Dainty Frock of Linen

Simple one-piece dresses are always pretty and always satisfactory for girls. This one consists of a plain little blouse with set-in sleeves and a five gored skirt. The two are joined by means of a belt and are closed together a little to the left of the front. Here the dress is finished with short sleeves and square neck but it can be made high in the neck and finished with a round collar and the sleeves can be made three-quarter or full length. There is an inverted plait at each side of the back gore. In the illustration, pink linen is selected and embroidered with white and the effect is charming. French gingham would be pretty finished in the same way or with banding in place of the hand work. Checked gingham could be trimmed with plain color or white linen with colored. In addition to its other advantages, the dress can be opened for its entire length and so can be laundered easily.

For the 12 year size, the dress will require 4 1/2 yards of material 27, 3 3/4 yards 36 or 2 3/4 yards 44 inches wide.

The May Manton pattern of the dress 4782 is cut in sizes for girls from 10 to 14 years of age. It will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper, on receipt of 15 cents.

Secret of Mysterious Power Revealed at Last

How Prominent People Have Gained Wealth and Fame.

Simple Method that enables anyone to control thoughts and acts of others, cure diseases and habits without drugs, win the love and friendship of others and read the secret thoughts and desires of people though thousands of miles away.

"TO UPLIFT AND BENEFIT MANKIND," SAYS THE REV. JAMES STANLEY WENTZ.

WONDERFUL BOOK DESCRIBING THIS STRANGE FORCE AND A CHARACTER DELINEATION POST FREE TO ALL WHO WRITE AT ONCE.

The National Institute of Sciences of London, England, has appropriated $25,000 toward a fund for the free distribution of Prof. Knowles' new book, "The Key to the Development of the Inner Forces." The book lays bare many astounding facts concerning the practices of Eastern Yogis and explains a wonderfully simple system for the development of Personal Magnetism, Hypnotism and Telepathic Powers, and the curing of diseases and habits without drugs. The subject of practical character reading is also extensively dealt with, and the author describes a simple method of accurately reading the secret thoughts and desires of others though thousands of miles away. The almost endless stream of letters requesting copies of the book and character delineations indicate clearly the universal interest in Psychological and Occult Sciences.

The Rev. James Stanley Wentz says: "No one can give the system a careful perusal without becoming satisfied that in giving this knowledge to the world Prof. Knowles is actuated by the earnest desire to uplift and benefit mankind. I heartily recommend this course to all who desire to develop and cultivate their inner forces."

A leading London Physician, Dr. R. N. Pickering, M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P., L.S.A., in a letter to Prof. Knowles says: "I consider your system the most complete and accurate literature upon the subject. You have treated the science with much ability."

A prominent American Physician, A. W. Fisher, M.D., Ph.D., M.R., Principal of the Douglas Institute, writes: "Your system is very useful to me in my practice."

The Rev. Knowles, "and the person who wishes to achieve greater success has but to apply the simple rules laid down." "Many wealthy and prominent people owe their success to the power of Personal Influence which is not the slightest doubt, but the great mass of people have remained in utter ignorance of these phenomena. The National Institute of Sciences has therefore undertaken the somewhat arduous task of distributing broadcast, without regard for class or creed, the information heretofore possessed by the few. In addition to supplying the books free, the person who writes at once will receive a character delineation of from 400 to 500 words, as prepared by Prof. Knowles."

If you wish a copy of Prof. Knowles' book and a Character Delineation, simply copy the following verse in your own handwriting: "I want power of mind. Force and strength in my look. Please read my character. And send me your book."

Also send your full name and address (state whether Mr., or Miss), write plainly, and address your letter to: National Institute of Sciences, Dept. 334 C, No. 238 Westminster Bridge Road, London, S.E., England. If you wish you may enclose 10 cents (stamps of your own country), to pay postage on letters to England, two cents.
