Chicago Gossip.

Marshall, Spader & Co. wired J. G. Beaty, King Edward Hotel, at the close of the market to-day:

The early influences of unresponsive cables and better weather induced considerable selling at a lower level of prices, but offerings were well absorbed, and when it transpired that there had been few acceptances abroad over night of wheat offered from the southwest, there was a seramble to cover by the early sellers, and a sharp advance. The movement was smaller than last year of winter wheat, but larger of spring making the totals about the same and there are predictions of very liberal marketings in the northwest in the near future. In this event we should have some setback from this advance of 3c a bushel, especially as the technical position has been weakened by the reduction of the short interest.

weakened by the reduction of the savet reterest.

Ennis & Stoppani wired to J. L. Mitchell, McKinnon Bullding:

Wheat—A liberal supply of bearish news during the early part of the session induced fair short sales on the part of local traders, but later in the day reports of export business and disappointing advices regarding the harvest in sections of the spring wheat country, caused early sellers to seek shelter and advanced prices about 1c from the 5w point, and closed the market firm around the top. The best buying was for the account of a prominent local operator, who has been absorbing offerings for the past few days.

day in evidence.

Provisions firm and higher on good support from insiders.

Charles W. Gillett to J. Melady. Board of Trade Bullding:

Wheat—Market ruled strong all day. Higher continental and English cables and small quantity of wheat worked at seaboard and outports, restricted domestic movement and better cash demand, unsatisfactory threshing returns from northwest, along with good character of buying in pit, all contributed to a stronger market, On the other hand, small volume of outside trade and small clearances were the adverse factors. Acceptances on bids sent out last night were very light. On any further raily we would advise selling wheat with a view to buying again on any setback, unless there is a larger export demand.

Corn—Very poor export demand and less urgent domestic enquiry, together with good progress being made for growing crops. Two more weeks of good weather will put the crop out of frost danger, and these were hearish factors. On the other hand, very low reserves of old corn, coupled with low prices of futures and very light acceptances on bids sent to the country last night, caused corn to sympathize with the strength in wheat.

Oats—Were legitimately strong all day. A very large export enquiry again being manifested, and if this demand should continue we look for much higher prices for oats.

Dun's Trade Review.

Trade conditions at Montreal are little changed since a week ago, and in nearly all lines there is a pronounced expectation of an active and profitable fall trade. Collections are fair to good, and the money market is apparently well supplied with funds, call loans being quoted at 4 to 4½ per cent. With a rather firmer market for si gars the demand at the refineries shows some improvement, but quotations are unchanged as yet at $4.90 for standard granulated; molasses is dull and easy at 32c for Barbados in round lots. Hides are very firm at 11c to 11½c for No. 1, and the moderate offerings are readily absorbed by taurers. Boot and shoe manufacturers are now mainly occupied on new samples, and are still light buyers of leather, but values in this latter line are very firmly held. Dry goods show a fair movement. New price lists just out for domestic manufacturers of fine ginghams, for 1906 delivery, show quotations just the same as fast year; woolens generally and linens show great firmness. Shipments of dairy products continue liberal, the aggregate exports of both butter and cheese for the season being even ahead of last year's large figures, and farmers are reallizing excellent returns from their cows, with finest grades of cheese bringing 11½c to 11½c, and choice creamery butter 22c to 22½c.

was active. The large number of country merchants who visited the city, primarily to see the exhibition, left many orders with our jobbers, and in consequence the store trade was unusually brisk. The dry goods and millinery houses report a very large business, and the outlook is promising. Remittances this month were unusually good, and the situation appears sound. The staple lines are very firm, and there is little evidence of cutting prices. On the contrary the tendency is towards increased firmness. The hardware and grocery merchants did a good trade, with staple lines in demand. Leather is fairly active at the advanced prices. Hides, calfskins and landskins are in active demand, and the big prices of last week are still being paid by some dealers. Ontario and Manitoba wheats are easier, with buyers holding off. The export surplus will be large, and shippers say that prices will have to decline further. The dairy markets are higher, and cured meats find ready sale. In the district this week only three failures were reported, track of the Grand Trunk Railway. In bold prices of last week are still being paid by some dealers. OBITUARY.

The body was torn to pieces, and with the mutilated trunk was found only one arm; the other limbs and the head were a half a mile or more away, in opposite directions. The man's watch and coat were found not far from the trunk, and afforded the only means of identification. Cannon left the Goldstone Hotel at 10 o'clock on Wednesday night, and proceeded homeward, as usual, along the track. He was struck by a special train which passed northward 'shortly before midnight.

His brother, Martin J. Cannon, is a motorman on the Toronto Street Rail-way.
